

CHARGE IS PIRACY ON HIGH SEAS

HUGH J. THOMPSON, A SEATTLE BARBER, WANTS TO GO HUNTING TREASURE AND SO STEALS HIS OWN SCHOONER FROM U. S. MARSHAL.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
Seattle, Wash., Aug. 29.—Hugh J. Thompson, a barber, his wife, his wife's sister and a crew of five able seamen are all locked up in the Jefferson county jail today and must face a charge of piracy on the high seas.

The alleged pirates were caught on board the schooner Vida after an exciting chase off Wildby Island by the revenue cutter Arcata. The demand for their arrest came from United States Marshal Hopkins, who charges that the barber-captain stole the ship from its moorings while it was in the custody of the United States officers. When overhauled by the Arcata, the name of the schooner had been changed to read "Elvira" and it was only when Thompson was confronted with the Vida's ship's papers that he admitted his ship was sailing under false colors.

Thompson was on his way to the South seas. He planned to form a colony to be known as Caahkopy-tonka in Peru and all those willing to join the expedition in search of golden ingots were invited to come along. Thompson's wife and her sister and five others took the chance. The departure was delayed, however, by Louis Skelding, who libelled the schooner on a claim for $200, and the United States marshal seized the craft where it lay anchored off West Seattle.

Yesterday Thompson and his party boarded the Vida and set sail. The absence of the schooner was soon noticed and the revenue cutter sent in pursuit. Had the Vida gained one hour's start she would have been in British Columbia waters, where the United States officials would have been powerless to stay the progress of the voyage for treasure.

"Had I had another gallon of gasoline for the engine or the breeze been a bit stiffer, you would not have been able to board us," he said.

LIGHTNING KILLS YOUTH AT OSWEGO

Oswego, Ore., Aug. 29.—Old settlers of Portland today declare that Ray Thomas, 23, son of the mayor of Oswego, who was killed by lightning yesterday, was the first victim of thunderbolt in Western Oregon.

The young man was killed during the storm which swept over the western part of Oregon during the afternoon.

Thomas was feeding horses in a barn near his home when the bolt struck the cupola of the structure and grounded through a post against which Thomas was leaning on at the time.

Heinze Gets a License.
New York, Aug. 29.—William P. Howe, treasurer of the Standard Oil company, declared today that Thomas W. Lawson's story of the "red haired woman" who took part in some of the biggest financial deals in the history of New York was "absurd."

Further than to make this comment he refused to discuss the matter.

F. Augustus Heinze this afternoon procured a license to wed Mrs. Bernice Henderson, the "vampire girl" of the "A Pool There Was" company. The couple went to the city hall in a taxicab. Heinze gave his occupation as a "miner" and his age 48. Mrs. Henderson said "no occupation."

Heinze announced that they would be married August 31, but refused to say where.

The day will be an event in the history of the state and there will be several thousand German people in the city on that day. It is the intention to make German Day an annual event.

ONTARIO HATCHERY OUT OF IT

FISH WARDEN SAYS OWING TO LACK OF FUNDS THIS HATCHERY WILL NOT BE OPERATED—PLENTY OF FISH IN WALLOWA BUT STREAM TOO LOW FOR THEM TO NAVIGATE.

Because of the insufficiency of the balance on hand in the state hatchery fund Master Fish Warden Clanton, who has returned from a tour of inspection of the state salmon hatcheries along the Columbia river and its tributaries, announces that he will make no attempt to operate the Ontario hatchery, the largest in the state, this season and that, unless there is a generous freshet soon to permit the flow of the Wallowa river from its present low stage to permit the fish to ascend the stream, the results from the Wallowa hatchery will not be so great as in the past which will operate to lighten the yields of the state hatcheries materially as compared to former seasons.

Mr. Clanton says that the waters of the Wallowa river are lower this season than ever before, in fact there is not sufficient volume of flow to permit the fish to ascend the stream to the spawning grounds. Immense pools formed in the stream below the hatchery were found by Warden Clanton, by doffing his clothes and wading into the ponds, to be literally alive with salmon, which will go up the stream to the spawning grounds with the first freshet and sufficient eggs will be realized to produce a big yield of fry before the spawning season closes. The conditions at other hatcheries visited were not so serious or aggravated as at these two stations and an average yield of eggs and small fry is expected.

THE TRUNK DISAPPEARED WITHOUT CHANGING CARS

Mrs. Mary E. Hale, of Ione, Oregon, is very much exercised over the disappearance and welfare of a steamer trunk and contents which was checked over the Northern Pacific from North Yakima, Washington, via Pendleton and the O. R. & N. to Ione, recently, and the kind offices of the Oregon Railroad commission has been solicited in aid of securing some trace of the lost wardrobe. Mrs. Hale claims that she checked the trunk, valued at $75, over the Northern Pacific from North Yakima to Ione, and while the agent at North Yakima maintains that he delivered the baggage in strict accordance with his duties and instructions, the O. R. & N. agent contends that he never received the missing article and it seems that the railroad commission is called upon to sit in judgment upon the question of veracity as between the agents of the railroad companies involved and to locate the piece of baggage, which seems to have dissolved into nothingness between North Yakima and Pendleton without change of trains.

While in Transit from Portland to Marshfield, by Steamer, It is Learned that a Box of Campaign Literature Fell Overboard into the Chippy Sea and All Efforts of the Crew of the Vessel to Recover the Parcel were Unavailing and the Box Finally Sank from View to Rise no More.

It is predicted by the sage of the state capital building that, as a result of this sad catastrophe, it would not be surprising if, when the contents of this valuable package are devoured and digested by the leviathans and denizens of the "deep blue," it would precipitate a sudden rush of "suckers" to the Oregon shore to witness the outcome of the election and to participate in the campaign. It is suggested that if they swallow some of the statements made therein, they will never come to the surface again even should they escape death from indigestion.

SALEM IS CHAMPION OF STATE

WON DECIDING GAME OF HARD FOUGHT SERIES, IN BRILLIANT GAME WITH DILWORTH DERBIES YESTERDAY.

Did we win the rag? Ask of us who were there whether we did or not.

Also, did we not put an everlasting clincher upon that silver stein offered by the Honeyman Hardware Company? (Knockers' chorus: "Yes, but there were some rotten plays, etc.")

By far the most fascinating and exciting game of ball that has been pulled off on a Salem diamond, and especially of the Tri-City league series, was that of yesterday afternoon, which was witnessed by the largest and most enthusiastic crowd of the season, and which was won by the Salem Senators over the Dilworth Derbies by the score of 4 to 3.

This was the last game of the season and the deciding one for the much coveted Tri-City league pennant for the season of 1910, and the silver trophy, valued at $100, presented by the Honeyman Hardware Company, and it was a fight to the finish, with every inch of ground contested by might and main, from going to go. Umpire Rankin took unusual interest in the game and officiated impartially and squarely throughout and gave satisfaction to all, although the Derbies thought they got the worst of it when McConnell was called out for cutting third base in the fifth. Rankin, however, is death upon base-cutting and keeps his eagle eye upon the runners.

At no time during the entire game was there a lurch upon the winning for either team and the exciting situations were so frequently recurring that the crowd was kept on the qui vive from beginning to end of every inning. The Derbies opened up in the score getting right off the reel in the first half of the first inning, when with Robison and McConnell down, Gaines reached first on Shorey's error, stole second, and scored when Hargraves shot over Hunt on an excusable error. Townsend bounded out to Lavier, Johnson hit first up; Fay sacrificed Townsend to Irwin; Mickels fanned; Johnson scored when White bounced one through Irwin, at first, and Kay fanned.

There were moving pictures in the second but nothing material transpired until the last half of the third when, by timely hitting and good base running, Salem ran in two more tallies, by Johnson and Meyers. In the fourth Lavier hit out a two-bagger, was sacrificed to third by Shorey, Townsend to Irwin, and scored when Johnson bunted one through Townsend. Johnson was caught stealing second and Fay flew out to Townsend.

Things looked bad in the fifth when Bauer walked and was put out at second on fielder's choice by Meyers on Keyes' bunt. Irwin flew out to Lavier, who left first uncovered and missed a double play. Robison walked. Keyes and Robison scored on McConnell's hit. McConnell was advanced to second by Gaines, error Fay, and raced home from second on a wild throw to first by Meyers, but cut third and was thrown out, Mickels to White to Fay. It was nip-and-tuck the balance of the game, which was replete with hair-raising situations and the best game of the season ended dramatically in the ninth when Townsend flew out to Fay; Hughes fanned; Bauer walked and died between first and second when Keyes bounced a slow one down to Lavier at the initial sack.

There were so many great features to the game that it would take too much space to enumerate them singly but the most spectacular was the fast fielding of Shorey who robbed McConnell of an ordinarily clean hit over second in the third; the splendid work of Soldier Meyers in the box for Salem, and Townsend for the Derbies, and the fast work of in and out fields of both teams, hard hitting and clever base-running. Everybody was delighted with the game and the Salem team demonstrated that it is easily the best team in the league, with the Dilworth Derbies second best and composed of "game sports" in every particular.

Next Sunday an exhibition game has been arranged between the Salem team and the Gresham Giants, the crack amateur team of Portland on the Salem field, and on Sunday, September 11, the Salem team, amateur champions of Oregon will play the first of a series of games with the champion team of the Washington state league, at Portland, on the Vaughn street grounds, for the amateur championship of the Northwest.

MISS COODER WILL RECOVER FROM INJURY

IS RESTING MUCH EASIER TODAY AND DR. CLAY SAYS INDICATIONS ARE ALL FAVORABLE TO HER SPEEDY RECOVERY.

Miss Verna Cooder, the young lady who was run down and trampled upon by an express train driven by O. E. Price on State street, Saturday afternoon, and received serious injuries about the head, is reported as resting much easier today and on the road to recovery. Dr. H. E. Clay, in attendance upon the case, diagnosed the injuries as a slight concussion of the brain but does not anticipate a turn for the worse unless hemorrhage of the brain develops, of which there is no evidence to date. Miss Cooder has recovered consciousness and there is no indication that her mind has been affected in the least from the injury.

KOREA PART OF JAPAN.

ber of correspondents, including several sent out especially for the purpose, from Europe and America, have spent idle weeks here waiting for an exciting climax that apparently will not occur. The correspondents have received the most cordial treatment but have learned little. Viscount Terauchi's instructions were to the point on the entertainment of the journalists and the suppression of news.

Two months ago the impatient Koreans and the correspondents incidentally were excited to the highest degree. Action on the part of Japan at that time certainly would have resulted in an uprising. With every day's delay the eagerness of the Koreans diminished and the action today that would have caused an instant revolt two months ago, may pass without serious opposition now.

It is probable that the correspondents, too, will leave Korea in disgust; not the recorders of exciting events, but the bearers of empty notebooks. Japan has had to do these things before, and diplomats of the Orient admit that no nation can do them better.

DID NOT SUCCEED IN CLIMBING THE MOUNTAIN

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 29.—Bellmore Browne, leader of the Parker-Browne Mount McKinley expedition, is back in Seattle today. He left Prof. Parker at Valdez the latter too ill to continue the journey.

Browne declares that an attempt to reach the summit of Mount McKinley was abandoned after the party had reached an altitude of 10,000 feet, where a monster wall of ice blocked further ascent.

Browne would not be quoted as saying that the Lloyd party from Fairbanks did not reach the summit.
