Was a Good Show—
"The House of a Thousand Candles" was the attraction at the Grand Opera House last evening and it was greeted with a good attendance. The play is a simple story dealing with life, but of a high dramatic grade and it held the audience spell bound last night from the time that the entertainment opened until the last curtain was rung down. All those participating in the play did clever acting, and especially was that true of Hugo Koch who represented Bates, the butler at the Glenarm House.

Chalmers-Detroit "30"
Proven at the Test

There is nothing to defend about the Chalmers-Detroit "30." Each particular part has been tried and proven to be superior in material, workmanship and endurance.

Superiority, Better Than Equality

There are 4000 Chalmers-Detroit "30s" in use today. Every one is giving satisfaction. A STRONG ARGUMENT, is it not? Every car used in contests was chosen off-hand from this 4000.

If you are thinking of buying an auto, all we ask is a chance to demonstrate to you what the Chalmers-Detroit will do. If we do not prove every claim made, we do not expect your business. For the price asked, the Chalmers-Detroit "30" stands superior to all.

NO EXEMPTION

Pamphlets containing instructions with relation to the law on taxation of property have been prepared by the State Tax Commission, and as soon as they are printed copies will be sent to every assessor in the state.

The commission, in the pamphlet, gives its views of what constitutes a good assessment, and calls the attention of the assessors to the erroneous idea that municipal bonds, warrants and notes secured by mortgages are not assessable. Attention is called also to the fact that the law exempting from taxation $300 of personal property owned by a householder has been declared unconstitutional, and that therefore no exemptions are to be made along this line.

The commission also advises the assessors that property is to be taxed to its full cash value, and then give a definition of the term, which is, in brief, such a value as the property would bring were it placed on the market in an ordinary course of business, and also advises them that the practice of grouping large sections of land under one description is not in conformity with the law. The commission also defines what is meant by the term "transient livestock," and makes a number of suggestions as to the assessment of this class of property.
