

NOW, LOOK HERE

AT a meeting of the business men at the Salem Board of Trade rooms a few nights ago the opinion was expressed that land around Salem was offered for sale too cheap, and that for this reason people did not value the land around here the way they should, but would go to Hood River or Medford and pay from $1000 to $1500 an acre for land which is no better, but which had been improved. Strangers are coming in every day and picking up the land near Salem, and one of these fine days when you go out to get a little farm, Mr. Salem Man, you will find a stranger asking you several hundred dollars an acre for it, and you will say: "Pshaw, I could have bought that land a few years ago at $50 an acre." This is a cold fact, and if you will stop to think about it you will admit that this is so. Isn't it a wise plan to invest a little money in good farm land now?

We have a farm for sale at a price we are ashamed to quote for fear you will think something is wrong with the land and will not come to see us about it.

This farm is 208 acres, located 3 1-2 miles southeast of Salem on an excellent county road. There is a running stream on two sides of it, and it is completely surrounded by land that is selling at from $25 to $75 an acre more than we are asking for this tract. This sounds queer, we know, but the owner wants to get rid of all his real estate and turn it into money, as he is going out of business and has all he wants. We have been given to the first of November to sell this land. If it is not sold by that time it will be taken off the market and leased.

Now, don't put this off, but come and see us now.

JEU NEN PARDONED FROM PEN

Upon the recommendation of District Attorney John Manning and Deputy District Attorney George C. Moser, also considering the enfeebled condition of Jeu Nun, the Chinaman, who murdered another Chinaman in Portland on July 10, 1906, and was sentenced to serve 15 years in the penitentiary for manslaughter, Governor Benson issued a pardon Saturday, October 16, and Jeu Nun was liberated, and is now on his way to China, with strict orders not to return to America again.

Jeu Nun on the 10th of July, 1906, shot and killed Ye Yeek Yee, another Chinaman, on Pine street, in the city of Portland, between Third and Fourth streets. Shortly afterward he was arrested and indicted on the charge of murder in the first degree. At the trial the first jury was unable to arrive at a verdict and was dismissed, and the case was tried before a second jury which found the Chinaman guilty of manslaughter. Judge Frazier sentenced the defendant to serve 15 years in the penitentiary, but the case was appealed by Attorneys Henry McGinn and R. E. Moody, the supreme court affirming the judgment of the lower court, and a petition for rehearing was filed. This petition was granted, but the supreme court still adhered to its former opinion in affirming the lower tribunal's judgment, and Jeu Nun was re-sentenced and committed to the state prison for a term of 15 years, from which place he was pardoned by Governor Benson last Saturday, and deported to his native country.

At the time of this commitment Governor Benson had not entered upon the duties of governor, Senator George E. Chamberlain being the incumbent at that time. Governor Benson received the recommendations in letter form from District Attorney Manning and his deputy, George C. Moser. District Attorney Manning stated in his communication to the governor concerning Jeu Nun, that, in lieu of the prisoner's attorney, Ralph E. Moody, petitioning the governor for a pardon, he would recommend that if such a pardon came to hand, to grant it for several reasons, among which the district attorney gave that Jeu Nun could not be convicted by the first jury, and that he had grave doubts concerning the Chinaman's guilt. Judge Frazier, now deceased, was not entirely satisfied, or so stated the district attorney, and the defendant was allowed his liberty prior to the trial by the presiding judge on bonds of $500.

A letter was received by Governor Benson from Senator Chamberlain recommending the pardoning of Jeu Nun. The communication stated that the writer had exercised such power in such a case heretofore, and deported the prisoner to his native country, and thought it a good plan in this case.

While speaking with the chief executive this morning, he said that it was not the customary rule to disclose such matters, but in this case there could be no harm done, owing to Jeu Nun's old age, and the fact that he was now on his way to China. Jeu Nun served one year in the prison, and his friends in Portland assured the governor, through Attorney Moody, that they would bear all expenses in shipping their countryman to China. Governor Benson as special agent to escort the Chinaman to Portland, where he then took an out-bound steamer.

DESERT WANDERERS MAY ESCAPE

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
San Bernardino, Cal., Oct. 23.—Five persons reported to be wandering on the Mojave desert, in the Cirisse creek region, are thought to be Jay Dougherty and his wife, Cora Dougherty, of Chicago, and their three children, Lois, 10 years of age; Bettie, 8, and Robert, 6.

A message received here late yesterday from Miss Bertha Dougherty, 3921 Hoyne avenue, Chicago, a sister of the missing man, stated that there is little doubt that the members of the lost party are her relatives.

According to Miss Dougherty, her brother and his family have been living at Santell, a desert village. They intended, however, to seek a new home in the Yuma, Ariz., region, and expected to trek across the desert about the middle of the present month.

Word received today from the searching parties sent into the desert to rescue the wanderers, stated that their trails led directly to the course of the main west gate canal, where sufficient water could be obtained. The searchers, however, were unable to follow the trail further.

POSTOFFICE WORRIES OF A CONGRESSMAN

Congressman Hawley has taken up the claims of the candidates for the Salem postoffice. He was at his office Friday and was besieged by many friends of the aspirants and told them all he would name the man he found to be the most popular with the people. The names posted for this place are the present postmaster, Squire Farrar, F. B. Southwick, the contractor, J. W. Roland, former county clerk and bookkeeper at the asylum and former postmaster at Jefferson; Geo. P. Litchfield, former Indian agent, and Hal D. Patton, who is a Salem business man. The congressman has been making a tour of the district, especially southern Oregon, where through the agency of the department of agriculture he was able to save the fruit growers a sum estimated by some at a million dollars on their pear crop. It is believed by many that the winning man for the Salem postoffice has not yet appeared, and the name of ex-Senator Croisan is mentioned as a possible dark horse. So far as the business men of the town are concerned they are very well satisfied with Mr. Farrar, and if there is a change the sentiment is strongly for Mr. Patton as a live, progressive young man who has never had any political recognition.

Sufferers who say they have tried everything without benefit are the people we are looking for. We want them to know from glad experience that Ely's Cream Balm will conquer cold in the head, hay fever and obstinate forms of nasal catarrh. This remedy acts directly on the inflamed sensitive membranes. Cleansing, soothing and healing. One trial will convince you of its healing power. Price 50c.
