SILVERTON MAKING GOOD PROGRESS AS A CITY.

There were over one hundred new houses built at Silverton last year. There are thirty new houses already under construction this year at Silverton.

Silverton has between four and five hundred children enrolled in the public schools, and a population of two thousand.

The Silverton Lumber Company employs between two and three hundred men at the mill and in the woods.

Three rich valleys come together and furnish great crops for the trade of Silverton.

There is a live commercial club with nearly one hundred members and five officials.

Three churches and about one thousand Scandinavian population make Silverton their home and trading center.

Silverton has fine water power, good city water, telephone systems and electric lights.

But the streets leading into Silverton are nearly as bad as the streets leading into the Capital City of Oregon.

But Silverton will find a way to improve streets and let the whole world get in and out of that town easier.

Silverton is on the line of the survey for an electric railroad from Oregon City into the Waldo Hills country.

But Silverton should not wait for Oregon City to build them an electric railroad.

Woodburn did not and Woodburn has been the greatest gainer by an electric connection.

The Falls City and Salem line should cross the river and go on out to Silverton.

A little effort on their part would start that extension and is the logical and most direct connection.

There is a committee at work to erect a fine hospital at Silverton by a stock company.

Silverton is getting an ice plant and creamery on the plan of a home stock company.

Silverton has two banks and a dozen fine mercantile establishments and has a big local trade.

There are two newspapers and half a dozen churches and as many lodges and good fishing in Silver Creek.

There will be several new brick blocks erected at Silverton this year and all property is advancing.

THE RIVERS AND HARBORS BILL.

The river and harbor appropriation bill is virtually made up and will, in all probability, be reported to the senate tomorrow or Friday at the farthest.

The bill will carry in the neighborhood of $52,000,000.

It is a forward step in the interest of a broad and comprehensive policy for the improvement of the rivers and harbors of continental United States.

An annual river and harbor bill was essentially necessary to put our waterways in condition to handle our growing commerce.

The bill recognizes meritorious projects and appropriates liberally for them to the end that they may be completed within reasonable time, and until they are completed the annual feature of the bill will continue.

One of the first fruits of this new system will be a more liberal treatment of the waterways and a well-defined plan for their improvement, conditioned upon a favorable report from the board of engineers of the war department.

Under this new plan projects will be pressed to completion, something wholly impossible under the biennial and triennial bills of former years.

In the framing of this bill no project of real merit has been neglected. Without reference to any section, the appropriations will be adjusted to bring about the completion of projects within a reasonable length of time, thereby saving the enormous waste that has come through small appropriations extending over a long period of years.

VALUE OF COLD STORAGE CANNOT BE ESTIMATED

Hon. A. W. Wright of Alma, Mich., a large farmer and live stock feeder and one of the first in his state to become an extensive user of silos, and who, according to the Kansas City Journal, until recently has owned a large farm in Jackson County, and now owns valuable Kansas City real estate, gives his views as follows on the "cold storage" proposition, which at this time is receiving considerable attention:

Various articles appearing in the press directed against cold storage are harmful, and seem to be occasioned wholly by a lack of knowledge of the principles of cold storage and the service which it performs to the producer and consumer.

Cold storage in principle is not different from the farmer erecting his corn cribs and bins, into which he places his surplus crops, to be carried into the season in which they are needed. It is the same principle as the farmer who erects his silo, and fills from his fields just at the time the product is finest, giving him a supply of green feed for his stock during the winter months, when this same feed otherwise is not obtainable.

Cold storage warehouses are especially constructed buildings with up-to-date facilities for carrying perishable products from the season of heavy production when nature is prolific, until the winter seasons when nature is dormant.

Refrigerator cars supplied with cold air are of the same principle, and enable the transportation of perishable products from the heavy producing sections to the consuming sections; as are also the ships equipped with refrigeration, enabling these perishable products to be transported to all parts of the world, including the tropics.

In these days of agitation against high prices of food products, the cold storage warehouses are often blamed for existing conditions, but instead their benefits to the producer and consumer are many and far-reaching.

Before cold storage facilities came into use, production was discouraged owing to the fact that the farmer could find a ready market only for a small proportion of his product, and at low prices. A great proportion of his stock went to waste, representing many thousands of dollars.

While the consumer, it is true, during these times was able to buy his immediate requirements at moderate prices, the conditions were exactly reversed during the season of scarcity; he was either compelled to pay extreme prices or do without this product altogether.

The general use of cold storage has acted as an evener of prices, reducing materially the difference between the maximum and minimum selling prices throughout the year. All of these advantages are of great benefit both to the producer and consumer.

The discouraging of the system of cold storage strikes directly at the great principles of conservation, to the detriment of increased food supplies to meet the requirements of our constantly increasing consuming population.

It is estimated that of the total amount of production of the eggs of the United States, materially less than 8 per cent are stored; the balance, of over 92 per cent goes direct to the consumer.

Of all the butter produced in the country, less than 6 per cent is put away in storage, while over 94 per cent goes into immediate use.

Of the fresh meat production of the country, over 97 per cent is for prompt use, and less than 3 per cent is placed in storage.

These figures are a convincing argument that the small percentage of these products can not control or regulate the selling prices.

ONE AND ALL DENY RUMORS OF RESIGNATION

Washington, April 15.—"Good morning, have you resigned yet?" is the daily greeting of members of the Taft cabinet, and with harmonious alacrity the chorus answers: "No, have you?"

Only two members have escaped being made the subject of resignation rumors. They are Secretary Meyer and Attorney-General Wickesham. And now the gossippers, following the Wickesham speech at Chicago, threatening to do a little "rumoring" about the attorney-general.

But those involved all denied the rumors.

The president denied—he had not heard of any changes. Knox denied. He did not intend to resign. MacVeach denied. He was going to stay until the finish. Wilson said it was not his turn to resign. He resigned only on Mondays and Wednesdays. The rumors spread on a Thursday. Ballinger said: "The thing to do is to keep your nerve, a stiff upper lip, and tall the other fellow to."

Some rumors are said to have come from authoritative sources, and no one in Washington would be surprised if they would come true.

Sex in Bread Molds.

Among the many extraordinary theories introduced by recent microscopic studies is that of sex in bread molds. After years of patient research, it is announced that a distinguished scientist has found that these minute fungi, the lowest order of plant life, possess the characteristics of plants of the highest type, and have the power of reproducing their kind from two distinct and differing races, in addition to giving new life from one. The precise meaning and value to organic evolution of the fact that in such low forms of life as the common molds male and female should be as sharply differentiated as in human beings are far from settled, but the discovery, if it be a discovery, is a most important contribution to the fascinating pursuit of the unknown in nature. Some of the microscopic slides show, it is claimed, groups of fungi which form the product of mated bread molds once separated by thousands of miles. To the unscientific eye they appear as pretty miniature forest jungles.

Best Treatment for Colds.

"Most ordinary colds will yield to the simplest treatment," says the Chicago Tribune, "moderate laxatives, hot foot baths, a free perspiration and an avoidance of exposure to cold and wet after treatment." While this treatment is simple, it requires considerable trouble, and the one adopting it must remain in doors for a day or two, or a fresh cold is almost sure to be contracted, and in many instances pneumonia follows. In it not better to pin your faith to an old reliable preparation like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, that is famous for its cures of colds and can always be depended upon? EIGHT YEARS OF SUFFERING CURED BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

A Washington Woman Relates an Experience That Will Be of Value to All Pain Burdened Women Everywhere.

If you are approaching the fortieth year in a run-down condition, you will be interested in reading of the benefit that Mrs. John Utter, of Paynullup, Wash., received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after other treatments had failed to help her. She says:

"I suffered for eight years from all the pains and sickness that women of my age are subject to. I was able to work only part of the time and often could just drag around. Most people would have given up and gone to bed. I was so nervous that I could not get much sleep and was subject to headaches and dizzy spells. My stomach was out of order all of the time and I was troubled with gas forming on it. I would often have smothering spells when I could not raise myself up.

"I took a great many kinds of medicines but found no relief until I followed a friend's advice and tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They helped me right away. I could sleep better, was not so nervous and became stronger. I used the pills for some time and was entirely cured."

"Since then I have always had Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house. My husband had a severe case of inflammatory rheumatism which settled in his hands and feet. A few boxes of the pills cured him and he has never had a return of the disease."

As most of the diseases from which women suffer are directly caused by a lack of blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found unequalled in the treatment of anemia, green sickness, delayed development, after-effects of childbirth and leucorrhoea. Our free booklet, "Plain Talks to Women," will be sent to any suffering woman upon request.

If you have failed to get more than temporary relief from your suffering, the treatment is most likely not a blood builder. Do not neglect then to remove the cause of your trouble but give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a good trial.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

WARRIOR ANSWERS THE LADY

SHE FISHER FOR COMPLIMENTS AND GOT WHAT THE LAWYERS CALL "CONFESSION AND AVOIDANCE."

Chicago, April 15.—Whether Lord Kitchener, head of the British army, is a woman hater, or merely a man who ignores the sex, is an unsettled question in Chicago today.

When the celebrated warrior arrived in Chicago yesterday he was "interviewed" by a woman reporter, who asked him point blank regarding the sentiments he entertained for womankind.

"Lord Kitchener, you have a reputation of being the longest term woman-hater in the British Isles. Is this correct?" demanded the lady reporter.

"One must live up to one's reputation," replied Kitchener, smiling broadly.

"Then the report is true?"

"No, I cannot say that," said Kitchener. "I say one must live up to one's reputation."

"I trust that your feelings only apply to individual women, and not women as a whole," persisted the interviewer.

"Absolutely," answered the British war lord, who then relapsed into silence.

The reporter then attempted to persuade Kitchener to say something complimentary about American women. She got the same satisfactory replies to all interrogations, as she did to the questions which preceded the unsuccessful attempt.

The Swine or the Flower?

Oh me! I saw a huge and loathsome sty,
Wherein a drove of wallowing swine were barred,
Whose banquet shocked the nostril and the eye;
Then spoke a voice, "Behold the source of LARD!"

I fled, and saw a field that seemed at first
One glistening mass of roses pure and white,
With dewy buds 'mid dark green foliage nursed;
And as I lingered o'er the lovely sight,
The summer breeze that cooled that Southern scene,
Whispered, "Behold the source of COTTOLENE!"

"Nature's Gift from the Sunny South"

COTTOLENE is a pure and wholesome frying and shortening medium, made from refined cottonseed oil. There is not an ounce of hog fat in it to make food unwholesome, greasy and indigestible. As evidence of its superiority, COTTOLENE received Grand Prize (highest possible award) at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition; and Gold Medals (also representing highest awards in each case) at the Charleston Exposition, the Paris Exposition, and the Chicago World's Fair. In fact, in every case where COTTOLENE has been exhibited in competition with other cooking fats, it has invariably been granted the highest award.
