NO. 53.

SENATE EXPIRES BY LIMITATION AND WILL DIE GREATLY UNLAMENTED

VOTES TO FORTIFY CANAL APPROPRIATES VAST SUMS AND PASSES MANY BILLS

Many of the Old Fossils Will Retire at the End of the Session to a Well Earned and Perpetual Rest From Political Labors, Being True Patriots Who Quit Their Jobs for the Country's Good--Last Days Were Fitful and Its Last Breath Laborious, It Dies Harsh.

Washington, March 3.—When the senate reconvened today Senator Stone (Mo.) served notice that at the close of consideration of the naval appropriation bill today he would call up the reciprocity measure. The naval bill carries appropriations aggregating $125,000,000.

After three hours' discussion, the sundry bill, carrying $240,000,000, was passed. The Owen amendment, increasing the salaries of public health and marine hospital service officials was adopted. It makes the salary of the surgeon general $6,000. An amendment by Senator Culbertson reducing the appropriation for the present tariff board experts from $400,000 to $200,000, and limiting its use to one year was also adopted, 39 to 24.

Another Culbertson amendment to the sundry bill ordering a report by the tariff board on wool and woolen schedules before the first Monday in next December was adopted after much wrangling.

An amendment by Jones of Washington appropriating $12,000 to suppress the liquor traffic in Alaska was adopted.

An amendment by Burton to eliminate the appropriation for the fortification of the Panama canal was defeated on a viva voce vote.

When the plan to increase postal magazine rates was taken up Penrose said he realized it was impossible to pass it and withdrew his amendment. He asked, as a substitute, the appointment of a commission to investigate the subject.

Cummins thereupon notified the senate that he would discuss the subject at length if Penrose tried to press his proposal.

The naval bill passed in 45 minutes, the house provision for the eight-hour law applying to battleships being restored. The provision that the profit on armor plate be limited to 100 per cent was stricken out.

Owen declared that the prohibition against purchasing from the steel

To Talk Around the World.

Paris, March 3.—New and powerful transmitting machines installed in the wireless station of the Eiffel Tower are being adjusted today, with the intention of being able to communicate with any part of the world.

It was learned that within three months the Eiffel Tower station will be talking with the United States and Canada with the same facility as is now the case between Paris and Tunis and Casablanca and Dakar. This will be by far the most powerful wireless station in the world.

trust should remain, "or the conspiracy would be unbroken."

The postoffice bill next came up for consideration. Postmaster General Hitchcock remaining on the floor during the discussion.

In the discussion of magazine matter Senator Carter of Montana, delivered his swan song. He explained at length how the senate committee and the joint commission arrived at the plan of charging four cents a pound instead of one cent for the advertising pages of the magazines.

Bristow notified the senate that he would reply to Carter's statement.

"I shall challenge every statement made by the postoffice department or the senator from Montana," said Bristow, "relative to the cost of transportation of second class matter."

Spent $8,000,000 a Minute.

Washington, March 3.—A new record for spending is hung up in the archives of the senate today, as the result of yesterday's legislative activities, when the senators spent an average of $8,000,000 a minute for 20 minutes. In that time the upper house passed the pension bill, carrying $153,000,000; the diplomatic bill, $4,000,000, and the fortifications bill, $6,000,000.

JAPANESE IN HAWAII DISCUSSED

Population of Islands is Now 48 Per Cent Jap and is Rapidly Increasing--Many Jap Children U. S. Citizens.

JAPANESE HIGHLY ELATED

Jap Children Born in the Islands are American Citizens and Can Vote, But are Still Loyal to Japan—This is the Boast of the Japanese at Home, Who Look Forward to the Ultimate Annexation of the Islands.

(By Edward O. Stotts, Yokohama, special correspondent, of Capital Journal.)

In a letter from Yokohama, dated February 13, our special correspondent says:

The following statistics comes from Japanese sources in the capital city and afford a source here for frank elation.

The total population of Hawaii in 1910 was 191,909. The various nationalities at present are represented as follows:

Japanese	79,662
Hawaiian	27,099
Portuguese	22,294
Chinese	21,598
Semi-Hawaiian	12,485
Porto Ricans	4,828
Spaniards	1,962
Other nationalities	22,893

Since 1900 the Japanese have increased from 61,155 to their present number, an increase of 18,507. They now represent 48 per cent of the total inhabitants of the islands. A peculiar feature of the problem, and one which was frankly noted in native papers recently, is that children born of Japanese parents in the islands have all the rights of citizens, including the ballot. Recent American statistics show that Japanese women are being brought into the islands in ever-increasing numbers. They immediately marry and work beside their husbands in the fields.

The Japanese newspaper quoted above frankly estimated just how long it would be before Japanese voters dominate the islands, adding with pride that such children, while obliged to attend the public schools, remained just as loyal Japanese as those born in Japan proper. That the American government is fully alive to this outlook is evidenced in its efforts to introduce other nationalities, such as Russians, Porto Ricans, and Filipinos into the islands—experiments which have not as yet met with much success.

Hawaii, and the treaty under which it was annexed, is not the least of the complications which might bring on war in the Pacific.

Walling Tries to Explain That His Warm Letters to Woman Who is Suing Him for Breach of Promise Were Caused by His Trying to Answer Her Passionate Letters and Satisfy Her With the Definite Expression of Love--Says "She Has Much Feeling But Not Much Head."

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

New York, March 3.—The name of the czar of all the Russias was dragged into the $100,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Anna Grunspan against William English Walling, millionaire Socialist, when Walling was recalled to the stand today.

Walling's book "Russia's Message" which refers to "Czar Nicholas' wild debaucheries," was introduced and counsel for Miss Grunspan asked the author whether he knew his statements to be true. Walling answered that he wrote the story from information given him by persons familiar with the facts.

Then Walling was questioned regarding his friendship with Maxim Gorky, Miss Grunspan's attorney seeking to bring into the case the fact that Gorky was ejected from American hotels for traveling with a woman not his wife. Walling swore that he never permitted Miss Grunspan to introduce him to anyone as her prospective husband.

When asked if he had assailed the American judiciary, Walling replied: "I appeal to the jury to understand that my views are those of an insurgent."

One of the jurors questioned Walling regarding his trip with Miss Grunspan to Russia.

"I went there to study the political situation," said Walling. He declared that what he found caused him to hope that the time was coming when the gutters of St. Petersburg would run red with the blood of the Russian aristocracy. He said he thought the Russian revolution was his wife's mission.

On re-direct examination Walling was asked if he loved Miss Grunspan. "Not in the sense of true love," he replied. "It was only a physical attraction, which in the beginning drew me to her. That feeling later returned only if I drank a little wine."

Walling's attorney then read a passage from a letter—"Truly I have never had a place in my heart for anyone but you" and asked what he meant by that.

"It was written in answer to one of her passionate letters," said the defendant. "I tried to satisfy her without expressing definite love."

Asked if he considered the plaintiff's letters interesting, Walling said: "Yes, when she did not speak of love. I was interested in her intense feeling, not in her sentiment. She is a girl of deep feeling but she has a poor head."

Walling was then excused and his wife, Anna Strunsky Walling, formerly of San Francisco, was called. The court however, did not allow her to testify, ruling that anything she could say would be immaterial, and she stepped down without a question asked.

Miss Grunspan swore positively that Walling falsified when he said they were unduly intimate the first day they met. She denied practically all of Walling's statements.
