

FARMERS DEMAND TOP PRICE

INCREASED OFFERINGS OF NEW WHEAT IN THE NORTHWEST, HOWEVER, HAVE TENDENCY TO ENCOURAGE MILLERS TO WAIT FOR A SLUMP IN DEMANDS OF THE GROWERS.

Portland, July 30.—Farmers were offering wheat more freely yesterday, particularly in the Walla Walla country, but they were still asking 90 cents for it. So far as could be learned, no one was in the market to pay this price. The market was still quoted firm, but not so much so as a few days ago. When the first lot of new wheat were offered they met an urgent demand because of the scarcity of spot wheat, and the asking prices were readily paid. It is probable that some of the mills still need a little bluestem badiv, but with offerings on the increase, they are naturally bidding lower prices. The present market is fully 5 cents above the export basis, but as it will be a month yet before the movement of new wheat to market can assume large proportions, it is likely that prices will be slow in settling down to the foreign level. That values must eventually get down to a parity with the foreign markets is conceded by all. No talk is now heard of any considerable amount of wheat going East.

Reports of threshing operations are coming in from what were considered some of the poorer sections and are showing very satisfactory results. One farmer north of Colfax reports that he is getting 50 to 60 bushels of Fall wheat to the acre. Extremely light land around Pomeroy, that was not expected to run over 10 to 15 bushels to the acre, is threshing 23 to 25 bushels. Around Dayton there are several 25 and 30-bushel crops, where only 25 to 30 bushels were expected.

Trade was light in oats and barley, but both grains were quoted very firm. The Eastern Washington barley crop is not up to last year's. According to the Echo Echoes, on Monday and Tuesday of this week, Louegan and McIntosh, of Portland, bought the following lots of alfalfa hay at Echo, paying $6 per ton in the stack; Vincent place, 600 tons; Jim McCarty, 100 tons; Otis McCarty, 350 tons; Mr. O. F. and A. Thompson, 1000 tons; Grant Buchanan, 250 tons; Mrs. Rogers, 200 tons; total, 25,000 tons. The same day, Henry & Co., of Portland, paid the same price for 1100 tons, on the old Asa B. Thompson place.

BUSINESS MEN WHO MAY LET NAMES BE USED IN PRIMARY

Sherman Swank, of Aumsville, and Geo. W. Johnson, of Salem, are being urged by many friends to allow their names to be used as legislative candidates at the direct primary. They are not seeking the office, but believe in the principles of the law, and if there is any general demand that their names be placed on the ballot will consent to go before the people. They are men of the highest class in business circles, and stand for the interests of the taxpayers.

PRESS CLUB HONORS EDITOR C. D. BABCOCK

An assembly of about 40 newspaper men and their friends sat down to a banquet table last night at the Elite to do honor to C. D. Babcock, of this city, who has become editor and manager and owner of the Stayton Mail. He was toasted and boosted by the invited guests, and many nice things said in his behalf. He has made a good record for himself as a newspaper man in this field, and the people of Stayton are delighted to have a man of his ability in their midst.

HEAVIER-THAN-AIR CRAFT VS. OLD DIRIGIBLE BALLOON

Washington, July 30.—The new head of the army, General Leonard Wood, will not forsake the old dirigible balloon as a military aircraft in favor of the heavier-than-air machine.

According to the General, heavier than air machines have proved their practicability for many purposes but even the recent bomb throwing tests at Atlantic City and New York have failed to convince him that they are as yet sufficiently perfected to meet the requirements of war. The chief objection raised by General Wood to this type of air craft is their dependency upon favorable weather to fly, whereas the dirigible gas machines have already made successful flights under the most adverse atmospheric conditions.

"The dirigible already has proven that it is useful in military maneuvers," said Wood. "As scout ships, dirigibles have sailed during maneu-res over ground that would be in war the camp of the enemy and engineers in them have demonstrated their ability to make accurate maps of hostile forces, their distribution and the extent and locations of their fortifications."

The new chief-of-staff is a firm believer in the agitation of the question of a balloon division to the United States army and thinks that the reinforcement of the army in the field with such an equipment would greatly add to its fighting efficiency. As to the heavier-than-air machines he said:

"The trouble with these from a military standpoint is that circumstances have to be very light indeed for starting and lighting and even then they are quite dependant upon favorable weather. The dirigibles will stand much harder usage."

The Ground Robin.

There is a bird which the country people of central Missouri and other sections know by the name of the ground robin, says a writer in the Kansas City Star. It is about the same shape and size as the robin, but has a similar bright, watchful and intelligent eye, much the same lively, springing hop-and-go-fetch-it movement when going about on the ground and very much the same body color only this is a little lighter, the breast plumage not so lurid, and the ground robin is distinctly speckled, which the redbreast is not. Differing decidedly from the redbreast however, the ground robin is a very shy bird keeps well away from the proximity of man and his habitation. If one would catch anything but a fleeting glimpse of the ground robin he must go quietly and slowly down somewhere in the woods where the shade is deepest and the tangle of the undergrowth the thickest sit or recline keep so still as to seemingly become one of the inanimate things of nature all about and there is a chance he may see the ground robin unalarmed and attending to its everyday affairs.

A ground robin dropped from an overhanging bush down on the bare rock at the edge of a tiny pool. He paused a moment, bright-eyed and watchful; a half dozen dance steps with a prouette he performed and stopped still to look a moment all around and up and down; then a hop and a skip over the flat rock and a poise above the pool that nature has made perfect for a bird bath. Head first on one side and then on the other robin looked at the reflection of himself in the water and pleased with the same he looked again and again with infinite and graceful variety of posturing. Into the pool at last he hopped, in water up to the feathers of his breast, gave a keen, quick look around once more and then down he dived. There was a rain of bright droplets on the rock and the pool became a most active and agitated miniature cold water geyser. Out jumped the bird, diluted himself to a feathered fluff, shook and set in to preening and prepping until his heart was satisfied and bathing impulse came again. Up and down he pranced and again he took a soust; out again, primp again and in again, he kept this up for full a quarter of an hour until a sudden thought of other things to do must have struck him, or maybe some alarm, for there was a flutter and a flash of wing and my ground robin was gone.

Royal Simplicity.

The Scandinavian is distinguished by a certain simplicity of bearing far exceeding that of the more sophisticated English-speaking world, and certainly the people of Sweden display rather more of the great world manner than the Norwegians, says Harper's Bazar.

Indeed, the western side of the peninsula is comparatively rural, and the young King, seated upon a little throne, is more like the President of a rustic democracy than a crowned monarch, so at one is he with the common people. It is like playing at royalty; and one almost feels that he might at any moment tilt his crown a bit askew and wink his eye.

A pretty little anecdote met us in Christiania lately. It seems that a quiet tailor-made little lady went into one of the shops one day and bought a pair of shoes, and when the saleswoman asked her address, she replied:

"You need not deliver them. Just have them wrapped. If you please. My husband will meet me here and he will carry them."

And in a moment his majesty the King came in, took the Queen's parcel and they walked out together as if they had never heard of the crown of Norway.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council of the City of Salem, Oregon, will at or about 7:30 o'clock p. m. on the 25th day of July, 1910, at the Common Council Chambers at Salem, Oregon, proceed to assess upon each lot or parcel of land liable therefore its proportionate share of the cost of the improvement of Capitol Street from the North line of State Street to the South line of Court Street in the city of Salem, Oregon, according to the plans and specifications adopted for such improvement and on file at the office of the City Recorder.

All persons interested in said assessment shall appear at said time before said Common Council within five days following said date for the privilege, if they so desire, to make said improvement in lieu of their assessment.

Done by order of the Common Council of the City of Salem, Oregon, the 18th day of July, 1910. W. A. MOORES, City Recorder. 7-20-11t

The Largest Plant. The largest plant in the world is probably a species of seaweed, which often attains a length of 300 feet. The stems are dried and used as ropes by the South Sea Islanders.

"Is Life Worth Saving?" Mrs. Mollie McCarney, Prentiss, Miss., writes that she had a severe case of kidney and bladder trouble, and that four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured her sound and well. She had tried several other kidney medicines and had been treated for three months by physicians, but got no benefit until she took Foley's Kidney Remedy, and she closes her letter by saying: "I heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to any sufferer of kidney disease. It saved my life." Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney and bladder trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more. J. C. Perry
