RAILROAD MAGNATES VISIT CAPITAL CITY

Louis J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, and party came to Salem for a brief visit, more of a sight-seeing and pleasure-seeking nature, over the Oregon Electric from Portland yesterday afternoon and returned to Portland in the evening. While in the city they visited the capitol building and paid their respects to Acting-Governor Bowerman, and, as upon previous occasions, Mr. Hill expressed his unbounded confidence in the future growth and prosperity of Oregon and especially the Willamette valley through the entire length of which the Oregon Electric will pass in the not very remote future. While Mr. Hill denied that his visit had any particular bearing upon the plans of the Oregon Electric extension which road is owned and controlled by the Hill system of railroads, it is expected that his visit has much to do with the proposed extension and improvement of the electric line and its service which will begin with the opening of spring.

KILLED BY EATING POISONED CANDY

Oakland, Cal., Oct. 6.—The authorities today began a searching inquiry into the death of Ivan Starmer, 11, of Elmhurst, who is believed to have eaten poisoned candy intended for some one else. The lad became ill after returning from school September 29, and died at 11 o'clock that night. He told of having eaten candy at school given him by a playmate, but whether this contained the poison or not is not known.

"It Beats All."

This is quoted from a letter of M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo. "I recently used Foley's Honey and Tar for the first time. To say I am pleased does not half express my feelings. It beats all the remedies I ever used. I had contracted a bad cold and was nearly sick in bed, having a terrible headache and cough and was threatened with pneumonia. The first doses gave great relief and one bottle completely cured me. I shall always recommend Foley's Honey and Tar." Red Cross Pharmacy (H. Jerman) precipitated a storm at Lisbon and Republicans everywhere rushed into the streets, carrying rifles and grenades which they had concealed in their houses for weeks.

Populace Rushes to Arms. Within half an hour Lisbon was in an uproar, the Republicans had rallied behind their leaders and presented a united front to the royalists, who were equally active in massing their forces. Couriers carried the news of the fighting to the palace as the telephone and telegraph wires had been cut or were in the hands of the revolutionists, and the loyalist troops prepared to defend the Necessidades palace.

Within the palace the royal family in terror sought the bastions. The fleet, in the hands of the Republicans, began shelling the palace. The palace commander signalled to the harbor fortifications to open fire on the fleet. Suddenly the royal ensigns on the forts fluttered down and the green and red Republican flags rose in their place. The guns of Shells from the warships began falling in the vicinity of the palace. The royal family were hurriedly escorted to the cellars out of harm's way, while the lyddite bombs hurtled and exploded above them.

The forts join in. The forts remained inactive until a regiment of royal artillery began replying to the warships' fire. Then the guns of the fortresses opened and a general bombardment took place.

In the meantime about half the troops in Lisbon had deserted to the Republicans, while, throughout the first hours of fighting the greatest fatalities were among the loyalist officers who were endeavoring to check the mutiny in their regiments.

Within an hour after the first outbreak half the bluejackets of the fleet had joined the Republicans ashore, while those who remained aboard manned the guns, awaiting orders from the Republican leaders to bombard the palace and the government buildings.

The priest who aroused the ire of the mob was "ducked" at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning; by daybreak the revolutionists began their attack on the palace.

Republicans Maintain Order. The fighting continued intermittently Wednesday but increased as darkness fell and throughout the night there was a continuous roar of artillery. The gun fire grew steadier and louder toward morning as the revolutionists attempted to storm the palace, which was resisting stubbornly. Its capture, however, was seen to be only a matter of time, and it is rumored that as soon as this became apparent, the commandment, Gen. Georgas, shot himself.

With all the excitement the Republicans succeeded admirably in retaining order throughout the city. Looters were shot down on sight. The banks and other places where valuables were deposited, the art galleries and government buildings

"Boy Mayor," of Milwaukee, Wis., will deliver an address on "Temperance, Not Prohibition." There are to be two more addresses at future dates in charge of the following: Reception Committee.

A. N. Gilbert, Homer H. Smith, J. M. Dalrymple, E. J. Lafky, F. W. Durbin, Chas. K. Spaulding, Louis J. Lachmund, Wm. A. Custick, Wm. D. Evans, H. G. Meyer, J. K. Linn, S. A. Manning, Geo. C. Will, Col. E. Hefer.

that escaped the bombardment were surrounded by cordons of blue jackets.

The provisional government obtained complete control of the telegraph late Wednesday and no news from the provinces is given out.

Rumors are current throughout the capital that a large force of loyalist troops have massed near Matra and are marching toward Lisbon. This is denied by the Republican leaders, who declare that the provinces are generally quiet and that a revolutionary force soon will be sent out to repress minor disorders.

France Shows Friendliness. Notwithstanding this the Republican commanders are preparing for an attack, and troops, augmented by marines, are moving northward of the city.

Eusebio Leao, provisional civil governor of Lisbon, began the organization of a police force today and will relieve the Republican troops of police duty. Citizens from all parts of Lisbon are volunteering as policemen, while others are enrolling in the Republican army.

Colonel Barreto, minister of war, refused today to estimate the number of men mustered by the Republicans, declaring that the necessity for troops was not great and that little opposition to the Republican army was anticipated.

President Braga, Minister of Justice, Costa, and Minister of Foreign Affairs, Bernardino Machado, were in conference today and it is believed they discussed the possibility of intervention by Great Britain. The French minister to Portugal called to pay his respects today. They eagerly seek recognition by France and the United States as the republic of Portugal.

Many Killed in Palace. The minister of finance, Brazilio Tellas, today conferred with leading Lisbon bankers regarding the monetary situation, urging them to do everything possible to protect Portuguese securities, assuring them that the Republic would repudiate none of the obligations that Portugal had incurred as a monarchy.

The minister of marine, Amaro Gomez, conferred with the fleet commanders today regarding the policing of the harbor. Other provincial ministers are Antonio Almeida, Interior, and Luis Gomez, public works.

The officials have taken charge of the medical and sanitary work following the fighting.

Shortly after daybreak Wednesday morning a great number of the palace defenders were dead or dying and the flagships signalled "cease firing."

In addition to the warships and the forts, there were several pieces of field artillery trained on the palace. The palace guards had only field guns with which to reply and these were directed in a futile effort to silence the men of war.

To this fact is attributed the light loss sustained by the Republicans. Handicapped by the long range guns of the besiegers, the defenders were unable to fight at close quarters and therefore could not use their side arms.

Republican Flag Flying. At 9 o'clock the Republican flag flew from a new flagstaff on a dismantled section of the palace, the old staff having been shot away.

The news of the fall of the palace caused great joy among the populace, who gathered in the plaza dom Pedro, sang the Portuguese Marseillaise, cheered the Republic and the downfall of the king.

Shortly after the fall of the palace the defenders of the ministry buildings surrendered.

It was at first supposed that the royal family had been captured when the palace fell but it was announced at noon that they had escaped and it is impossible at this writing to ascertain how they managed to evade the Republicans.

Escape Disguised As Peasants.

The most likely version is that the king, disguised as a policeman, was conveyed through a subterranean passage of the palace to safety, and that the queen mother and the dowager queen, Maria Pia, disguised as peasants, were hurried to some foreign legation and later removed to safety.

Estimates of the casualties are still inaccurate. Unofficial estimates are that not less than 50 nor more than 75 were killed, and probably 500 or 600 wounded.

As this despatch was filed the revolutionists continued to control the situation completely, and order maintained is remarkable, considering the excited state of the populace.

The Republicans control all wires and despatches not acceptable to their censors, must be carried by courier to Caracallos and Badajos.

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL WILL BE VOTED ON

The question of a county high school will be submitted to the people again this fall at the November election. The Marion county court had no option in the matter, but was advised by the district attorney that it was mandatory on the court to order the election.

The vote on county high school was taken two years ago, and was lost by a narrow margin, and now it is to be submitted again.

County Superintendent Smith believes by means of this county high school tax a great deal could be done in teaching the higher grades in the country schools, and that a half-mill tax should be ordered by the people for this purpose.

Capt. Bogardus Again Hits the Bull's Eye.

This world famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living in Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed, he says: "I suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and used several well known kidney medicines, all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley's Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley's Kidney Pills I had severe backaches and pains in my kidneys with suppression and a cloudy voiding. On arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley's Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and again feel like my own self. This I owe solely to Foley's Kidney Pills and always recommend them to my fellow sufferers."—Red Cross Pharmacy (H. Jerman)
