

SAYS THEY MURDERED HIS WIFE

BOGOS MATSUKIAN SHOOT DOWN TWO FELLOW ARMENIANS, CLAIMING THAT THEY HAD KILLED HIS WIFE IN FAR AWAY ARMENIA.

[UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE.] Lowell, Mass., Sept. 24.—After a sharp pistol battle on the steps of the post office today, while a crowd was passing in the street, Bogos Matsukian, Armenian, who slew one of his countrymen and wounded another, told the police his act was one of vengeance. He killed Mohammad Ahmad and fatally wounded Ahmed Noory. Noory and Ahmad fled from Armenia to America, Matsukian declared, after they had murdered his wife there. He slew them to avenge her death.

Taken to jail the Armenian calmly lit a cigarette and told his story to the police.

"They killed her, my wife," he said. "I killed them. 'Tis well. I am glad. I knew both men in Armenia. They visited my house there. I supposed them friends."

"During the recent massacres I was compelled to flee to America. Then, my countrymen told me, these men maltreated my wife and murdered her. I swore I would kill them if I ever met. They came here, not knowing I was here. I met; I killed one, and the other dog will die. They got what they had earned. The authorities can do with me as they like. I am satisfied. My honor is avenged. Noory regained consciousness after the shooting. He said he had not killed Mrs. Matsukian."

WARDELL STIRS UP SEATTLE POLICE

[UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE.] Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 24.—Chief of Police Wapenstein, of Seattle, does not approve of the activity displayed by Acting Mayor Wardall, of Seattle, during the absence of Mayor Gill.

"Wardall merely is making a gallery play," Wapenstein declared.

"He is having a chance for fame while Mayor Gill is away, and is making the most of it."

"Wardall is a young man. He is ambitious and perhaps believes that his activity may land him the mayoralty for himself some day."

"He has known a long time that a restricted district exists in Seattle but he knows nothing of the operation of a metropolitan police department. His charges of graft in my department are ridiculous. I deny them absolutely and without qualification."

"Wardall has just removed a man who has been a faithful and efficient officer; this, and other things, show that he is merely jumping at conclusions. He is merely making a grand stand play."

SIX JOY RIDERS KILLED BY AUTO TURNING TURTLE

[UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE.] New Orleans, La., Sept. 24.—Three members of the Queen Molline Rogue Company chorus, Thomas Butler, owner of the machine, and Joseph Freedman, a perfumery salesman, were killed today when the machine in which they were riding plunged into the canal. Later reports say another man, as yet unidentified, was also killed.

The party, out for a joy ride, left a down-town cafe shortly after 3 o'clock. They were rounding a curve in the machine, when Butler, at the wheel, lost control. The auto turned turtle and landed in the canal 15 feet below the roadway. The police today are endeavoring to raise the machine and recover the bodies of the victims.

BURKE SPENT $18,361 POINDEXTER $1080.

[UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE.] Olympia, Wash., Sept. 24.—According to statements just filed with the secretary of state, Judge Thomas Burke, the standpat candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination, spent exactly $18,361 in his losing fight for the nomination, while Congressman Miles Poindexter, the insurgent, who won such an overwhelming victory, paid out $1080 for campaign expenses.

THE CRANBERRIES OF COOS.

(Nearly $5,000 per acre, or to be exact, $4,899 is the ratio of yield from a patch of cranberries in Coos county.—Coos Bay Times.)

These be the days of progress when we're howling for the new, and when we get it, sure it's days of novelty are few;

So it's the white man's burden, or the burden of his song, "I love you to the limit, for I cannot love you long."

The bike went in the scrap heap, and the auto came instead; And now the aeroplane has sent the auto off to bed

And next will be the vacuum tube, and then—but what's the use; I started in to tell you of the latest thing in—Coos.

'Tis twenty years since Hood River, (it's proper name is Dog,) First gave the horticulturists, with strawberries, a jog, And then on top of the surprise, her gold-flecked berries made, Her apples left her berries' reputation in the shade.

Then Medford's juicy luciousness, the "Comlee," came in vogue And Bartlett and D' Anjou took the fruit crown down to Rogue, Then Yakima with apples won the glory for Palouse, And none foresaw a rival in the Southern county—Coos.

Then orchard lands went soaring but no matter how they'd soar Before you had a chance to buy, they went to that much more; And those who only yesterday, were in the farmer's ranks Were touring in it autos, and were starting country banks, Instead of hayseed, apple men wore blossoms in their hair; And on the Rogue, the orchardist disported blooms of pear;

And while each thought he had the best, there yet was lying loose The richest lands within the state, and virgin down in—Coos.

Let Hood River and Medford boast the pace their orchards set— Let Douglas sing her strawberries with golden epaulet— Let Benton with her premiums, sing both loud and joyous tunes, And Marion praise her cherries, and forget she's full of prunes; But let them all remember that another love is on And the old on's in the discard, in the Loves of Oregon And while they are attractive—good enough for daily use The hobble-skirted darling is the debutante—Coos.

With cranberries upon her swamps the money comes in chunks Producing every year at least 5,000 golden plunks And then another feature makes this berry take the cup For it's a "water berry" and you cannot wind it up; It comes with the Thanksgiving and on Christmas still it stays An ever welcome visitor throughout the holidays, A thrilling crimson joy for Turkey and for goose And it yields $5,000 to the acre, down in—Coos.

WILL EXAMINE INTO MATTER OF LAND FRAUDS

[UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE.] Seattle, Wash., Sept. 24.—Charging that the police department is graft-ridden and that Mayor Gill and Chief of Police Wapenstein have, seemingly, overlooked the enforcement of law and order, Acting Mayor Max Wardall, the youngest city councilman, who is now at the head of the city government, offered the appointment of police chief to Police Captain Claude Bannick. Fearing the result when Chief Wapenstein and Mayor Gill return from their vacations, Bannick has declined the appointment.
