ATTORNEY CURL OF ALBANY ACTS JUDGE

Opposing Lawyers, in Hurry, Agree to Abide by His Decision.

Albany special: A unique legal situation developed here today when two attorneys, strenuously contesting a motion in court, agreed to submit it to a fellow attorney in the absence of the judge and abide by his decision.

Judge Galloway, who was holding court here, went to Corvallis this morning, intending to return at noon but missed the train and came later by automobile. So no judge was present when the hour arrived to argue a motion to quash a summons in a pending divorce case. Attorney B. S. Martin of Brownsville, who represented the plaintiff, wished to catch a train, so he and Attorney George W. Wright, representing the defendant, agreed to submit the motion to L. M. Curl, a member of the local bar, who was in the courtroom.

Curl heard the argument and decided that the motion was well taken. Abiding by the decision, Martin at once began preparations to secure a new order and republish the summons.

SOUTH SALEM STREETCAR DECISION COMES FRIDAY

The Railroad Commission hoped to get a decision ready today on the matter of extending street car service south of this city. The case has been dragging a long time, and only this winter, when the weather was very rough did it become apparent that something must be done. The commission ordered a final hearing and additional testimony showed great growth of the city to the south, and the findings in the case will probably be handed down tomorrow. The public interest in the matter is intense, and the requests of the people out south have been stubbornly resisted by the officials of the Portland railway corporation.

MARION'S COST BILLS ENORMOUS

The Marion county court is in session this week and is a great deal worried over the gambling and women cases that have been run up in the form of bills by the Ministerial Association of Salem. In single cases of a man arrested for gambling the bills run up to over $50, and the women cases a great deal more. The commissioners hoped to pull the county through on a cash basis for the year, but the way these fees have been run up the county is going in the hole. They had hoped that the old justice fee grating business would not be revived, but Justice Webster, who came before the court, said he did not see how he could throw out cases when reputable citizens swore out the warrants. Rev. Robinson also appeared and said every complaint sworn to before the justice court would have to be docketed and made a case, no matter what it cost the county. He threatened the court with some disagreeable publicity if they did not allow the bills. The court is carefully inquiring into the legality of the cost bills. Robinson said the Ministerial Association had a detective employed at $100 per month to report all infractions of the moral and criminal laws to them, and no matter what it cost they would be pressed to a finish. The county court is up against a hard problem, but they think it is the business of the district attorney to handle all such business and are going to discourage the revival of endless petty cases being brought in the justice courts. The taxpayers will have to pay more for the moral purification of Salem than for good roads, while many think matters are made worse thereby, especially as to the women.

In the County Court of the State of Oregon, for Marion County. In the matter of the guardianship of Oliver W. Layson, H. Gray Layson, Mary Alice Layson, Elizabeth Layson and Henry Earl Layson, minors.

Heretofore came Elizabeth Miller, the guardian of the above named minors, and petitioned this court for an order for the sale of the following described real property: An undivided one-fifth (1-5) interest in and to the following described real property belonging to said minors, to-wit: Lots numbered three, four and five of section twenty-five and lot number one, section twenty-six, township nine south, range two west, of the Willamette meridian, in Marion county, Oregon, containing 117.83 acres, excepting, however, therefrom the following described premises, to-wit: Commencing at the extreme northwest point or corner of lot one of the north bank of the Santiam river in section twenty-six (26), township nine (9) south of range two (2) west, of the Willamette meridian in Marion county, Oregon, running east along the north line of lot one (1) to the Mill slough; thence due south to where it strikes the north bank of the Santiam river, said south line being in section twenty-five (25); thence meandering along the north bank of the said Santiam river to the place of beginning, containing twenty acres (20), more or less, the said property to be sold subject, however, to the right of dower of Elizabeth Miller in the whole of the above described premises.

And it appearing to the court from such petition that it is necessary and would be beneficial to the minors that such real estate should be sold:

It is ordered that Malcom Miller, Susie Litchfield, John M. Miller and Christina Miller, the next of kin of said minors, and all other persons interested in said estate appear before this court at the court house in Salem, Oregon, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m. on the 27th day of December, 1909, to show cause if any exists, why a license should not be granted for the sale of said property belonging to the estate above described and as prayed for in a petition filed by the minors herein, and that a copy of this order shall be served upon said next of kin and all persons interested in said estate by being published at least three successive weeks in the Weekly Capital Journal, a newspaper published in Salem, Oregon, and having circulation in the said County of Marion. Dated this 2nd day of December, 1909.

What To Do With Holiday Books.

HERE is scarcely a home but what will feel the effects of the annual overflow of books which usually happens about the 25th of December. ¶ Books are sold and distributed in this city during the holiday season by the thousands. ¶ Many of them are rare and expensive publications, with delicate bindings. ¶ Nearly all of them are worth preserving, if not for their intrinsic merit—at least for the sake of association—so we seldom throw books away—we cherish them as friends. For that reason we like to see them well housed. ¶ If they are left exposed on the table more than a day or so, they soon show evidence of soil. ¶ If they are worth protecting at all, let them have the best protection possible—such as is afforded by
