A HUNCH ABOUT OREGON WATER POWERS SOME VERY INTERESTING QUESTIONS OF LAW ARE RAISED IN THE CIRCUIT COURT

INTERESTING ELECTION TOMORROW

While They Have No Local Interest They May Have a Great General Influence.

MAY POINT THE WAY

NEW YORK AND PHILADELPHIA BOTH ABOUT THE LIMIT FOR ROTTENNESS ARE IN THE LIMELIGHT AS BRIGHT CANDIDATES FOR REFORM.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
Chicago, Nov. 1.—The two big features in tomorrow's elections are the fights for the district attorneyship in Philadelphia and San Francisco.

These two political battles, while far apart geographically, have many points of similarity.

The mayoralty election in New York, with the triangular battle between Judge Gaynor, democrat; Hearst, Independence League, and Otto Bannard, republican, will be out ahead vote.

The managers of all three claim victory today.

Governors will be elected tomorrow in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Virginia.

General city elections will be held in New York, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Toledo and Buffalo.

concerned, election day will not

As far as the country generally is cause much excitement, though local fights in San Francisco and Philadelphia have aroused great interest.

Game Was Tame

The Willamette University football team was no match for the University of Oregon lads in the game last Saturday afternoon. The team from up the country defeated the local university aggregation by a score of 32 to 0. The Eugene players, although not being heavier to any extent, ran all around the Willamette team, and some very fine plays were executed by them.

FOOTBALL CLAIMS VICTIMS

MEYERS CASE IS POSTPONED

Case of A. B. Smith Also Brings Up Some New Points and is Continued Until Next Wednesday.

OTHER CASES OVER

MILLS GETS THREE MONTHS IN THE COUNTY JAIL, BUT WILL BE PAROLED—THE SMITH CASE BRINGS UP SOME QUESTIONS ABOUT CHANGE OF LAW.

Judge Burnett overruled the motion for new trial in the case of the state against A. B. Smith this morning in the adjourned term of the circuit court. Following the court's judgment on the motion, another motion was presented in arrest of judgment on the verdict as handed down on the grounds that Section 1768 of Bellinger & Cotton's code of Oregon under which the indictment was found, is amended by a statute passed by the assembly in 1909 and reported at page 70, 1909 session laws, and that the amended act did not go into effect until May, 1909. It is also held in the motion that the court cannot pass judgment in the case as the statute has not been in force and effect since May 21, 1909.

The case was postponed until next Wednesday by the court, at which time the last motion will be argued.

Judge Burnett announced this morning that owing to his department, having several jury cases to dispose of this week, department No. 2 in Judge Galloway's court would be postponed until next Monday, a week from today.

Burton Mills, the young man who was convicted upon an indictment charging him with larceny from a building, was, upon the consent of the district attorney, given clemency by the court and the charge was reduced to petty larceny. This was done owing to Mills, irresponsible condition at the time he committed the crime, and also as the result of his conduct while confined in the county jail since last July. Mills was called to the stand to make a statement in which he told the court that he had just arrived in Salem from California and was intending to make the trip to Black Rock, a small lumber town west of this city in Polk county, where he was to enter the employ of the Spaulding Lumber company. Upon arriving here Mills said that he had no money and was in need of a place to sleep and the nights being chilly he took a buggy robe from the Yankee livery barn to sleep under out of doors. He said that his intentions were to return the robe in good faith, and also in the morning.

Judge Burnett sentenced Mills to three months in the county jail, but under certain conditions he was to be liberated, to be returned if he violated his parole. The court gave the defendant a strict talking to regarding his future conduct and told Mills that he would be locked up if he failed to lead the life of a straight, sober and industrious man, which Mills promised he would do.

On consent of the district attorney the case against George Meyers was postponed until the first day of the regular term in January, 1910.

The case of the state vs. Henry Carmody was dismissed upon consent of the district attorney this morning on the grounds that the state's principal witness was not in the state. Carmody was charged with violating the liquor law.

John Feller, held under bonds to keep the peace, was discharged this morning on the consent of the district attorney.

In the matter of the petition, for a county road of Peter Geiser, the court dismissed the case on motion of Marlon county and the appeal from the county court was also dismissed.

The court will be in session for the remainder of the week and several jury cases are to come up for trial.

KING OF GREECE TO ABDICATE

Thinks the Job Is Only a Small One Anyway, and Also One Full of Jealousies and Danger.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Athens, Greece, Nov. 1.—The early abdication of King George is looked upon as a practical certainty. Since the attempted revolt of navy men last week his majesty has been busy winding up his affairs and today it is reported that he is looking for a favorable opportunity to quit the throne without too seriously disorganizing the government, in which, despite the ingratitude with which he thinks the country has treated him, he still takes a deep and friendly interest.

Greece really is in the hands of neither the king or the national assembly, but is being governed by the secret organization known as the Military League.

It is said the country would be safer under an actual individual dictatorship, as its ruler in such a case would at least feel some sense of responsibility.

Since the leaders of the Military League succeeded in having the crown prince removed from his military command the assembly has been an absolutely phantasm instrument in the hands of the organization.

HOOD RIVER WATER POWER IS ON THE TOP

W. R. Winans, Who for Thirty Years Has Held Onto Rights, Rewarded for Faith.

HAS GREAT COMPANY

COMPANY ORGANIZED THAT CONTROLS 20,000 HORSE POWER AT COST OF A MILLION—THE QUESTION ARISES, "WHERE WILL IT ALL BE USED?"

W. R. Winans of Hood River was in the city today. He had some Hood River apples with him, a Jonathan that was as red as an Oregon sunset. He also left a picture of an apple which weight 37 ounces. Now Winans can do little things like that easily. He has one of the finest orchards in the whole Hood River valley and anything he wants to present in the apple line would make Eve go up and take a back seat in the garden you see Winans, you can bet your last dollar there is something doing. Winans lives at the forks of Hood river and he owns the land up both forks. Well, today he just came down, filed water rights on 20,000 horse power, and at the same time had contracts by which the Hood river water power is to be controlled by the expenditure, according to estimates, of $936,000. Now that is not much money for some people, but it shows that Oregon is getting on the map, and it also shows that the Journal a short time ago was correct when it said its water power taking everything else out would make Oregon great. A million dollars spent in Hood river for water power means something. Winans has been very generous to all irrigating companies using water above him, and there has never been a question of water rights. Neither will there be now. Hood River has a fall from its glaciers of nearly 7,000 feet in 2 1/2 miles, and the even partial control of this means a great industry.

Where this increased power will be used may well make manufacturers sit up and take notice, for where it strikes there is going to be something doing.

TWELVE MINERS LOST THEIR LIVES

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 1.—An investigation of the Cambrian Steel Company's mine near here, where an explosion occurred yesterday, shows that 12 men lost their lives. The dead are foreigners.

By a perilous climb on life ladders through poisonous gas and falling slate, up the steep walls three of the 15 men who were in the mine at the time managed to reach points of safety.

The manager of the mine refuse to discuss the disaster, but it is understood to have been the result of a dynamite explosion.

Rescuers found the bodies of 12 men under the debris of fallen slate.
