LINN HAS PLAN FOR THE ROADS

WOULD HAVE MAN IN EACH ROAD DISTRICT EMPLOYED STEADILY IN REPAIRING, FILLING CHUCK HOLES, REMOVING ROCKS, ETC.

The patrol system for the up-keep of the public roads throughout the county and the extension of the same system throughout the state is the idea of J. R. Linn, of the firm of Catlin & Linn and a petition will be presented to the county court during the present session asking for the co-operation of the county government with the farmers with that end in view.

This system is in effect in some parts of Europe and has been successfully practiced since the days of Napoleon Bonaparte to the end that the public highways of France are today in a high state of preservation, and Mr. Linn, who is the prime mover in the matter of the introduction of the system in Oregon, believes that it will result in the solution of the country road problem, which has been one of the chief drawbacks to the progress and prosperity of the state of Oregon and is about as near solution at the present time as it was two-score years ago.

"My proposition is," said Mr. Linn, in discussing his plan which will be presented to the county court this week, "to have the county employ a man regularly in each road district with a wheelbarrow, pick and shovel to patrol four or five miles of the road and whenever he finds a rut or chuck-hole, to fill it up with gravel or crushed rock. At the present time the county is paying numerous road supervisors $3 to $4 per day, during certain periods of the year to work up the roads in their respective districts and the taxpayers are paying out their good money to no apparent good purpose, because there are only certain seasons of the year when any work can be performed upon the roads and then it is of such an inferior character that it had better be left undone.

"If the county would employ a man in each road district in the county at $50 or $60 per month, to patrol the public highway every day of the year and, whenever he finds a depression in the roadbed, to fill it up with a good quality of gravel or crushed rock, which should be distributed over the districts in piles and easy of access to the patrolman, it is my opinion that the roads of the county and state could be maintained in a perfect state of preservation and would redound to the everlasting benefit of all concerned and the taxpayers would find their taxes for public road upkeep and improvement materially reduced. I have talked the matter over with scores of farmers in the county and have not found a single person that does not endorse the proposition and will support it if adopted by the county court."

It is understood that County Judge Bushey and Commissioners Goulet and Beckwith, comprising the county court, are in harmony with the movement and, if a satisfactory expression and petition is received from the taxpayers of the county, it will mean the adoption of a system of road improvement in Marion county, at least that will prove effective and productive of good results and the lead of Marion county may be followed out by the other counties of the state to the end that the movement will become state-wide and organized in a systematic manner.

A DEAD DOG FURNISHES A LIVE CASE

ZIELINSKI GETS AWARD FOR DAMAGES IN LOWER COURT, AND NOW THE CASE MAY BE TRIED OVER IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

Ordinarily the echo of dead dog would be wetherwursts or bologna sausage, but in this case it is an appeal from the verdict of a jury and the decree of Justice of the Peace Daniel Webster awarding H. C. Zielinski damages aggregating $69.50 and costs amounting to $40, against P. X. Shauble, both residents of the Hazel Green neighborhood, as a result of the loss of a black bird dog, the property of Zielinski, and alleged to have been dispatched to the "happy hunting grounds" by the shotgun route, at the instigation of Mr. Shauble.

Mr. Zielinski secured his verdict and decree for damages in Justice of the Peace Webster's court September 2, after a trial which took up the greater part of two days, and required a trip by the jury to the alleged scene of the slaughter of the Zielinski dog to determine whether or not a dog had been killed, and, if so, the carcass had been given proper and decent burial at the hands of his alleged executioner, who claimed that he had caught the canine in the act of chasing his sheep for the purpose of killing them.

The result of the trial was a verdict for $19.50 damages, the value of the dog as compared to $150, as claimed by its owner, and $50 exemplary damages, together with an award for costs and disbursements in favor of Zielinski amounting to $40, and now Mr. Shauble, through his attorney, A. O. Condit, seeks to have the verdict and decree of the initial court reversed. In a petition for a writ of review filed in the circuit court late yesterday afternoon, Walter G. Winslow appeared for the plaintiff in the original action for the recovery of damages.

SHERMAN CLAY AND COMPANY

BIG PIANO HOUSE OPENS BUSINESS IN SALEM AND WILL EXPAND AS FAST AS LARGER QUARTERS CAN BE OBTAINED.

A carload of pianos arrived this morning for the branch musical instrument house of Sherman, Clay & Company, who have establishments all over the Pacific Northwest. They are located at 455 Court street, and will move into larger quarters as soon as they can be secured. They will occupy a large new store, and the demand for better and larger business houses is enormous in this city. "We are here to stay," said their local business manager, "and we will put ten men in the field. We consider Salem a good business town, and only regret that we could not get a larger establishment. Perhaps we can induce some one to build us a music store such as we require. We could bring in 10 carloads of pianos, and have decided to make Salem our principal operating point in the Willamette valley.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST LECTURE

Dr. R. W. Cram, a member of the dental profession in this city, introduced his old friend, Frank Leonard, of New York, to a large audience at the Grand Opera house last night, and he delivered the annual lecture on Christian Science for the First Church of Christ Scientist of this city. He is a pleasing and practical talker and enlivened his address with touches of humor that kept the interest very keen. The stage was decorated with flowers and there were the usual ushers to distribute literature to all as they went out. The arrangements for the lecture were very complete and at the close Dr. Leonard met many of the local Scientists in a social reception.

UNCOVER BONES OF A WHAT IS IT

WORKMEN DIG UP BONES OF UNKNOWN ANIMAL—THEY LOOK LIKE THE FRAME WORK OF SOME ANCIENT DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

What is it, and why? That is the question that is puzzling the minds of the workmen under the employ of the Owl Construction company that is doing the excavating and clearing work preparatory to the construction of the four-story brick and steel structure that is to grace the space now, and for many years has been occupied by the unsightly and dilapidated wooden and corrugated iron buildings on the Murphy property on the State street alley between High and Liberty streets, when, in the course of their work of destruction and excavation yesterday they unearthed the skeleton of an animal which defies identification in the category of man and beast.

While digging upon the site of the wooden structure which covered the lot upon the alley of State street and which was built sometime during the Christian era, history unknown, one of the workmen dug up the skeleton of what is believed to be an extinct species of animal, the identification of which has not been determined as yet. It is about two feet in length and, while it, in some respects, resembles the skeleton of a human being, the teeth indicate that it belongs to the carnivorous branch of the animal family and the nearest approach to an identification of the mass of bones is that they once composed the frame of an armadillo, or "grave digger" which naturally inhabits the tropical climes. T. C. Bligh, manager of Bly's theater, made an offer to purchase the skeleton for exhibition purposes, but he was too late as the bones had been reduced to ashes by the workmen, who did not realize that they were of any negotiable value to medical or any other science.

vention has a record of scrupulous fairness."

Senator Root's speech was brief. He said: "There is a revolt against time-worn political procedure. The initiative and referendum and the direct primary are demanded and the people are insisting on the opportunity to express untrammelled their will at the polls.

"No cry of this kind has ever been ignored by the Republican party. We must assure the people that the party intends to make it easy for the plain man to express his wishes regarding candidates.

"The wheels of progress must not be allowed to catch up with and run over the Republican party. This convention must put before the people candidate whose characters mean that every platform promise will be abided by to the last. We have been told that the controversy brought to a vote yesterday will be continued throughout the campaign with disaster at the polls.

"I do not so estimate the character of my honored friends who were among those 445 voting with the minority. A minority that is guided by the magnanimous spirit of the vice president of the United States will not act in any such direction, I am sure."

Root's little boost of Sherman was cheered.

Prendergast moved the adoption of the majority platform report, and Speaker Wadsworth, a member of the committee on resolutions, presented a minority report. The minority report provided for a continuance of the convention system and extending the primary enrollment

A STUBBORN CINDERELLA NEXT MONDAY

"A Stubborn Cinderella," that highly successful musical comedy of real quality and merit by the well known trio, Hough, Adams and Howard, which is making an extended tour of the country this season under the direction of Chas. A. Gostler, will be the attraction at the Grand opera house on Monday, Oct. 3.

This pretty little play, as it may well be termed, is said to contain more catchy musical numbers than any other entertainment of its kind that has been produced in recent years, and is without a doubt the gem of the long list of successful comedies of that now famous Chicago University pair.

Of the two '7 musical numbers in it each one is prettier and catchier than the other, and it is positively stated that from the time the first one is sung until the last one—"When You First Kiss the Last Girl You Love"—is finished, there is not a single moment that the ear is not delighted. "Love Me Just Because," "What's the Use?," "Adios Senorita," "Don't Be Anybody's Moon But Mine," "Don't Be Cross With Me," are other tuneful numbers well calculated to please the most musical of hearers.

In the third act is introduced as pretty a picture as was ever presented on any stage, "The Orange Fete," at that famous California retreat, Coronado Beach, where the authors were sojourning when writing the play. The scenic effect is an exact reproduction of the beautiful hostelry there, and the various dances, minuets, marches, etc., executed during the fete by a chorus of as pretty and shapely girls as it was possible for the management to collect, after diligent search in the best avenues for desirable chorus girls—it is safe to say that this number alone is more than worth the price of admission. This production is an exceedingly elaborate one, and it will undoubtedly score as big a success here as it has done in every city in which it has been seen.

Roosevelt arrived at the convention hall in an exultant mood. He said:

"It is a wonderful victory for the rank and file of the Republican organization."

The colonel called the convention to order at 11:20. Compared with yesterday, the session was a "frost," the galleries being almost bare of spectators.

The regulars are more defiant than ever. This was indicated when Lloyd Griscom summoned Congressman Bennett, who long has been a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, and notified him that Stimson would be a candidate. Roosevelt having just previously endorsed Stimson's candidacy. Bennett showed that he was the most disgruntled of the old guard and indifferent to the make-up of the ticket by saying:

"Roosevelt has named the ticket; let him elect it."

FIRST MEETING OF STUDENT BODY THIS MORNING

The first gathering of the student body assembled in the chapel of the university this morning and services were had by Dr. Homan. The chapel was almost full despite the fact that all the students are not here yet. Dr. Homan spoke briefly to the students, cautioning them to use particular care in regard to their health, giving some very valuable suggestions to those students who are new to the town and do not know the exact conditions.

An earnest talk by Dr. Sweetland, physical director, was enthusiastically appreciated. He spoke in regard to the noticeable change which had taken place in the university since his arrival there; that the students had assisted in the work on the athletic field more in these few days than they had in six weeks at the beginning of last year. He mentioned briefly his desire to see all the students at the game with the Alumni on September 30. He hoped that every student would meet the members of the visiting team and extend every courtesy and a welcome to them. He then spoke of the loyalty of the students and earnestly commended it as indispensable to the spirit of a school. Dr. Sweetland was applauded heartily when he took his seat.

A short business meeting followed, the student body voting to give a reception to the Alumni on Friday night. A. F. Fiegel, Jr., of Portland, was elected yell leader.

Stubborn But Good—

The success of "A Stubborn Cinderella" has proved beyond doubt that the days of the slap-stick farce, which too frequently has masqueraded under the guise of musical comedy, have passed, and there remains a field and audiences for refined, legitimate musical work.

"Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children and adults. Sold by all dealers.
