

FISH MORE POWERFUL THAN MAN

HUMAN BIPED NOT IN SAME CLASS WITH GAME SPORTS OF THE FINNEY TRIBE WHEN IT COMES TO CRAFTINESS AND STRENGTH IN CONQUESTS.

[SANTA BARBARA NEWS CALLING] Santa Barbara, Cal., July 29.—If a man were a fish he wouldn't be classed among the game ones, according to Frank Garbutt, of Los Angeles, who is cruising from San Pedro to San Francisco in his yacht.

Garbutt's opinion is based on a test struggle with Frank Harrison, of San Francisco. Harrison, six feet tall and weighing 175 pounds, permitted Garbutt to fasten a nine-strand fish line to his belt and attempted to land him with a nine-ounce rod. Harrison is an expert swimmer, and before Garbutt could stop his first rush the man-fish had run out 50 feet of line.

Despite his struggles, however, after that he was reeled steadily toward the boat. He fought desperately, but within 17 minutes was brought to gaff. Garbutt claims a yellow-tail weighing one-third as much would have resisted an hour.

MISERABLE SALARY WAS RESPONSIBLE

DEFAULTING CASHIER OF RUSSO-CHINESE BANK COULD NOT RESIST TEMPTATION OF MILLIONS WHEN PAID ONLY TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS A WEEK.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] New York, July 30.—Blaming the bank which employed him for paying him a miserable stipend, and then allowing him to handle millions, Erwin Wider, arrested assistant cashier of the Russo-Chinese bank, admitted that he stole $600,000. Wider broke down in his cell and wept as he told his story.

"Yes, I took the money and the securities," he said. "It was only what you might expect of a man getting $25 a week and handling millions. It is the bank's fault. The bank should not put a man on a miserable salary in charge of everything with no thought of the consequences."

"Wall street seemed safe. I decided I'd take a chance and play the market. I did not get reckless, until I was in so deep there was no way to escape. I believed the market would turn. It didn't, and here I am."

Wider intimated his willingness to give full details of his speculations when the proper time comes. He will be arraigned Monday.

An Old Drinking Cup.

The scissors grinder is one of the interesting personages of the city streets, and his cheerful clanging bell is known to country roads, too. Sometimes the bell is part of his grinding machine and rings by means of a spring as the wheels on which the frame is trundled go round. More often it is just a big brass dinner bell with a noisy clapper which the grinder dangles in his hand. Sometimes the grinder uses his bell for a cup. It really makes quite an elegant goblet. It may be dipped into the wayside stream or held under the spout of a city drinking fountain. That fountain do spring if not in deserts, certainly in quite unlikely places, was lately shown on a long, hot street of brick houses in a city. A scissors grinder was passing slowly along, swinging a rather dispirited bell. The man looked as thirsty as the observant wayfarer felt. Presently he stopped and bent beside the basement of one of the houses which was nearly on a line with the sidewalk. He turned the faucet of the hose hydrant set to supply the hose that watered the tiny grass plots. He held his bell under the stream of water, rinsed and filled it and drank. Surely no watcher would chide him for taking advantage of the ready cup of cold water.

REFORM ELEMENT ACCUSED

TRIED TO "PACK" THE JURY IN BOOTLEGGING CASE AT LA-GRANDE AND SPRING A SENSATION.

La Grande, Ore., July 30.—The case of Adolph Newlin, charged with selling liquor, will go to the jury early tomorrow morning.

A sensation has developed on account of admission by witnesses for the state that they tried to have the sheriff summon a jury panel that was "suitable" to the Law and Order League. Rev. Mr. Gray, W. A. Worstell and Detective Morgan have figured most conspicuously in the case for the state, having watched the detective while he was buying the whisky at the drug store.

IS TROUBLE IN RANKS OF YOUNG REPS

DIFFERENT VIEWS ARE ENTERTAINED AS TO CORRECT ATTITUDE OF YOUNG MEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB, AS AN ORGANIZATION TOWARD PARTY CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE.

Because of the prevalence of the impression that the assembly rally held at Marion square Wednesday evening was held under the auspices of the Young Men's Republican Club, of this city, and because of the further fact that Carl Abrams, candidate for the house of representatives on the assembly ticket, continues, in spite of that candidacy, to remain as president of that organization, a dissension has broken out among its members which threatens to undermine the very foundation of the club.

The club came into existence about two years ago, and during the last election it did effective work for the Republican ticket. Its purposes and objects, according to its constitution—at least so it is said—is to remain neutral as to candidates prior to the primaries, and then, after them, whip into line and work for the ticket nominated.

The impression generally prevails that the assembly rally held Wednesday evening, and at which assembly candidates, including Acting Governor Bowerman, candidate for governor, were introduced to the public, was held under the auspices of the club. That, it is contended, was in direct violation of the club's constitution, and it is one of the causes for the insurrection within its ranks.

Another cause of dissension is the fact that Abrams continues to remain president of the organization. Hul Patton was the club's first president, and when he was nominated for the legislature, realizing that his candidacy might embarrass the club as to its neutrality as to candidates before the primaries, he resigned, and L. C. Stringer was elected as his successor. Stringer moved away, and Abrams was elected in his stead. It is now maintained by members of the club that Mr. Abrams should follow in the footsteps of Patton, and resign, so that the club might not be embarrassed by the fact that he is a candidate.

The club, it is understood, will have a meeting in the near future, and the trouble will probably then be thoroughly threshed out.

COURT WILL LOOK AFTER GALLAGHER

San Francisco, July 30.—Judge Lawler, of the superior court, intends to tell the persons interested in the case against Patrick Calhoun just what he thinks of the continued absence of James L. Gallagher, former supervisor, and principal witness against Calhoun in the "graft cases" now pending.

The judge declared he had heard much about the reasons for the absence of Gallagher. He said he would go over the entire record in the case, and at the next session of court, at which the case comes up, give his own views on the reasons for the for the absence of the witness.

"If material witness is absent the people are entitled to have a reasonable effort made to locate and produce him," Lawler said.

The judge intimated that his remarks would indicate whether he considered a "reasonable effort" to get Gallagher here has been made.

Gallagher is said to be living in or near Vancouver, B. C., at present.

SAYS BURTON IS A RUSTY OLD PINHEAD

GEORGE B. COX UNBURDENED HIS MIND OF REAL OPINION OF SENATOR THEODORE BURTON OF OHIO—"DEVOID OF PRINCIPLE AND DOES NOT VALUE THE TRUTH."

Cincinnati, O., July 30.—Senator Theodore E. Burton is a "pinhead, and a rusty one at that," according to George B. Cox, if he is quoted correctly in a morning newspaper here. Cox has just returned from the Republican state convention at Columbus and relieved his mind, according to the newspaper, of his personal opinion of Burton.

"Of all the treacherous men I ever met," Cox is quoted as having said, "Burton is the worst. From my personal knowledge and experience I am warranted in saying he is devoid of principle and does not value the truth. He may know the meaning of the word truth, but I doubt it. He's a pinhead, and a rusty one at that."

Burton Replies to Cox.

Cleveland O., July 30.—Replying to a statement in a Cincinnati newspaper, quoting "Boss" George B. Cox as referring to him as a "pinhead, and a rusty one at that," Senator Burton today declared that Cox did not know how to talk about gentlemen.

"It is time the people of Ohio refused to submit to the tactics of a man of Cox's character," said Burton, with some heat. "It is obvious that Cox is bitterly disappointed and chagrined at his failure to nominate his own candidate for governor. He is venting his anger and spite on everybody who refuses to take orders."

"Referring to the charge that I broke my promise to him, I would say that that Cox does not know how to talk to a gentleman and cannot seem to speak plain language of one."

Burton and Cox took part in a conference at which a number of leaders of the regular Republicans joined before the state convention at Columbus convened. It is presumed that the alleged promise was made at this conference.

The College at Our Doors.

Every state in the Union has in operation a large and expensive educational plant of high and normal school buildings which are in use not more than 40 per cent of their possible working efficiency, says the Technical World.

Every state has also a large and constant number of young men and women who are debarred from the colleges either because they cannot afford the expense of a college education or because circumstances make it out of the question for them to leave home for that purpose.

This question, which rather reverses the ancient story of Mahomet and the mountain, represents an entirely new idea in education. It is to be tried out in Massachusetts beginning on a comparatively small scale next autumn, and will undoubtedly be tried out thoroughly.

Whether or not this remarkable project proves successful in the long run, Massachusetts College, recently incorporated by the legislature of that state, will be geographically quite the largest educational institution in the world, for it will apply the traditional arrangement of an English university, like Cambridge or Oxford, not to a single university town, but to the entire state of Massachusetts.

tion in the world, for it will apply the traditional arrangement of an English university, like Cambridge or Oxford, not to a single university town, but to the entire state of Massachusetts.

Its plant will be the high and normal school building already standing in some 28 Massachusetts towns and cities, and 90 per cent of the population will thus be situated within an eight-mile radius of one or the other of the Massachusetts college lecture rooms and laboratories.

Although the college will open with only a fraction of its possible equipment, the interest and cooperation already assured throughout the state indicate a rapid development of all the proposed educational centers.
