PROPERTY IS NOT GOING A BEGGING SAYS MR. BARR

"The state board means well enough but they are not doing right by using the governor's property to beat down the rest of us," said Theodore M. Barr this morning to a reporter. "My home is on the corner of Court and Twelfth streets, and because the state happens to want the property is no reason why I should get less than the market value. A citizen should not be compelled to give up his home where he has made all the improvements for his own use and comfort and with no thought of selling for what other people think it is worth. Inside property across the street from me has been selling at $70 per front foot. At that price my 128 feet on Court street would be worth $8,960. Mine is a corner lot and has to bear an assessment for Twelfth street paving of $1600, which would bring it to $10,560. It has a greater commercial value than inside property as I could build four houses on it. The Spaulding and Miles property one block west sold for $14,000 without the paving. I valued the improvements on my quarter block at

BRINGS SUIT TO RECOVER THE LAND

For some reason, which is not disclosed in the complaint, C. Sullivan, after he had completed making payments upon a half interest of 188 acres of school land, which he had bought from the state, directed the board to make out the deed to H. Trinwith and now his widow, Maggie S. Sullivan, and his minor son, Cornelius Sullivan, have brought a suit against Mabel Trinwith, heir of H. Trinwith, with a view of being declared the owners of an undivided half interest in the land.

According to the complaint, John Daly originally purchased the land from the state. After he had made a number of payments he entered into a contract with Sullivan to the effect that if he would pay the balance that it should be given a half interest. Upon the completion of the payment Sullivan directed the board to make out the deed to the name of H. Trinwith, but with instructions that it should not be sent to him, but to Sullivan. Sullivan retained possession of the deed until he died, but, subsequent to his death, it is alleged, that Trinwith surreptitiously gained possession of it and placed it on record. A short time ago Trinwith died, leaving Mabel Trinwith as his heir, and she now claims all of the land, and to secure possession of Sullivan's half interest the widow and son have instituted the suit.

Tecarte to reinforce Louis Rodriguez and his force of 35 men holding that place.

The couriers said that Leyva and Berthold planned to make the big fight at Tecarte, and, if defeated there, to fall back through Pichos pass, contesting every foot of the way. This was borne out by the actions of Captain McDonald and his men left to guard Mexicali in building trenches to the south of the town, from which direction the retreating army would come.

Louis James was arrested early today while attempting to run the border blockade with a small quantity of ammunition. James is an American.

them in a few days, and then every thing will be in readiness for the commencement of work on these streets.

Many petitions for the improvement of other streets are in the hands of the street committee, and reports will be submitted at the next council meeting. At the next meeting there will also be considered bids for the improvement of streets and contracts awarded.

While much building is under way, there are also many improvements which will not be made until certain streets, the improvement of which has been petitioned for, are improved, but when that time comes these will also be undertaken.
