MAN TAILORED SUITS FOR WOMEN

The highest class of ladies ready-made suits shown in Oregon. (Portland's large stores not excepted.) All custom tailored, the jackets are full lined with Skinners' two season satin, and the fabrics are the finest imported woollens possible to obtain, the regular men's tailored fabrics, not the ordinary goods you find in the usual selections. We're proud of these smart suits and we want every woman to see them. Considering quality they are much underpriced. First floor.

Have You Seen Our Showing of Fine Furs?

It is a pleasure to us to even show furs, for we want everyone to see the quality of our stock and the low prices we ask. Don't think that just because you don't buy we don't want to show you. It is a pleasure for us for you to look. Imported and domestic skins properly priced.

GIRL BRIDE ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

MRS. BARTRUFF ABANDONED BY HER HUSBAND, TAKES CARBOLIC ACID, AND IS FOUND SEMI-CONSCIOUS BY THE ROAD NEAR SILVERTON.

Silverton, Ore., Oct. 12.—(Special to Capital Journal)—Mrs. Bartruff, the girl bride who was Miss Helen Anderson, and whose parents live near the Swarts mill on the Silverton road, has again tried to make way with herself. A few days after her marriage she tried to kill herself and was cared for at a Salem hospital. Tuesday when B. H. Davis started for Salem from Silverton he found Mrs. Bartruff about two miles this side of Silverton, semi-unconscious near the roadside, with a three-ounce bottle of carbolic acid, about one-third consumed, and a note from her husband saying he had deserted her. She was taken back to Silverton and placed in charge of Dr. Brooks. He immediately went to work to pump the poison out of her. She had started to walk to her home, back towards Salem. When out near the Pudding river bridge she sat down by the roadside and drank the acid and awaited death. Some little boys saw her sitting there and acting sick and gave the alarm and Dr. Brooks, of Silverton, started for her relief but was met by Mr. Davis bringing her into the city, when she was attended to and then taken to the Salem hospital in an auto. She was able to sit up.

For some time Mrs. Bartruff has been very despondent owing to her husband having deserted her. The poison burned her terribly but it is thought she may recover. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Anderson who live on the Silverton road.

WILL R. KING

One of the Judges of the Supreme Court, Whose Place is Sought by Judge Geo. H. Burnett, the Republican Assembly Selection.

Although not a native of Oregon, Judge King came within a very few miles of it, as he was born October 3, 1864, on a farm near Walla Walla, and came to Oregon (as a matter of choice) in 1871, since which time he has been a continuous resident of this state. He spent three years in the Oregon State Agricultural College, and graduated in the law department of the Central Normal College at Danville, Indiana, in 1891. Prior to his appointment to the Supreme Bench, he was recognized as one of the leading practitioners at the bar. He has served nearly four years on the Supreme Bench, two years as Commissioner and nearly two as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. He, with Judges Moore, McBride and Slater, is endorsed by the non-political judicial movement, which movement had the unanimous endorsement of the Oregon State Bar Association at its session in June last, of which association Judge King's opponent—Judge Burnett—is a member. Judge King's record as Supreme Justice is above criticism, and ranks high among the bar and people of the state. Among his decisions of note, and which have commanded the admiration of the people and bar alike, are Straw v. Harris (54 Or., 424) upholding and clarifying the initiative and referendum system of law-making; Longworthy v. State (104 Pac. 424) sustaining the constitutionality of the local option law, and Hough v. Porter (51 Or., 318) where more than 80 points of law affecting water rights were determined. The last case named is used in connection with the lectures on mining and irrigation in the Ann Arbor Law School, and is generally recognized as one of the leading cases in the United States upon the questions there involved. It has been cited, with implied approval, by the United States Supreme Court. Is there any good reason for supplanting a man on the Supreme Bench whose record has proved satisfactory to the people, merely because his opponent is a member of the majority party of the state? Politics does not enter into the qualifications of a juror, then why should it be the test for judicial office? A complete answer to these inquiries was given by Governor Hughes, now Associate Justice of the United States, in a recent lecture at Harvard. On this subject, among other things U. S. Supreme Judge Hughes said: "This office (the judicial) is the last place that should be used for the purpose of party rewards. All efforts to submerge party considerations in the choice of candidates, to facilitate independent choices to rebuke the use of judgeships as a part of party patronage should be encouraged by the public-spirited citizens. No man should be expected as a faithful party man to support the candidates of his party merely because he is a candidate of his party. The sentiment should be encouraged that loyalty to national parties demands no such support, and that, without loss of party standing, men may vote for judges according to their views or personal fitness."

The United States Supreme Court is composed of members of both parties. Cleveland appointed a Republican as a member of that court, while Harrison, Roosevelt and Taft have appointed Democrats, in order that the court may be a mixed court politically. New York, Massachusetts, Iowa, Wisconsin and other states, including our neighbor state, Washington, have pursued the same plan. Why should not Oregon be equally as progressive? Voters: It is for you to say. (P'd Adv.)

WASHINGTON IS TO HAVE A NEW RAILROAD

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Richland, Wash., Oct. 12.—Under orders to locate the permanent survey for a railroad on the west bank of the Columbia river, extending southward from the Beverly crossing of that stream, a party of 17 civil engineers in the employ of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railway have been sent to Hanford, and are working at their task. It is known that it is the plan of the railroad to build the long-projected extension of the road into the Hanford and Richland irrigated districts, with a possible and even probable branch road into North Yakima.

The line from the Beverly bridge across the Columbia river to Richland will be 52 miles in length. The Milwaukee has obtained practically all the right of way for the extension. The work will be done by Contractor H. C. Henry, who built the St. Paul coast extension from St. Joe, Idaho, to Seattle.

Henry's contract will aggregate more than $1,500,000. Actual grading will not be long delayed, it is stated, and the new system will be completed within a year, and probably in less than that time.

TEACHERS PASS RESOLUTIONS AND ADJOURN

THEY PLEDGE THEMSELVES AS TEACHERS TO EXERT EVERY INFLUENCE TO MAKE OREGON A MODEL TEMPERANCE STATE.

After adopting resolutions favoring the adoption of the county high school system which will be presented to the voters of Marion county at the general election in November, and pledging themselves as teachers to exert every influence to make Oregon a model temperance state, thanks to their instructors, thanks to the board of education of Salem for providing comfortable quarters and entertainment for them during the session of the institute and their appreciation of the efforts of State School Superintendent Ackerman in the promotion of the educational work of the public school system, and the carrying out of the program of instruction for the day, the Marion county teachers' institute will adjourn sine die at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

It has been one of the most successful teachers' institutes that has ever been conducted in the county and much of the credit for its success is due to County Superintendent Smith, who has worked hard to make it a source of enjoyment and instruction to those in attendance and who delivered an address at 3 o'clock this afternoon outlining his plans for the improvement of the public school work for the year in which he suggested, among other things, the organization of a teachers' reading circle. There were 260 teachers in attendance and all manifested keen interest in the proceedings throughout the session. The institute will close this afternoon with an address by Prof. Livingston on "The Challenge of the Twentieth Century."

Carload of Furnaces.—Mr. A. L. Fraser, a successful plumber and tinner, of Salem, yesterday received a carload of the famous Lenox furnaces. This furnace is one of the best on the market, and Mr. Fraser, anticipating a large demand for furnaces this fall, has laid in a supply so that people will not have to wait for their furnaces to be installed, if he receives their order.
