CANNON'S DISTRICT IS ROTTEN

GRAND JURY BEGINS INVESTIGATION OF ELECTION CORRUPTION AND BRIBERY IN VERMILION COUNTY, CANNON'S HOME.

Danville, Ill., Jan. 21.—Election corruption and bribery, which is declared to have been rampant for years in "Uncle Joe" Cannon's bailiwick, Vermillion county, promises to be bared to the grand jury investigation in a statement sent today to a newspaper by a prominent attorney in which he confessed buying votes in a previous election. The attorney in his statement says he kept records of the names of the vote-sellers, and the amounts given them, but this record, he said, he recently burned. His statement concludes with the assertion that he was willing to tell full details to the grand jury, suggesting that a mass meeting of the successful and defeated candidates in recent campaigns be held, at which all should confess.

With the appearance of this statement panic has struck the politicians here, and many are expected to confess to the grand jury Monday. More than 100 citizens, among them many politically active, have been summoned. One of these, Hardy Whitlock, an ex-county treasurer, who confessed to the embezzlement of $38,000 of county funds, probably will be examined as to whether he spent the money to buy votes.

It is reported that E. X. Lescure, manager of the Danville National Bank, told the grand jury that large sums of the county money were usually drawn out of his bank shortly before each election.

Must Keep Register for Their Guests.
To require the owners of hotels, lodging and rooming houses to keep registers containing the names of the guests at their places is the object of an ordinance which will be introduced in the council at its next meeting upon request of Chief of Police Hamilton and should it pass that body, it will be necessary for such owners to comply with its provisions or pay a fine of not more than $50 and not less than $5 for its violation. Most of the hotels, but few of the rooming houses now keep a register. The result has been, according to Chief of Police Hamilton, that when an officer was in search of a party and desired to ascertain whether he had a room in any of the rooming houses that he was unable to locate him either because the owner did not know the name of his guest, or if knowing it, desired to protect him. The only way an officer under the present condition, could locate a party in the absence of information from the proprietor of a rooming would be to enter and search each room—a procedure which would involve them in trouble, should they disturb innocent parties, and it is to obviate this condition of affairs that the ordinance is framed.

Should the new ordinance become law, an officer can by an inspection of the register, ascertain just who are guests at the hotel or rooming house and the rooms occupied by them.

During the early part of today's hearing the testimony of a long line of experts was introduced to show that Schenk could have been suffering from natural ailments, and that these could have caused the symptoms which the prosecution ascribes to lead and arsenic poisoning.
Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 21.—Without a chance to hear from the lips of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk her personal reputation that she administered lead and arsenic poison to her millionaire husband, John O. Schenk, the jury before which the one-time society leader is being tried heard the announcement at 5:30 this afternoon "the defense closes."
Arguments by counsel and the charge of the court are expected to take up this afternoon and Monday, and the question will be in the hands of Mrs. Schenk's 12 judges probably on Tuesday.
