Do you know that croup can be prevented? Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It is also a certain cure for croup and has never been known to fail. Sold by all dealers.

New York is to have a new statue of George Washington. That one in front of the sub-treasury is probably overworked in keeping an eye on Wall street.

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old, time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Weyth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Weyth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

INSURANCE LAWS PASSED THIS SESSION

Sam Koser has broken all records at the head of the insurance department. All the bills to which he gave his O. K. passed the muster of both houses of the legislature and have become laws. Two bills were introduced in the senate that were tabled, S. B. 240, relating to insurance contracts, and S. B. 186 amending the standard fire insurance policy. The Brownhill bill to create a commission to revise the entire insurance code passed the house, but failed to come to the surface in the senate. Oregon has now the most complete insurance code in the west and Washington legislators have sent for some of the Oregon laws to enact them. House bills 144 and 147 are in line with the legislation demanded by the national association of insurance commissioners for uniform legislation, and Oregon has done her part fully in this respect. The insurance men are more progressive than the lawyers, as the latter have not been able to secure uniform divorce laws. Following is a summary of the insurance laws enacted at this session:

H. B. 19, corrects errors in the act of 1907, mostly of a clerical nature.

H. B. 24 extends the anti-compact law to marine, plate glass, surety and casualty companies.

H. B. 145 requires agents of fire companies to pay an annual license fee, instead of the old perpetual license.

H. B. 146 makes more specific the terms of collection of annual license fees and taxes, and changes the publication clause to require the annual statements to be published in two newspapers east of the mountains and two west of the mountains. The old law required one publication at Salem and one at Portland? The change which was slipped in by the insurance agents in the house is not in the interest of publicity but allows the annual statements to be buried in obscure publications when they should be given the widest publicity. The bill as it was prepared by the insurance department did not make this change. As the result of a ruling of the legal department of the state last year, most of the annual statements at Salem were published in the little Prohibition weekly which has just been sold out by the sheriff. The largest and best companies seek to have their statement published in the newspapers of largest general circulation, while the weak companies try to evade publicity.

H. B. 245 provides for increasing the appropriation of the insurance department from $10,000 to $15,000 per annum.

H. B. 325 provides that the insurance commissioner shall when he believes the public welfare demands his attention investigate domestic insurance corporations, and shall probe promotion enterprises, which have become quite a scandal, and the insurance press is full of their reckless undertakings.

H. B. 326 licenses the agents of casualty companies and takes cognizance of the writing of all their business.

H. B. 327 provides for the licensing of life agents and transfer of the same from one agent to another.

H. B. 397 repeals the reciprocal provision and brings foreign mutual companies under the state laws. It reduces the requirement as to membership and increases the requirements as to assets from $100,000 to $150,000.

Mr. Koser has held his office under four governors and is considered an expert authority on the subject of insurance and will probably be retained in his present position by the Democratic governor.
