

HIS BLUFF IS CALLED BY CONGRESS

BENNET'S RESOLUTION CONCERNING ANNEXATION OF CANADA INTRODUCED FOR THE PURPOSE OF DEFEATING RECIPROCITY, IS TURNED DOWN.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Washington, Feb. 17.—The house committee on foreign affairs, on President Taft's urgent request, today turned down, 9 to 1, Congressman Bennett's two resolutions referring to Canadian annexation.

President Taft urged that the resolutions be killed in the hope of allaying the excitement in Canada and England caused by Champ Clark's annexation speech, and by Bennett's resolutions.

The president believes that the considering of Bennett's resolutions will have the effect of smoothing a way in the Canadian parliament for ratification of the reciprocity agreement.

There was little comment when the committee reported adversely on Bennett's resolutions.

THE ARMY CAPTURED TRAIN

come to a standstill, climbed aboard despite efforts of the trainmen and continued their way over the mountains into California.

The members of the Industrial Workers made no resistance in Ashland on being ordered to leave the train. Evidently they had made their plans in advance. They left the train peacefully, scattered to the several lunch counters nearby, satisfied the tinner man and then in straggling numbers wandered down the track. Nearly a mile beyond the town they gathered and piled a large number of ties on the tracks and when the freight southbound arrived and was forced to stop, they climbed aboard and merrily told the trainmen to "let 'er go." A number of the men assisted in removing the ties from the rails so that the train might proceed.

It is reported that the Southern Pacific officials are taking steps to have enough special police at Dunsmuir, the next division point, to force the deadheads from the train. The officials say that the number of men make it almost impossible to keep them from reaching their destination as they can easily best any train crew no matter how willing the train crew might be to resist them.

Will Call Out Troops.

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 17.—Two companies of the Second California Infantry have been notified by Adjutant-General Forbes that they may see service in connection with the refusal of the Industrial Workers of the World to leave Southern Pacific trains on which they are coming to California. Governor Johnson this afternoon notified General Forbes that he might be called upon at any moment to order troops to intercept the Industrialists.

Forbes has Company A at Chico and Company B at Redding, two newly mustered companies. These men are under command of Major W. H. White, who is in hourly communication with Forbes.

The adjutant-general said he had received no intimation that unlawful acts had been committed, and that he would wait until the sheriff of Siskiyou county and his posse had failed to suppress any disorder before the command would be given putting the troops on the move.

The progress of the I. W. W. southward may not be checked in the Siskiyou country if the Siskiyou authorities show a disposition to let the invaders become a problem for Fresno. The militia will not take the field until an appeal shall come from the county authorities or from their officials.

General Forbes has a company of the Second regiment at Woodland, another company in formation at Willows, three companies and a troop of cavalry at Sacramento and companies C and K of the Second regiment at Fresno.

Criticism has been aroused at the capitol this afternoon by the apparent failure of the Oregon authorities to prevent the Workers' migration into California.

THE RULE OF MR. RULE

Lady Detective Cleverly Assists

With the view of locating his parties without arousing suspicion, Chief of Police Hamilton secured the services of a lady detective. He did not import her, but just picked her up from among Salem's popular young ladies. Were her name to appear in this it would surprise many people, for she is well known, but just now is not seeking notoriety, and, at her request, it is eliminated. Posting as a lady in search of farm property she visited the Kenoir farm, and, after being gratified that a man and lady visiting there and posing as husband and wife, were Betschen and Mrs. Rule, she took a mental picture of the house, which she afterward reduced to a diagram, and handed it over to the chief. That completed her work, and she did it cleverly—did it without arousing the least bit of suspicion as to her mission.

Tires of Being a Slave.

Wednesday Chief of Police Hamilton went to the Kenoir home, and arrested the two, and Thursday morning he brought them to the city. Mrs. Rule, it seems, complains that she has been a slave to her husband during all of their married life, and she has become tired of it, and has asserted she will never return with him. Betschen takes his arrest calmly and has employed Attorney Kaiser of the firm of Kaiser & Pogue, to fight the case for himself and Mrs. Betschen.

Plans had been made by Betschen to raise bonds, but this morning when Judge Webster railed his bond from $1000 to $1500, it is understood, that he changed his mind, and that the two will make the county jail their residence until the grand jury meets, and then—well, it will depend upon the termination of the case, where they will afterwards make their residence.

Blanche Has Snuffles.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Peoria, Ill., Feb. 17.—Blanche Walsh, the actress, is dangerously ill here today from la grippe. She was unable to appear on the stage last night, and several engagements have been canceled.

Tacomas Visit California.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Portland, Ore., Feb. 17.—En route to California, a party of 150 residents of Tacoma reached Portland today. After visiting the city a few hours the travelers resumed their journey. The party will visit the principal cities of California.

WEST SALEM'S GROWTH IS PHENOMENAL

RAPID, STEADY AND SPLENDID DEVELOPMENT ON WEST SIDE OF THE RIVER AND HIGH CLASS IMPROVEMENTS.

In the Journal's New Year's Issue there appeared an article on the growth during the past year of the section across the river and this article we reproduce here. Below will be found how the things mentioned therein have been verified and how much more development is going on.

Salem has grown eastward to the state lands, and can now expand north and south and westward. And it is westward, ho, the Capital City's star of empire takes its way. Three additions and a lot of acreage is laid out on that side of the river, and substantial improvements are planned and being carried into effect. There is a beautiful range of hills coming down close to the river, and an open flat space spreading toward the river. At the south the hills come down almost to the river. With the construction of the Dallas and Falls City railroad, there entered a new life into this overflow of the Capital City on to the west bank, and today there are factories going in, an electric light and power plant is being constructed, a lumber yard has been established, and there is talk of another bridge across the river from the foot of Ferry street. West Salem has a population of about 500 people, and plans are completed for a $4,000 high school building.

Contracts have been let for the construction of a new waiting room at Kingwood station. This addition has a property restriction that no dwelling to cost less than $1,500 go up on lots sold there, and as soon as there are enough people, water service will be put in. Kingwood has plans made for a riverside drive, and a park, and altogether modern ideas are followed by the enterprising managers, The Capitol Trust Company, of Portland, offices in the McKay building, Rechtel & Bynon, of this city, are the local agents for this beautiful property.

At Kingwood Park a handsome bungalow style station has just been completed and material is now on the ground for several fine dwellings. Work is being done on a home for Mrs. Mary Rainwater and as soon as the weather permits, construction will start on a number of others.

A large number of lots have been sold to parties who expect to build this coming spring and when the season opens there will be great activity in West Salem.

A contract has been let for cement work in Kingwood and contractors are now figuring on the profiles for grading street which will be done as soon as the rains let us.

The owners of Kingwood are now figuring with parties relative to installing both an electric light and water plant. Both these conveniences will be installed before the summer is old.

A school costing $7,000 will be ready for occupancy when the fall term opens and West Salem will be in position to entertain all the new scholars who may come to this charming city.

With the building of the new bridge across the river an unprecedented activity is looked for in real estate circles and this season for this would bring the West Side within a very few moments' time of the business center and make it the most sought after of any residence section.

The owners of Kingwood Park have shown good judgment by agreeing to put in all improvements themselves, thus assuring the buyers that the improvements will be uniform. Prices now effective include all street work, cement walks, curbs and street trees.

Mr. Watterson's departure for Europe in this crisis must mean that he leaves Champ Clark and the next Democratic house to its dreadful fate.

ROOSEVELT DAM IS ABOUT COMPLETED

WILL CONTROL THE WATERS OF SALT LAKE RIVER, AND MAKE A VAST TRACT OF ARIZONA DESERT BLOSSOM LIKE THE ROSE.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The last stone has been laid in the parapet walls of the Roosevelt dam and preparations are now under way for its formal opening on March 18. Ex-President Roosevelt, for whom the massive structure has been named, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, Archie and Ethel, will participate in the three-day celebration.

Located in an almost inaccessible canyon, 60 miles from a railroad, the rapid and successful construction of the dam has been watched with interest by engineers all over the world. The massive walls rise 284 feet from foundation to parapet. Its length, on top, is 1,080 feet and across it runs a roadway 20 feet in width.

Just below the point where the Tonto Creek empties into it, the Salt Lake River enters one of the most magnificent canyons of the west, forming an ideal dam site. Behind the structure the waters of the turbulent stream will form a reservoir 25 miles long and more than 200 feet deep. Its capacity is approximately 56,628,000,000 cubic feet, or of sufficient quantity to cover the entire state of Delaware with a sheet of water one foot deep.

The waters held back by the dam will be used for the irrigation of more than 200,000 acres of land in the vicinity of Phoenix, Arizona, and the power created at the dam will be transmitted electrically for more than a hundred miles down the valley to operate pumps. These pumps will raise under-ground water to supplement the surface supply and increase the irrigable acreage. It is estimated by the reclamation service that about 60,000 acres will be irrigated by subterranean waters, available for irrigation purposes only through the operation of such pumps.

The building of the dam was preceded by the construction of a wagon road nearly 100 miles long, which, for practically half its length was blasted from the precipitous walls of the canyon. The construction of the road in itself is considered a marvelous feat of engineering and was a stupendous task. The laborers who built the road were mostly Apache Indians. The trip to the dam will be made by the ex-president's party over this road from Phoenix.

Tonto basin, now deeply buried by the waters of the dam, was for years known as the rendezvous of outlaws and Indian thieves of the famous Geronimo's band.

Officials of the reclamation service are elated over the success of this engineering feat. The result, they say, will soon be apparent in a transformation of conditions unprecedented in the history of irrigation. As if by a sweep of a magician's wand, flourishing crops will rise from Arizona's desert land, villages, hamlets and thriving cities will dot the surface. Scientific agriculturalists will claim these former arid lands as their own through Uncle Sam's beneficence, and incidentally through the reclamation service.

ROGUE RIVER FISHERIES MAY NOW RUN

PIERCE BILL UP AND COMMITTEE'S REPORT ADOPTED BY VOTE OF 22 TO 7 WHICH INSURES PASSAGE OF THE BILL.

After a protracted debate the majority report of the committee on fisheries favoring the passage of the Pierce bill, which has for its object the opening of the Rogue river to salmon fishing and which over-rides a law passed at the last election by the initiative closing the stream to all fishing, save by hook and line, was adopted this morning by the senate.

It was adopted by a handsome majority and it insures the passage of the measure when it comes up for its third reading which will be some time this afternoon.

The initiative law had the effect of wiping out all fishing industries on the Rogue river—the principal of which was the Hume salmon cannery plant. That institution represents an investment of thousands of dollars and paid out annually thousands in salaries. The bill under consideration is intended to correct the present law by allowing salmon fishing during stated periods and at the same time affords protection for steelhead trout and other game fish.

Mr. Watterson's departure for Europe in this crisis must mean that he leaves Champ Clark and the next Democratic house to its dreadful fate.

BLUE BLOODED HENS LAYING FOR A RECORD

With a flapping of wings and wild cackles of delight, accompanied by crows of encouragement from the admiring crowds, thousands of hens started Wednesday in the first great international egg-laying contest.

Vineland, N. J. is the scene of the remarkable competition, which will continue for a year. Breeders and poultrymen of the entire world have entered their crack biddies in the race, which has for its principal purpose the testing of the egg-producing qualities of all breeds and brands of hens under the best conditions. The entries are housed in buildings erected according to modern scientific plans and will be fed on the same kinds of food and kept under the same conditions.

Each entry consists of ten hens, and is housed in a separate pen, and a careful record of the number of eggs secured each day from each pen will be kept. All brands and strains of birds are included in the contest.

Similar contests have been held in Australia, and competitions on a small scale in this country, but this is the first international event of the kind ever attempted.

It is alleged that poultrymen today have no accurate knowledge concerning what breeds are the most prolific egg producers under the same conditions, and this contest will definitely settle the matter.

Another matter to be decided will be the exact status of the American hen compared with her sisters of other lands. The American hen is pitted against the world, and if book-making were permitted, there is no doubt that she would have plenty of backers.

Weekly reports will be given out through the year, and the sporting element will doubtless soon be greatly excited by news like this: "White Leghorn, pen 13, lead by a neck; Plymouth Rocks, pen 23, close up, and Black Minorcas, pen 7, are running third. Track fast."

Other records to be kept that will be of interest to poultrymen will deal with weather conditions and effects upon the production of hen-berries; comparative amounts of food consumed by the different breeds, and the months of the year during which the greatest number of eggs were laid by the various kinds of hens. This will be of vital interest to those engaged in the industry, as the winning hens, if they had a tendency to "eat their heads off" or to produce most of their eggs in months when the price is low, might not be so valuable as a more economical and steady breed—East Oregonian.

WANTS SENATE TO INVESTIGATE HIS CHARGES

GROVE FRASER SAYS HE IS READY TO MAKE GOOD ON HIS PART OF THE STORY OF $17,000 BEING USED TO DEFEAT SINNOTT BILL.

Grove Fraser, head of Locomotive Employees' Association, has sent a letter to President Selling asking that the senate investigate the charges made by him that money was used to defeat the Sinnott bill. He asks that the inquiry be open and public and that the senate authorize the subpoenaing of witnesses. The charge was that a Portland lawyer came to Salem with $17,000 to kill the bill and Fraser is prepared to make good on his part of the story.
