SALEM MINISTERS ARE IN LINE.

The Salem Ministerial Association are right in line for a cleaner and better Salem.

But they do not deserve all the credit for bringing about better conditions of morality.

Five years ago Mayor Waters called the saloon keepers together and got them to voluntarily close on Sunday.

Mayor Lachmund had a conference with the saloon men, and they agreed to co-operate in wiping out drunkenness.

The fight against gambling for money in all forms was undertaken by the mayor on his own responsibility.

But the co-operation of the Salem Ministerial Association shows them to be fair men and willing to give credit to any official who stands for progress and good order.

Salem is the cleanest and best town in the state, and will be made still better as progress of public sentiment makes improvement practical and possible.

STATE NEEDS A CLEANING UP.

The suggestion in The Capital Journal special edition, distributed at the legislative banquet for a recall party was no josh.

The people are becoming thoroughly aroused at the performances of the legislature, duplicating every ancient graft.

Even the junkets and visiting committees to all kinds of institutions and fish traps are being restored.

The last two legislatures had partially cut them out, and tried to obviate them by forestalling them.

But the budget committee to investigate state institutions did not meet and did not do its work.

The salary graft, commission graft, clerkship graft and new offices graft are more rampant than ever.

The legislature takes longer adjournments, has less real legislation, and more petty steals than ever.

The party in power will not heed the warning, and there is no remedy left but to organize a recall party.

The recall party should have but one plank—that is to get after any man or woman who works a graft of a dollar on the taxpayer.

SALEM WANTS THE BEST PAVEMENTS.

The pride and the advertisement of this city is almost entirely due to the first-class pavements put down here.

Now a dozen paving companies come in and seek to get the business of paving more streets in Salem.

This is the result of advertising by the city council that about 300,000 square yards of pavement are to be put down this year.

Petitions have already been signed up for bitulithic pavement on North Liberty, Cottage, Church, Chemeketa and Ferry streets.

Property owners on South Commercial street are asking that their street be finished in the same pavement.

By asking for bids on a large amount of paving the city council has been able to get a reduction in price.

The bitulithic company is offering to put down its solid six-inch waterproof pavement at $1.85 per yard.

That six-inch pavement, after compression, means about eight inches of material of the best character.

The Capital Journal hopes there will not be too much experimenting with too many kinds of pavement.

Uniform pavements would be very desirable, with one large plant located here to put it down, and uniform first-class material.

That would mean the installation of a large rock crushing plant here, and another large payroll permanent at Salem.

Two or three small paving plants, with only a short season in which to put down paving, should be obviated by one large plant.

The reduction in price that has been secured by the vigilance of Mayor Lachmund is very gratifying to the property owners.

On the other hand the property owners should not be deceived into experimenting with any more kinds of new paving.

So far no property owner who has bitulithic pavement in front of his property would exchange for any other, and some who have tried other kinds at Salem and in other cities, would be glad to exchange for bitulithic.

COOS BAY SCHOONER IS ASHORE

STEAM SCHOONER LAKME FOUNDING ON THE ROCKS OFF CAPE BLANCO AND WILL BE TOTAL LOSS.

Two attempts by the Lakme to launch a boat were frustrated by the high seas and one of the boats was dashed to pieces against the vessel's side.

The Standard Oil steamer Asuncion, the passenger steamer Watson and the steamer Argyll are standing by the waterlogged Lakme, but have temporarily abandoned all attempts to aid her crew.

To Capture the Big Trees. Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 19.—Dangor that the Calaveras big trees may fall into private ownership, and the gigantic sequoias be used for commercial purposes caused Senator Caminetti to introduce a resolution today calling upon congress to purchase the groves and make them a public park. The trees are now in a government reserve.

OREGON'S SYSTEM IS NOT BEST

AT LEAST IT STRUCK THE SENATE THAT WAY, AND SOME OF THEM THOUGHT BOURNE WAS WORSE THAN THE SYSTEM.

After devoting most of the forenoon and all of the afternoon to a discussion of a resolution declaring Oregon's system of government the best in the world, and declaring the legislature's confidence in the initiative, the referendum, the direct primary, the recall and the corrupt practice law and commending them to the favorable consideration of other states, the senate late yesterday afternoon voted down the motion to substitute the minority report of the committee on resolutions recommending the passage of the resolutions and adopt the majority report, which recommended that it do not pass.

Rot Says Nottingham.

The first speaker of the afternoon on the subject was Senator Albee, and he indicated that he would vote for the resolution if it was so amended that the portion of it declaring Oregon's system of government the best in the world was stricken out.

This brought forth a motion from Senator Malarky to recommit the motion, and to have such an amendment made, and that opened the flood gates of oratory.

Senator Nottingham opposed the motion, and pronounced the resolution "pure rot." He also attacked Jonathan Bourne, calling him the "great I am," and hoped that the whole thing would be "knocked out."

Senator McCulloch favored the resolution, and did not hesitate to declare that he believed Oregon's government the best on earth.

Bowerman Gets Sarcastic.

"The resolution is too modest," was the opening remark of Senator Bowerman, when he arose to speak on it, and he made one of the most sarcastic speeches ever heard in the senate. He maintained that if the senate was going to tell anything to the other states relative to Oregon's system of government that the whole story should be told, and he desired incorporated in the resolution the home rule amendment, the two bills which annihilated the fishing industry on the Columbia, and which were passed under the initiative; the operation of the referendum on the appropriations of the state institutions; the single tax amendment; the judiciary amendment, which was so uncertain that the upper house had found it necessary to call a convention of the lawyers of the state to explain it. He wanted incorporated the publicity pamphlet and an exhibit of the 9-foot ballot used at the last election; the law closing the fishing season on the Rogue river and Senator Bourne, with his record pinned on his back, and which he pronounced "exhibit No. 1," and closed with saying that if they would do that—tell the whole story, he was favorable to the resolution.

Don't Retreat Under Fire.

Senator Sinnott opposed the amendment of the resolution, and stood for it in its entirety. "I do not believe in retreating under fire," he said—"don't believe in modifying the resolution by putting soothing language into it, to please those who have opposed with hatred the Oregon system of government. He then reviewed the benefits of the system and spoke briefly upon the corruptness of the old system, and maintained that, while he was not a defender or a detractor of Jonathan Bourne, that that gentleman had nothing to do with the subject, and if the senators were to seek to vote it down, by standing behind the pretended shadow of Bourne, that they would find that the people were against them.

Senator Calkins advised those favoring the resolution to hold a caucus or convention, and fix up a resolution that was agreeable to them.

Senator Norton felt that the senators were wasting the people's time in discussing this subject.

Senator Carson stated that the resolution did not state facts correctly, and that, while he favored the Oregon laws, he did not want to pay a tribute to Jonathan Bourne, whom he pronounced the "most picturesque political pirate and blatherkite that had ever come to Oregon."

Senator Malarky made a severe attack upon Bourne, declaring him "unfit mentally and morally to serve as a representative of Oregon," and referred to the deadlock session, declaring it the "greatest political crime in the history of the state."

Senator Miller reviewed the corruptness of the old system and compared it with the present, and declared himself in favor of the latter.

Kellaher Puts One Over.

When it came to voting on the resolution Senator Albee stated he understood that Senator Kellaher had a stenographer in attendance to take down the speeches, for the purpose of putting the senators on record, and wanted the senator to say whether it was true or untrue. Senator Kellaher informed him that it was, and that he secured her services because he desired to use the speeches made for his own political purposes. The effect was electrical, as it brought from almost each senator who voted against the resolution an explanation of his action.

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

It is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old, time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wynn's Sage and Sulphur.

This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wynn Chemical Company, 14 Cortland St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

COMMENTS ON SOME PAVING EXPERIMENTS

OREGON CITY ADVISES AGAINST SUCH A POLICY AND THE PEOPLE OF ASHLAND ENDOSE THE MAYOR AND COUNCIL IN SELECTING BITULITHIC PAVING.

The Ashland Tidings comments on the selection of bitulithic as follows: "Paving operations began in Ashland in 1909. Bitulithic was selected. During that year the extent of the improvement involved an expenditure of $100,000. This year the territory involved comprises double the extent of last, with a corresponding outlay, while the outlook for next season may be estimated in the light of desirable features gained by past experience. The utopian dream of a solid foundation from Billings' corner to the normal, and from the boulevard intersection where occurs the parting of the ways on Main street towards the railway crossing, is bound to be realized in due time. With the paving of the leading arteries, corresponding improvements in the minor thoroughfares are bound to follow. When the boulevard extension is completed, embracing a double roadway, each one ample in width and with a commodious parkway between, Ashland will be favored with a substantially paved air-line roadway unequalled in extent and durability by any in the state.

"The paving initiative here was undertaken under difficulties, as such improvements generally are, but many who were originally opposed to the plan, now see the error of their ways and have nothing but words of commendation for the merits of paving so apparent on every hand. Citizens in general would be loath to return to the former street conditions, which for a good portion of each year were deplorable.

"But even after the paving was installed the first year, there arose a clamor to experiment with other compositions which could be had at a lower first cost to the city and property owners. After mature deliberation, including trips of investigation to Coburn, Portland and vicinity, the council concluded and so reported that the bitulithic as laid in Ashland was superior in every way to the cheaper pavements, which in every case investigated disclosed cracks and other faults.

"The mayor and council are to be congratulated upon their apparent decision to settle down to the permanent adoption of a uniform system of bitulithic paving as being the most desirable in the long run. The wisdom of the action is discernable not only from an economic point of view, but from the standpoint of merit. In general as applied to the entire area of paving which has been laid in this city.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They do the work whenever you require their aid.
