SALEMITE COMPARES TWO CITIES

FINDS THINGS TO SAY ABOUT EUGENE AND SALEM—THEIR POSSIBLE CENSUS RETURNS—BOTH ARE EDUCATIONAL CITIES OF THE FIRST CLASS.

A Salem real estate booster who has just returned from a few days spent at Eugene, has the following comparisons to make between the two cities:

"A number of Eugene people have the idea that this town is larger than Salem in many ways, aside from a possible larger population. Some even believe Eugene's population is larger than that of the Capital City. The only reasonable excuse Eugene has for not knowing the real facts is due largely to the fact that she is a little out of the world, lying 123 miles south from the metropolis. There is not enough co-operation, or visiting, if you please, carried on by Eugene people with her sister cities far down the valley.

"In other words, Eugene is carried away with her own boasting and is beginning to believe it herself. Because she has heard a continual ding-dong about the wonderful city of Eugene for a long time, Eugene has begun to think she is the greatest city in Oregon, outside of Portland. When it gets to be a supposed fact that Eugene is larger than Salem, it is time to enlighten the people of Eugene who are deceived. That Eugene may be a little more careful in the future, Salem is going to open her eyes to the question of population. That is, Uncle Sam will clear away any doubts as to the population of Eugene and Salem, when the census returns come in.

"While a census may be necessary to settle the question as to which city has the greatest population, there can be no dispute over the commercial value of the two 'gardens' of the Willamette Valley.

"Eugene has about five miles of street railway system, three hotels, a large number of small mercantile establishments of all kinds, paved streets, a state university, pretty depot grounds, sawmill, excelsior factory, moving picture shows, opera house and a natural railroad center at Springfield, four miles distant.

"Eugene runs the city in the interest of her state schools, believing that 'dry' laws, though depriving the city of heavy revenue, raises the tone for her school boys. She closed the saloons when all they needed was some strict regulation like it is enforced in Salem. In addition to closed saloons, all moving picture shows and cigar stores are closed on Sunday.

"Financially, Eugene is taxing her property owners 3 1/4 mills on a 70 per cent valuation, raising this to a full cash valuation the present year. The city has under way an extensive municipal electric light plant system, the ultimate cost of which is an open question and the advisability of which is tearing the city into factions. The city owns its own water system.

"Eugene has no backing from her surrounding territory. She has no great fruit belts or agricultural districts to draw trade from her many merchants. Her great hope is in materializing proposed railroads.

"She is threatened with a new county on one end (Nemah) and expects to have a slice carved off the other end for another new county. In the event two new counties are created out of part of Lane county, Eugene's great boast of 34,000,000-000 feet of marketable timber will suffer heavy shrinkage. While there may be no dispute as to Eugene's surrounding territory being capable of raising the best fruit and agricultural products of any place on earth, yet the fact remains that she is not doing it now. What she is doing now must be considered when comparing her with other valley towns. If pretty looks had anything to do with the financial and commercial standing of Eugene, it would have all the rest of the towns 'badly skinned,' as the curb-stone orator says. However, the poet says, 'Beauty is sometimes only skin deep.'

"So far as population goes, if Eugene can muster a total of 12,000 people for her coming census, she ought to be highly pleased.

"As to Salem's population, it is well known that she is much larger than Eugene. Salem has at least 18,000 inhabitants. After the present census returns Salem should have between 20,000 and 25,000 people. She operates over 15 miles of street railway system, has all the state institutions, county buildings and fine city hall, wide streets and paved, macadamized county roads leading into the city. She is noted for being a beautiful city.

"Salem's fruit belts are known all over the world. She is the 'cherry city' of Oregon, and therefore, the world. Her famous prunes are eaten in every civilized country on the globe. Her agricultural products are enormous in quantity and of the finest in quality. Salem is also the hop center of the world, growing 30 per cent of all hops raised. Local warehouses handle 40 per cent of the entire output. Over 500 cars of prunes are shipped out of Salem every season, besides many carloads of apples, pears, berries, cherries, peaches, etc. This fruit and agricultural backing is what makes Salem forever the most thrifty city in the valley.

"Salem is not a wide-open town in the popular sense of the word. Her saloons are under constant regulation, and bring an annual income of something like $10,000 per year in licenses. Salem is also as well known a school town as Eugene. Her civic policy does not interfere with her growing reputation as a leading school town of the Northwest.

"Salem reaches Portland by the Southern Pacific railroad line and the Oregon Electric on the east side of the river and by the steam boats City & Western Railroad opens Polk county giving connection with Dallas, Corvallis and Portland on the west side. Salem's mercantile stores are of the largest and finest. Two new hotels are being built. The state legislature and the state fair are always drawing the eyes of the state of Oregon towards Salem, the Capital City.

"From a comparative point of view, Eugene can hardly be said to rank with Salem, either in population or commercial advantages."

The old fashioned way of doing a weak stomach, or stimulating the heart or kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak stomach, heart, or kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then these organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Treat it a few days, and see! Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by Capital Drug Store.

SPLENDID MUSICAL COMEDY

A press notice says: "A comic opera of delightful quality and unusual merit both in book, lyrics and score is 'The Gingerbread Man' which will be given this evening—with the original No. 1 company fresh from a tour of the larger cities where it has enjoyed unusual success in this the third year of its presentation. The reason for this is obvious. The piece is one of our particularly beautiful music, which by the way was composed by A. Baldwin Sloane, who has given us such tuneful compositions as 'The Mocking Bird,' 'Jack and the Bean Stalk,' 'Sergeant Kitty,' 'Broadway to Tokio' and 'Coming Through the Rye.' Mr. Sloane's music is not only tuneful, but it is written in a musician's style, and although it has a trick of catching the ear, it has class which enables its composer to rank with the best that America produces. One charm about Mr. Sloane's works is that he never writes alike and his themes are so varied that the fault of sameness so noticeable in many composers, some even who have achieved greatness, is not noticeable. He has no particular style and musicians that are familiar with his work are often surprised at the broadness of his field in the musical literature. He has gotten to that point where he dominates with almost every author that he collaborates with, and frequently lyrics are written to his measure, when the usual mode is that the lyrics are written first and the music afterward. This as a rule insures a more successful score and in 'The Gingerbread Man' we find almost a perfect one. This may probably be accounted for from the fact that Frederick G. Rankin and A. Baldwin Sloane were in perfect accord."

Notice of Intention to Improve Asylum Avenue.

Notice is hereby given that the common council of the city of Salem, Oregon, deems it expedient and proposes to improve Asylum Avenue in the city of Salem, Oregon, with concrete pavement from the east line of 14th street to the center line of 24th street, according to the plans and specifications adopted April 1, 1910, for such improvement, and on file in the office of the city recorder. This notice is published for 10 days pursuant to the order of the common council, and the date of the first publication thereof is the 13th day of April, 1910.

Remonstrances may be filed against said improvement within 10 days of the final publication of this notice. By order of the common council. W. A. MOORES, City Recorder. 4-13-10

Killed in Runaway Accident. (Medford Mail Tribune.) Mrs. W. R. Byrum was instantly killed and Mrs. Garrison severely injured in a runaway accident near the Table Rock schoolhouse Monday afternoon.

The two ladies had started to drive to Medford. One of the tugs broke and the team, a rather fractious pair, ran away. Mrs. Byrum, who had a young child in her arms, leaped from the vehicle when she saw the team was beyond control, and was thrown against the fence bordering the road, with such force that she was instantly killed. The babe escaped with just a few scratches.

Mrs. Garrison stayed in the rig until it was overturned, when she was thrown out, suffering a fractured ankle, and other minor injuries. It was first reported that she had been fatally injured, but she is now resting easily and will recover.

Mrs. Byrum was a daughter of Mrs. A. B. Saltmarsh of Applegate, and her errand to this city was to meet her mother and take her to her home for a visit. When Mrs. Saltmarsh reached Jacksonville on her way to Medford she was met with the intelligence of her daughter's death.

Mrs. Byrum leaves a husband and three small children.

The Corvallis Masons are preparing to build a block, which they will make a four-story building if the commercial club will take one floor at $65 a month the first two years and then $75 a month.

Ashtand nurserymen, it is estimated, have grafted half a million fruit trees this spring, the season having just closed. There has been a great demand for fruit trees the past few years, and stocks have been exhausted.

The house and all its contents belonging to Dave Shook, a few miles west of Dairy, was destroyed by fire Saturday night.

The steamer North Star, which was launched on the Upper lake Saturday is one of the neatest crafts on those waters. This boat is 63 feet over all 18 feet beam and about 100 tons register. She was built by Captain Alex Nosler last year but was not launched until bought by Burk Wilson and Willard Willis, both young men of much experience on the waters of the Upper lake.

Roseburg reports the first ripe strawberries of the season, April 26. Burnett E. Blodgett, a prosperous farmer living about four and a half miles northeast of Eugene, was found dead about noon Tuesday on the farm a short distance in the rear of his barn and is supposed to have succumbed to heart failure.
