

Flower-Laden Hats
the SPRING MANDATE of the MILLINERS

Three Points
 Are Demonstrated Here

Style, Quality, Price

WHERE can you buy that new Easter Bonnet and be sure you are getting your money's worth? That is what most Salem ladies are trying to discover, and it pays to investigate. If you have not looked over the "FULLERTON" line you have missed some of the good things in Millinery.

If it is new we have it. 300 to 400 High-Class Ladies' Trimmed and Tailored Hats now ready for your inspection, no two alike and new designs coming out all the time. Our stock has been greatly increased by the addition of new lines, and, therefore

We Must Increase Our Business

To do this we want you for a customer. Can we have the opportunity of making you one this Spring season?

MRS. P. E. FULLERTON LEADING MILLINER

Phone Main 578

291 N. Commercial St.

CARNEGIE MEDAL ARRIVES

Yesterday the Wells Fargo express received the first Carnegie hero medal that ever came to Salem. It was delivered to Pascal L. Traglio, a resident of this city. Mr. Traglio was awarded this medal by the Carnegie hero commission at Pittsburg, Pa., for his bravery in helping rescue eleven persons from a flood of water on March 14, 1907. At that time the water on the Hokius river was five feet and seven inches high—than was ever known before, and Pascal L. Traglio, who could not swim, and Frederick Guenther, working together, rescued eleven persons from the tops of some locust trees, where they had taken refuge below the town. These rescuers were considered by the commission as most thrilling, one of the rescuing party getting into the trees and assisting the others into the boats. Among those rescued were several children. Houses had been driven against the trees and from these the victims had crawled into the trees. Three trips were made and Traglio and Guenther did not lose a soul. Mr. Traglio's brother works for the Salem Flouring Mills Co., and his father is a farmer in Polk county, about one and one-half miles from Salem. Mr. Traglio knew nothing about the awarding of the medal until one and a half years after it happened, when he was notified by the commission, and also that he had received a thousand dollars in money. The medal is bronze, about three inches in diameter, with a picture of Andrew Carnegie on one side and a record of the act for which it was awarded on the other, with the inscription around the edge. "Greater Love Hath No Man Than This. That a Man Lay Down His Life for His Friend." Needless to say, Mr. Traglio is a proud man, and he has the congratulations of his friends for the decoration of bravery. Handling Heavy Freight. The Southern Pacific commenced running freight trains again this week. For several days last week all motive power was busy hauling derailed trains from the Union Pacific, but other engines have been secured and freights are moving again. An Ideal Cough Medicine. "As an ideal cough medicine I regard Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in a class by itself," says Dr. R. A. Wiltshire, of Wyannville, Ind. "I take great pleasure in testifying to the results of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. As I know of no other preparation that meets so fully the expectations of the most exacting in cases of croup and coughs of children. As it contains no opium, chloroform or morphine it certainly makes a most safe, pleasant and efficacious remedy for the ill it is intended. For sale by all good druggists."

NO USE FOR THE "LIGHTWEIGHTS" Estha Williams, who appears at the Grand Opera House next Monday night as leading woman in "As the Sun Went Down," has little patience with what she terms the "lightweights" who are ever seeking a chance to go on the stage, attracted more by the sparkle of the footlights and what it stands for than by an honest desire to master the dramatic art just for the love of the doing. "Every actress who has attained any place in the profession is constantly receiving letters from girls who want to go on the stage," said Miss Williams. "They ask as many questions as a two-year-old child at a circus, but this one is always sure to crop out after an end of foolish queries about salaries, limners, etc. 'Do you think I could be successful?' 'My answer is always emphatically 'No'—that is to the question asked in person, for I stopped answering the other kind long ago. 'It seems a little hard to dash their cherished hopes, but it is the kindest thing in the end, and the girls who ask these questions rarely would have any chance of making good. They lack self-reliance among other things. If they had it they would answer these questions themselves and not be running to other people. Instead, she would be trying to train herself for her chance when it comes, or rather to train herself without thought of the reward, for the true actor loves his work for its own self, and would study dramatic expression if alone on a desert island. 'My advice to the stage-struck is—'Don't try to be an actress if you can help it. If it just bubbles out in spite of yourself and you can't keep off the stage because you love the work for itself, you may have some chance.' It is wonderful the number of suit cases it requires to carry the shirts and collars of a man coming to the city from a dry district.

LIBRARY BOOKS.

Following is a list of books on City Improvement which can be obtained at the Salem Public Library: Ely—The Coming City. Fairlie—Municipal Administration. Goodhue—Municipal Improvement—The City the Hope of Democracy and The British City. MacKnight—A Civic Primer and Reports of Conferences for Good City Government. (5 vols.) Robinson—Improvement of Towns and Cities. Strong—Twentieth Century City. Wilcox—The American City. Zueblin—Decade of Civic Development. Also many articles in recent magazines, a list of which is kept for reference.

Statement for February.

Number using reading room daily (approximate)	209
New members	90
Total membership	4263
New books—
Purchased	15
Gifts	53

Number of volumes in library 3128
 Number of loans—
 Books 2529
 Periodicals 154
 Total 3352

Two story hours have been very successfully conducted, with about thirty-five children in attendance. There will be one held on next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. All children from 7 to 12 years of age are cordially invited to attend.

The Lash of a Fiend Would have been about as welcome to A. Cooper, of Oswego, N. Y., as a merciless lung-racking cough that defied all remedies for years. "It was most troublesome at nights," he writes, "nothing helped me until I used Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me completely. I never cough at night now." Millions know its matchless merit for stubborn colds, obstinate coughs, sore lungs, la grippe, asthma, hemorrhage, croup, whooping cough or hay fever. It relieves quickly and never fails to satisfy. A trial convinces. Size, $1.00 Trial bottle free. It is positively guaranteed by J. C. Perry.