Has Farmed Twenty Years.

J. W. Gray has farmed for the past twenty years and says the Alsea country cannot be excelled for general agriculture, dairying and fruit and vegetable culture. This may seem a trite saying to many but when you ask a man like Mr. Gray as to details he is ready to give them. "Oats hay," says Mr. Gray, "is one of the most profitable crops. There is always a demand for hay on the bay, as there are a number of sawmills, and logging operations require hay on a large scale. Fruit of all kinds will grow to perfection back from the beach--especially small fruits and apples. This is a natural apple country and winter apples grow firm and fine of texture and good color and splendid keeping qualities. Cranberries have been raised here for many years. The Stearns place and the Harrison place have produced fine cranberries, and without flooding the lands. Stick the vines in the ground and they will produce crops. What we need is people who will give this industry attention. It is a very healthy country and there is very little sickness. Of course, a few old people are sick, but that is about all. In twenty years we have never failed to get an abundance of everything that we planted. There are still plenty of cheap lands to be had, and every acre will produce fruit or dairy products. This is a natural grass country. In all the valleys and on the hills clovers and timothy grow in great luxuriance. The grass grows all the year around and we seldom--almost never--have freezing weather. It is as fine a dairying and cheese country as Tillamook county, and in fact Lincoln and Tillamook cannot be surpassed in these industries. All our bottom lands will go to $100 per acre and they can be picked for $50 per acre at present.

Two Garden Facts.

Frank L. Buker who keeps the Alsea house makes these two statements of garden products:

"I sold $8.00 worth of peas from four rows three rods long."

"From fifty hills of cucumbers picked forty gallons of pickles."

Was Formerly Near Salem.

D. W. Gay, who was formerly in Yamhill county, just west of Salem, has been here two years and speaks highly of the country. He says: "The Alsea is a great grass and fruit country, but it very much needs a go-ahead class of people. It is a fine stock country, has a mild climate and cattle run the whole year through and come out of the winter in better shape than some that are kept up in the valley where I was raised. No sheds are required for the cattle in winter because they have shelter and there is very little rough weather. I raised a potato crop last year by just dropping them on the grass and plowing them in. Had a large crop and used potatoes all the year from the ground. Never took them out or put them in the cellar. It is the best country I know of for a poor man to get a foothold, but a man with means can do better."

The Damascus creamery of Portland has a branch here manufacturing a fine grade of butter.

H. F. Jenkins of Newport keeps a stock of drygoods and millinery at Waldport, with Mrs. O. W. Peterson in charge.

Chas. Bobell has the shop formerly conducted by the Waldport Meat Company. He keeps a good stock of fresh and salt meats and has a large trade on the bay and river. He does business with Ed. Stoker of Newport.

J. C. Ludermann is a young business man who was raised here, and has bought a half interest with Mr. Bobell in the meat market. He owns a half interest in the mail boat and several other boats and has a fine timber claim.

C. L. McKerna, a prominent Portland real estate man, has secured 200 acres on the north beach at Waldport, and will put out a tract of eucalyptus trees. More and more Portland capital is going into the Alsea country.

Chas. Ludermann has been in the Alsea country 24 years. He owned the sawmill and operated it for some time, conducted a general store, and has bought and sold a great deal of timber land and farms. Mr. Ludermann has the Waldport billiard hall and amusement place, and knows everybody in the country. Persons investing in the Alsea country will find Mr. Ludermann a reliable man to get information as to values and quality of lands. He speaks German and was born in Schleswig, Holstein. He can do anything from giving a man a shave to a bear hunt.

The Waldport Lumber Company operates a sawmill, store and shingle mill. R. A. Kent is the head sawyer.

Tyler & Kent conduct a confectionery and ice cream parlor.

Barnes' Cash Store
E. J. Barnes, Prop.

We shall give you at least two days' notice in the daily papers before this sale closes.

Our store closes at 5:30 every evening excepting Saturdays.

The Central Hotel is run by Troxel & Broadley. They have been here since July.

There is a large public hall for amusements and dances, owned by J. D. Kent. It was kindly thrown open for a booster meeting and a large crowd was present to hear the Journal campaign of Development.

J. D. Kent is in the forestry service building trades.

There is one church at Waldport--the Presbyterian conducted by Rev. Rhys Gwynn, well known in the valley as man of ability and character, qualities that count even in the ministry.

Frank L. Buker came to Waldport six years ago. He conducts the Alsea house, and owns a tract of fine timber land and a small farm, and is Republican county chairman.

W. H. Simmons has a billiard and pool room, with soft drinks and cigars. Mr. Simmons has a home-stand on Drift Creek, and fires in the shingle mill.

J. C. Dobbins is operating the cannery for the Elmore Canning Co. Mr. Dobbins was at Gardiner and run the Reed cannery successfully several years.

Mrs. Lou Bohon bought out the Leutjens store and keeps a fine stock of general merchandise. She came here a few months ago from Texas and was originally in Kentucky.

A horse that is allowed to feed himself from the bin never wins a race. People who get everything they want and get it easy die crying for the moon.--Robt. J. Burdette.

CHERRY FAIR COMMITTEES ARE ACTIVE

There was a large and enthusiastic meeting of the executive committee of the Cherry Fair, and the chairmen of all the sub-committees were present. There was also a large attendance of fruit growers. The finance committee reported hearty cooperation, and enough funds in sight to handle the enterprise. Funds were appropriated to the various committees, and an additional committee on lectures and demonstration car was appointed--C. L. Dick and L. T. Reynolds. They will secure an exhibition car and daily lectures on horticulture, lectures each day of interest to the fruit growers. The publicity committee is putting on a contest for queen of the Cherry Fair. There are already several entries, and the queen will be selected by ballot. The committee reported that the Arnold carnival attractions had been secured. The decoration committee reported that good cash prizes would be offered for the best store front. The way the fruit growers are taking hold of the cherry exhibits is very gratifying to the business men who are backing the biggest fruit show that will be pulled off in the valley this year.

METHODIST BROTHERHOOD BANQUETTED

The Brotherhood of the M. E. church had its first monthly banquet at the lecture room of the First church Tuesday evening, and there was a large attendance. President B. L. Steeves made the opening address and presided and introduced Bishop Smith of Portland, who delivered the principal address. President Homan, Judge Moreland, Rev. Selleck, and other made short addresses. E. C. Minton is secretary of this organization and it holds monthly meetings. The membership is not confined to the church, but includes persons who attend church, or whose wives attend when they
