SALEM TO HAVE A HOTEL.

The Capital Journal is reliably informed that Los Angeles parties who are large hotel operators have an eye on Salem. They have secured an option on the Salem hotel corner and propose to erect a first-class, modern hotel at that place. Plans are being drawn in a Portland architect's office and will be submitted at an early day to the optionees. For the present that is all that can be given out in the matter. There is prospect that Salem will have a decent hotel building.

THEY SHOWED FINE SPIRIT.

The Business Men's League at their annual banquet showed fine progressive spirit on several lines. They boosted for the other parts of the state and condemned the injunctive system of holding up the rest of the state. They roared with the greatest acclamation the legislators from Marion county who struck at other parts of the state. The league also showed fine spirit in condemning one man knocking another in the same line of business or profession. A good sign was also manifested when the toastmaster asked Mr. Hallberg and Mr. Knorr, two new merchants, to say a few words. It is good for the spirit that builds up a city and it is the spirit that has come to stay in the capital city.

MAKE NO FATAL MISTAKE.

The Mountain Water Commission of this city should not go to sleep. It is composed of fifteen of the ablest business and professional men of the capital city. Let these gentlemen awaken to the fact that every city in Oregon is fighting to get mountain water. Eugene has a system under way. Corvallis has mountain water. Even little Cottage Grove puts up $300,000 for it. At the Business Men's banquet the other night the subject was ignored and two speakers told how Salem could prosper even without the state capital. Let these wise heads here make no fatal mistake of sloth or indifference on this matter. This city has the best possible water supply as it is, but we cannot make the rest of the state believe that. There are enough brains and intelligence and business ability here to solve the problem. If not let us do as other towns do and import a little.

ASSEMBLIES AND ASSEMBLIES.

The Capital Journal is a republican newspaper, but it recognizes that there are progressive principles of republicanism. For instance, tariff revision and postal savings banks are not to be obtained by standing for the party "as she was." Cannonism and Aldrichism are not all there is of the republican party, and so in Oregon a man may still be a republican for progress. The editor of this paper can see how an assembly of representative republicans might be held and help harmonize the party in Oregon. That kind of an assembly to hear good republican speeches, and write a good republican platform, could "do the party some good." The party managers could go a step further and endorse the progressive laws enacted by the people in their sovereign capacity. They could recommend strict obedience to the laws and that all candidates submit their aspirations under the direct primary law. Such an assembly which is not prohibited by law would help to wipe out all dissensions in the party and pave the way to victory. It is a fundamental principle of republicanism to recognize the expressed will of majorities and even of legally constituted pluralities. Would the assembly advocates condemn the expressed will of the people of Oregon upon any matter that had been fairly submitted to them? Mr. Hugh Hume of the Portland Spectator thinks the opposition to the assembly plan of nominating candidates for office comes from those who want dissensions in the republican party.

It is a waste of time to discuss the question with those wise political managers at Portland who have determined to hold an assembly and place a republican ticket of their own in the field. They openly condemn the workings of the direct primary law and openly declare there must be a better system, and they have adopted the assembly plan as that better plan. The assembly of republicans will not be so cowardly as to refuse to make a platform, and will of course condemn the direct primary and other reforms enacted by the people of Oregon. How that will unite the republican party is hard to see, and yet these assembly advocates coolly declare the whole purpose of the assembly is to restore harmony in the republican party which enacted the direct primary law after endorsing it in its platforms.

THE DUTY TO REGISTER.

It is the duty of citizens to register for the coming city election. The registration law is a very cumbersome affair and defeats a full expression of the electorate. But if you want a voice in the city primary to nominate city aldermen you must register at the city hall before Nov. 6th. A more troublesome, bunglesome, un-American registration system could not well be devised. That law was not enacted by the people, but by the all-wise old-fashioned boss-ridden legislature. But it is our duty to register and help elect first-class men for aldermen for our city. The election laws of Oregon are a hopeless muddle of ignorance, except the Australian ballot law.

KILLED HIS HOST'S FAMILY

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
 Gimmli, Man., Nov. 1.—A posse is searching today for an unidentified German, who is reported to have murdered a woman and two children yesterday on a farm six miles north of this town. According to a report reaching here today the murderers were committed by a German guest at the farm house, who, after beating off the farmer and driving him from the house murdered his host's wife, and two small children, escaped to the woods. The names of the victims have not yet been learned.

Americans have the reputation of being the worst drugged people in the world. Well, a good many of us look it.

In preparing for winter don't forget the stock—and humans, too—require ample supplies of fresh air.

Those Corpuscles

In your blood,—red and white,—keep you well if they are healthy, cause you sickness if diseased. To make and keep them abundant and healthy, is to have pure blood, freedom from disease and vigorous health. The chief purpose of Hood's Sarsaparilla is to do this, and its success is attested by thousands of wonderful cures. Cures of all blood diseases, scrofula, eczema, rheumatism, catarrh. Get it today in the usual liquid form or in chocolate tablet form called Sarsatabs.

A roll or two of tar paper helps greatly in putting buildings to rights for the winter. Faith plans for a busy day tomorrow; work gets up and does the chores before breakfast.

THOROUGHLY RELIABLE MERCHANDISE

Sold at Prices that Credit Stores Can't Match

That's the secret of our wonderful growth.

AREN'T YOU TIRED OF THE SAME OLD SONG ABOUT $4.00 articles sold special at $1.69, when the manufacturers really intended them to be sold at $1.50 or less? Isn't it disappointing to continually see articles quoted at 69c worth $1.00, but when you examine them find that they are worth only 50c? Fictitious values seem to be the stock in trade of many advertisers nowadays. They get into the habit of exaggerating and really think the people believe them. We believe that our customers want merchandise that will prove satisfactory under actual service conditions, and are willing to pay fair prices without any imaginary reductions from imaginary prices.

TRouble IS NOT YET AT AN END [UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Lexington, Ky., Nov. 1.—Meagre news from Jackson indicates that the troops sent there Sunday to prevent bloodshed at Tuesday's election have the situation well in hand today. An assemblage of army feudists and mountaineers indicates, however, possible trouble for tomorrow. Good men are good; imitators talk about being good.
