

SUPPLANTING HORSES

In the Technical World for December there appears an interesting article upon "Making the Farm a Factory." In discussing the subject of using machinery instead of horses for farm work the writer has the following:

"Last year, on a farm of seven hundred and sixty acres, I kept regular three work horses, hiring extra horses when haying and threshing. This year, with a thousand acres to farm I expect to keep only four horses all year and expect to need fewer extra horses during the rush season, using the engine more at this work than before.

"This reduction in the number of men and horses required on the farm is not the only valuable feature in an engine. In almost the entire United States and all over Canada there are certain months of the year when little or no work is done in the fields. The horses stand idle in the barn, eating regularly three times a day. The only return their owner gets from the feed they eat is the manure they make. In fact the horse nowhere near pays for his keep during these months. The same feed given to cattle, sheep or hogs would give just as great value in manure and would also give an income in the form of milk, wool and flesh. The engine has consumed nothing and so costs nothing during these months.

"The heaviest, hardest and most important work of the year comes in the spring, immediately following a spell of idleness. The horses have not been doing enough to keep them in good working condition. They cannot be rushed much when the weather permits one to work. The engine is in just as good condition at the end of the idle spell as it was at the beginning. And here is where I get one of the greatest benefits from my engine. When the seeding season does finally get good I divide my men into two shifts and we work the engine day and night. We get our small grain all in within a few days when the conditions are the best and my chances are that much better for a uniformly good crop. It looks mighty good to see that old engine pounding away from seven in the morning until six at night and then from seven at night until six in the morning when every minute saved means dollars in the pocket."

In Umattilla county the caterpillar engine is taking the place of the farm horses.—E. O.

The November Everybody

Politics and pants may seem to lack any special literary kinship but you'll have a fresh point of view when you read the November Everybody's, just out. Emerson Hough discusses the latter in an excruciatingly funny article in which he calls on Congress to take up this subject of universal importance instead of trifling with the petty questions that cumber the deliberations of House and Senate. Frederic C. Howe, in "Choose Your Congressman," goes after the same Congress, by way of one of the most practical, useful political articles published for a long time. He shows voters how they can help to clean up Congress this fall, why they should do it, and how they shall be profited thereby when it is done.

Furthermore, the article gives you the record of every republican congressman on certain important test votes, and puts the facts squarely up for observation.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County, ss: Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior member of the firm of F. J. AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Witch Chemical Company, 75 Cortlandt St., New York City, has just up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Witch's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

J. C. PERRY, A Regular Tom Boy. Was Sued—climbing vines and fences, jumping ditches, whittling, always getting scratches, cuts, sprains, bruises, bumps, burns or scalds. But I saw Her mother just applied Witch's Salve and cured her quick. Healed everything—bleeds, ulcers, eczema, old sores, corns or piles. Try it, 25c, at J. C. Perry's.
