MONUMENT TENDERED TO NATION

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES TAKE PLACE IN PRESENTATION OF GIANT STONE TOWER WHICH MARKS LANDING PLACE OF PILGRIM FATHERS TO UNITED STATES.

Provincetown, Mass., Aug. 5.—Lining the historic streets with their orderly ranks, 3000 bluejackets greeted President Taft today on his arrival here to take part in the presentation by the Cape Cod Pilgrim Association of the giant stone tower that looks out on Plymouth harbor from the dock where the Mayflower grounded three centuries ago.

Forming about the president, who joined the other speakers, the escort led the way from the docks to the town hall, where the 25-foot shaft stands. Large crowds were ranged about the speakers' stand.

After an invocation by Rev. James De Normandie, of Boston, President Emeritus Charles W. Elliott, of Harvard, the orator of the day, briefly discussed the history of the Pilgrim Fathers, and the hardships endured by them in their conquest of New England.

Following Dr. Elliot, Jonkheer H. M. Van Weede, charge d'affaires of the Netherlands legation at Washington, spoke.

Then Senator Henry C. Lodge, of Massachusetts, in a simple address transferred the stone shaft from its builders to the people of the nation. Former Congressman McCleary, of Minnesota, followed Senator Lodge. Governor Draper then introduced President Taft, who, on behalf of the nation, accepted the monument from the descendants of the Puritans. A banquet, at which the speakers and other distinguished guests were present, closed the ceremonies.

The monument was begun on August 10, 1907, when President Roosevelt dedicated the corner stone. Its cost was slightly over $100,000.

VICE PRESIDENT SHERMAN.

"Hamon suggested that I see McMurray, which I did. McMurray did not mention the contracts."

Creager testified that he did not tell Gore in detail of his conversation with Hamon, and intimated that McMurray's meeting with him was nothing unusual, as he had known McMurray for years.

He declared that McMurray never offered to let him in on the contracts, and didn't suggest a bribe.

"I am the author of the bill providing for the disposal of the Indian property, and which expresses McMurray's wishes," Creager testified. "In fact many of its provisions were outlined by him. During the seven months McMurray and I discussed the bill he did not make any improper suggestions to me. There was no person, aside from Hamon, who ever made a suggestion which I considered improper."

"The bill for the disposal of these Indian lands was approved by the Oklahoma delegation, although it was suggested in committee that a new bill be drafted. The Oklahoma delegation was organized with Gore president and myself secretary."

"Hamon told me he could arrange for me to get an interest in the McMurray contracts, but he didn't say that he was interested in them," Creager testified. "I understand that Hamon was authorized to represent McMurray."

He testified that the second bill, covering the disposal of the lands, was finally prepared by the Oklahoma delegation. A conference was held by the president and the officials of the interior department, the Oklahoma delegation attending.

No agreement was reached, he said. Senator Gore was out of humor during Creager's testimony. He examined Creager, asking what Hamon had said to Creager referring to testimony before the committee. Creager replied that Hamon "asked me if I would testify, and I said I would, and told him what my testimony would be. He regretted that I would be compelled to make a statement."

D. L. Gore, brother and private secretary of the senator, took the stand. He testified that Senator Gore was the author of the Indian lands bill, which resulted in the indictments of a number of people in the town lot cases. Governor Haskell was indicted in connection with these cases.

"Hamon was often in my brother's office," D. L. Gore testified. "Orville Smith, private counsel of Governor Haskell, was also interested in the resolutions inquiring into the manner in which the indictments were procured against Haskell."

It is expected that Senator Gore will be recalled during the afternoon to testify regarding the manner in which the passage of bills supposed to be for the protection of the Indians was secured. These bills permitted attorneys to secure fabulous fees for their alleged services to the Indians.

Hamon Says Gore Lied. "When Gore said I suggested that he might secure $25,000 if he would not fight the McMurray contracts, Gore lied," Hamon testified. Gore flinched and turned his sightless eyes toward Hamon.

"McMurray had not sought to interest me in his contracts," continued the witness. "At no time did I ever intimate to any man or woman that I was interested in them."

"Do you know any reason why Senator Gore should make these charges?" Congressman Burke asked.

"I know Gore had been prosecuted on criminal charges in Texas and that his brother had been accused of crime," Hamon answered, "but I did not think my knowledge of these matters would lead the senator to accuse me."

A recess was taken by the committee shortly afterward. It was expected Senator Gore would cross-examine Hamon during the afternoon. Burke asked Hamon if he called on Senator Gore May 6.

"I think I did," Hamon replied. "I reached Washington May 5 and I remember I talked with Gore and told him I came in response to a telegram received May 3. Orville Smith, counsel for Governor Haskell, wired me to stay in Washington until Saturday, in reply to a telegram from me saying I would leave Washington that night. I had not seen McMurray for a year previous to May 6, the date on which Gore says I intimated he could get $25,000 or $50,000 out of the McMurray contracts. Gore was the first person to tell me about the McMurray contracts, saying he had made a mistake by getting into the McMurray fight."

"Did you tell Gore if he would withdraw from the fight against the McMurray contracts, there would be $25,000 in it for him?" Congressman Burke interrupted the witness to ask.

"I was never interested in the McMurray contracts to the extent of a dime," Hamon replied. "There is absolutely no foundation for Gore's story."

Denial No Surprise. Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 5.—Senator Thomas P. Gore is not surprised at the denial made by Vice-President Sherman of the charges made by the Oklahoma senator before the congressional committee which is investigating alleged attempted bribery in connection with the McMurray Indian contracts.

"Such denials," said Gore today, "as those of Sherman and Senator Curtis are to be expected."

Jacob L. Hamon, whose name was brought into the story yesterday when Gore appeared before the investigating committee and told his story of the attempt, he said was made to bribe him to vote for bills validating the contracts a certain syndicate had made with the Indians, has asked to be allowed to appear before the committee.

"I think I can square myself," said Hamon as he asked to be summoned.

The committee resumed its sessions again today.

The allegations of bribery in connection with the Indian contracts were first made on the floor of the senate by Senator Gore near the close of the last session of congress. The charge was made in connection with legislation then before the senate which gave certain officers of the government power to validate contracts with Indians in selling lands. Under the present system the contracts are validated by the government after recommendation by the committee of Indian affairs. The bill introduced in the senate proposed to make contracts in the manner in which contracts could be improved so that, it is declared, "friends of those holding contracts could have them approved."

Rich Mineral Land Involved. It was to withdraw his opposition to this bill, Senator Gore said, that he was offered the bribe.

The contracts which it is alleged by Gore were affected by the bill were those in which J. C. McMurray was said to be interested. It was said that McMurray, representing a syndicate, had purchased 450,000 acres of lands in the Chickasaw and Choctaw nations in Oklahoma. The lands are rich in mineral deposits. The purchase price is said to have been $30,000,000 of which 10 per cent was to go to McMurray and the others interested in the deal.

This was held excessive by Gore, especially in the light of the fact that the government guaranteed to sell the lands for the Indians without cost to them.

As the charge was made in the senate, Gore alleged that the men interested in the matter were a syndicate of attorneys. It was also intimated that the deal was being made in the interest of another syndicate. At the time the charge was made, Gore said, another senator, a former senator, an Oklahoma congressman and others were involved.

The names of all those interested were not mentioned until Senator Gore appeared on the witness stand here. His charge that Vice-President Sherman was involved in the deal is based on an alleged statement made by Hamon in the office of Senator Gore in Washington. Hamon, he said, had stated that Sherman was interested in the deal but did not say in what way.

Senator Curtis, of Kansas, accused of having been interested in the contracts, and who denied the statement, has part Indian blood.

No Truth In It, Says Sherman. Big Moose, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Vice-President James S. Sherman today sent the following telegram from his summer home to the United Press:

"The story coming to me of the Gore charges in Muskogee is absolutely without the slightest shadow of foundation."

The vice-president's telegram was sent in answer to messages sent to him detailing the charges made by Senator Gore before the congressional investigating committee in Muskogee, Okla., yesterday.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Friends of Vice-President Sherman will urge him to take the witness stand before the congressional investigating committee, and refute the charges made against him by Senator Gore and Muskogee.

It is contended that Sherman's connection with the case is merely unpleasant, and that he has had absolutely no interest in the contracts.

Should he appear before the committee and openly deny the charges, the matter would be cleared up, his friends say.

Roosevelt Dodge's Reporters. New York, Aug. 5.—Fully a score of newspaper men today awaited the arrival of Colonel Roosevelt at the offices of the Outlook to question him regarding the charges of Senator Gore of Oklahoma, connecting Vice-President James S. Sherman with an alleged attempt to influence legislation affecting Indian land contracts.

Suddenly the outer door opened. Colonel Roosevelt breezed in, shouting, "I have no statement to make about Sherman," and disappeared behind the doors of his sanctum before the reporters could frame a question.

He denied himself to all callers thereafter.

Fairbury, Neb., Aug. 5.—Declaring cigarette smoking one of the most degenerate habits known to modern life, Mrs. Alice Longworth was today asked by the Christian Endeavor societies, meeting here, to abstain from smoking. The endeavorers indicted a long letter to Mrs. Longworth, telling her that cigarette smoking is abhorred by all Christians and asking her, for the sake of her father, Theodore Roosevelt, to give up the practice.

"Coroner Blackburn and myself are leaving here today for the ranch. We expect to find additional evidence that will aid us in capturing the murderers."

"The garden of the ranch house will be thoroughly overhauled by Sheriff Smith's deputies in the hope that more portions of bodies may be found."

"The murderers left nothing by which to trace them and if they had, the marks probably were obliterated by persons who visited the ranch during the time the Kennells were residing."

Taft Arrives on Mayflower.

Provincetown, Mass., Aug. 5.—Eight battleships and a great fleet of smaller war vessels greeted the Mayflower today with a presidential salute of 21 guns as the vessel bearing President Taft entered the harbor.

The president comes to dedicate the Pilgrims' monument in a "so different" Mayflower from the one that bore the original New England fathers to their new world destination.

As the Mayflower steamed through the long lane of warships President Taft held his first naval review. The president stood on the bridge of the little vessel and fractured rigid naval etiquette by waving his hand to the thousands of bluejackets who cheered as the Mayflower passed.

Later Admirals Schroeder and Vrele and the captains of the warships paid their official respects to the president.

Lot Pianos in Front of Geo. C. Will Store

Geo. C. Will, the music dealer received another car of pianos from the Starr Piano company, of Richmond, Indiana, today. He has handled these pianos so long, and people buying them like them so well that he sells a carload a month. Many come in and ask for them as their friends have them and say they get more value for their money than any piano they ever tried. Another reason he gets so many is several dealers in Portland buy their pianos from Mr. Will. We expect another car from Chicago factory tomorrow. When this car arrives, we will have a beautiful line of pianos to select from. If you need a piano, come in and see the nice new styles and the low prices sold at. If you need any time, I am as well prepared to carry your paper as any one in the United States. My place of business is at 121 S. Commercial St. Geo. C. Will, Music and sewing machines.
