The Law of Our Land.

A law may be a foolish law. There are thousands of laws which, for good practical reasons are not enforced, says Robert Sloos in an article in Success Magazine entitled "Why Is an Express Company?" Law is merely an expression of the popular will, and if the popular will is not behind the law, or does not stay behind it, that law should not exist. And if you and I and all of us do not want a law enforced, who is going to enforce it?

Here is Section 181, Revised Statutes of the United States, passed March 4, 1909. At that time there had already been in existence for 40 years and more a law covering the same point. For 40 years and more the express business of this country had been operated in direct violation of the older statute. There is no question about it. In so far as the express companies compete with the postoffice department in carrying mailable matter-and that is no mean share of the express business-they are breaking this law.

"Whoever shall establish any private express for the conveyance of letters or packets, or in any manner cause or provide for the conveyance of the same by regular trips or at stated periods over any post route which is or may be established by law or from any city, town or place to any other city, town or place between which the mail is regularly carried, or whoever shall aid or assist therein, shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both.

"Provided, that nothing contained in this section shall be construed as prohibiting any person from receiving and delivering to the nearest postoffice, postal car or other authorized depository for mail matter any mail matter properly stamped."

You may wonder why the law has not been enforced against the express companies. Not long ago the United States circuit court dismissed a suit brought under this law by Nathan B. Williams, of Fayetteville, Arkansas, on the ground that a private citizen had no right to bring suit against the express companies for operating against the law over the post roads; such suit, said the court, could be brought only by the government.

Thereupon, P. R. Howard, of Cincinnati, brought pressure on the attorney general to act against the express companies. The answer was the following statement, and issued by the department of justice: "The department has made a very complete study of the proposition and agrees with Mr. Williams on the law, except as to the one point, namely, that there has been an administrative construction against the proposition for over 40 years, and the chances are that a suit will be defeated on that ground."

Our government, ignoring the new statute, takes the position of killing, by "administrative construction," what is supposed to be the popular will.
