

THE TRIAL OF CRIPPEN HAS BEGUN

ATTORNEY FOR CROWN PRESENTS STRONG CASE—MISS LENEVE, HIS ALLEGED ACCOMPLICE, NOT PRESENT.

(UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.)

London, Oct. 18.—Standing in the time-eaten dock at Old Bailey, before the bar at which scores of England's notorious prisoners have heard their fate, Dr. H. H. Crippen today pleaded "not guilty" to a charge of having murdered his wife, Belle Elmore-Crippen, in their North London home; of having dismembered the body, and of having buried it in acid beneath the concrete flooring of the cellar to hide the crime.

Miss Leneve was not present in court and Crippen, who stood calm and unemotional, entered his plea before Lord Alverstone, presiding over the trial. Crippen was accompanied only by his counsel and the court officers. Lord Alverstone, clad in his impressive gown and dignified wig, presented an appearance well in harmony at the serious scene.

Prosecutor Muir, speaking on behalf of the crown, declared that it would be his part to show that Crippen and Miss Leneve conspired for three years to get rid of Mrs. Crippen and did everything in their power to bring about a divorce so that Dr. Crippen would be free to marry his typist.

Crippen's income was absorbed in supporting the woman he did not love," said Muir. "On January 31, three days before the alleged crime was committed, Crippen was pinched for funds. His wife's physical presence was an obstacle to his plans. If she was eliminated Crippen knew that her money would enable him to properly support Miss Leneve.

"After his wife's disappearance Crippen adopted a campaign of falsification to prevent suspicion from falling on him. He said she fled to America with Bruce Miller. This was an untruth. Miller has been brought here as a witness to prove that he had not seen Belle Elmore-Crippen since 1904.

"While endeavoring to beamrith the character of the woman he had already murdered, Crippen was arranging to sail.

The arrangements were found after Crippen's flight. It is a significant fact that the human remains were found under a house occupied by the Crippens' only and in which no person lived after Crippen's disappearance. Then, too, no one but Crippen had access to the cellar of the house. Nobody but Crippen could have buried the body there.

"The manner in which the body of Mrs. Crippen was mutilated clearly shows that none but a physician with great anatomical knowledge and surgical skill could have committed the murder in the manner it was committed."

Frederick Lowndes, Crippen's landlady, testified that the Crippens were the sole occupants of the house at the time of the alleged murder. He described various conditions at the house in detail.

Dr. Burroughs repeated his testimony given at the inquest over Mrs. Crippen's body.

Mrs. Martinelli, member of the Ladies' Music Hall Guild, testified she met Miss Leneve and Crippen at a dance on February 20, already frequently referred to since Crippen's arrest.

She said Miss Leneve was wearing Mrs. Crippen's jewelry at the dance. Pressing Crippen for the details of his wife's death, the witness testified that Crippen replied, "She died in the wilds of California while visiting at Los Angeles."

Mrs. Martinelli testified that Crippen told her his wife's address was in care of H. O. Crippen, 1427 Hancock street, Road Delivery, Los Angeles. She said Crippen's son wrote her he had not learned of Mrs. Crippen's death.

The court will meet daily from 1:30 to 5 o'clock during the trials.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF THE GUN THAT WAS NOT LOADED

HUGH SEXTON, 15-YEAR-OLD BOY, OF TURNER, IS KILLED BY THE ACCIDENTAL DISCHARGE OF HIS SHOTGUN.

Another victim was added to the long list of "not loaded" gun tragedies at Turner, yesterday evening, when Hugh Sexton, a bright lad of 15 years and the only son of his widowed mother, pulled a new shotgun from beneath the seat of his buggy, to exhibit his prize to his aunt, Mrs. Daisy Hines, when the weapon exploded and his young life was snuffed out instantly. The charge entered the right eye and penetrated the brain, almost blowing the whole top of his head off. He had planned a hunting trip with a companion and had just purchased a new gun. In the exuberance of his spirits over the possession of the new gun the boy evidently forgot that he had slipped a load into the barrel previous to exhibiting it to his aunt, and in dragging it from under the seat of the buggy, it is presumed the hammer caught upon something and caused it to explode the cartridge. Coroner Clough was notified of the tragedy but decided an inquest was not necessary.

BOMB OUTRAGES PUT PARIS UNDER MARTIAL LAW

(UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.) Paris, Oct. 17.—Paris is virtually under martial law today, following bomb outrages, believed to have resulted from a refusal by Premier Briand to allow a demonstration of railroad strikers in the Bois de Vincennes.

One bomb partially wrecked the home of M. Massard, director of "La Patrie," a newspaper opposing the strike. The explosive also damaged the home of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, which adjoins that of Massard. By a coincidence, none were injured in the explosion.

A second bomb was fired in the Ternes quarter, and one man was injured. On Massard's door was found a card reading: "This is the strikers' first warning."

The police have arrested 120 anarchists on suspicion of having plotted the outrage.

The Royal Mouth and the Royal Disease.

Sudden changes of weather are especially trying and probably to none more so than to the scrofulous and consumptive. The progress of scrofula during a normal October is commonly great. We never think of scrofula—its bunches, cutaneous eruptions, and wasting of the bodily substance—without thinking of the great good many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose radical and permanent cures of this one disease are enough to make it the most famous medicine in the world. There is probably not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merit in more homes than one, in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative, consumption.
