SALEM GETTING READY FOR THE BIG HORSE SHOW

With the view of making final preparations for the horse show, to be held April 7 and 8, the directors of the Salem Horse Show Association held a meeting last evening, and, after listening to the reports of the various committees, appointed further committees and officers to take charge of the show during the two days.

Charles Yannke, secretary of the association, was chosen chief marshal, and he will, in the next few days, select his assistants. Charles Yannke was also appointed, with Ellis Walte, as a committee to make arrangements for the stabling of the many horses which will be here, and will enter in upon its labors this morning.

Professors Withycombe and Potter, of the State Agricultural College at Corvallis, have been appointed as judges. The association considers itself very fortunate to secure the services of these men, as they have a thorough knowledge of all stock, and it is a guarantee that the awards will be fair and satisfactory to all concerned.

Much Interest Shown.
Much interest is being shown from all parts of the valley in relation to the show. Many entries of all classes of horses have already been made, more will roll in from now on, and it is confidently expected that the coming show will be the finest exhibition of blooded and fancy horses that has ever been shown in Western Oregon.

THE COLONEL REFUSES TO TALK MORE

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
San Francisco, March 30.—Colonel Roosevelt said today that he would make no further public addresses in this city; that the remainder of his stay here would be devoted exclusively to his family and to recreation. He will, therefore, decline all further invitations.

The colonel will leave here Sunday evening for Reno, Nev., where he will spend Monday. Returning Monday night to Sacramento, he will be the guest of Governor Johnson until Tuesday night, when he will start for Portland to speak before the Commercial Club. From there he goes to Seattle and home by the northern route.

Colonel Roosevelt spoke last night to the Spanish war veterans in DuBoce hall. He was introduced by Commander Forest as "Comrade." Roosevelt paid a high tribute to the veterans, and compared the present conditions of the army and navy with those of the first days of the Spanish war.

CORNER STONE FOR JASON LEE CHURCH LAID

The corner stone for the Jason Lee Methodist church at the corner of North Winter and Jefferson streets was laid yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. In the evening a banquet was held and also appropriate exercises.

The afternoon services were opened by prayer by Rev. John Ovali, and those present listened to an address by Rev. Joseph Hoberg.

After the banquet missionary exercises were held, the feature of which was an address by Judge Moreland, clerk of the supreme court. Judge Moreland took for his subject the life of Jason Lee, and delivered both an eloquent and instructive address.

* X-RAYS AND SMILES. *

The hypnotic power of Gladys Lamberson was surely a peacherina. According to a statement made by Isaac Bryson, who says Gladys hypnotized $500,000 out of his dad's pockets in 15 years, which gives an inkling of "the hypnotic power of her."

Felix, means happy. Well, why shouldn't he be happy with such a versatile and promiscuous "thinker."

SUNSHINE WARMS UP THE FANS

LOCAL BASEBALL ENTHUSIASTS PREPARING FOR A LIVELY SEASON—WARM SUNSHINE ON THEIR BACKS—MAKES THEM LONG FOR THE DIAMOND.

Apropos of the opening of the baseball season along the coast, local fans are beginning to cast their eyes toward the local baseball grounds, and sigh for a sound of the "cheering in the dusk of the evening," a smell of the diamond sawdust and a sight of the local uniforms.

Things are doing in local baseballdom, although the show is not quite ready to begin. Chauncey Bishop, Joe Zinn, Arch Jerman and other local baseball magnates already have sent out the first call to arms; they have been communicating the desires of those outside the fold; some talking has been done regarding the securing of grounds, and before many weeks Salem baseball fans will forget their meals, their New Year's resolutions and their religion, and all will gather at the grandstand, satisfied at least that it has come—the grand old love of all loves—the baseball season.

Joe Zinn, who is interested in the local Portland Railway, Light & Power Company's team, recently received a letter from the street car boys at Portland, asking if the Salem car boys could join them in installing a circuit of six teams, composed solely of street car employees. Five teams already are organized in Portland, and, if the Salem boys join them in the new move, it will make a circuit of six teams. These teams will alternate between Portland and Salem, Salem at times playing in Portland and the Portland boys playing part of the time in Salem. Joe favors the new circuit, and the chances for the six-team circuit appear very bright.

Although the car boys' team is not yet fully organized, Zinn states that A. F. Fleming, of the elocof force, will catch for the brass-buttoned brigade this year and King and Walker will twirl the speed balls for this team.

Both the fans and the players are anxious to open the season at once, and it is expected that things will be stirring on a definite basis within a very short time. Mr. Jerman is still negotiating for grounds and can make no definite statement regarding the Tri-City League team this year for several days.

This season's manager for the car boys, as yet, has not been chosen, and no surmise as to who he will be can be made at this time.

The five teams of the Portland street car men are taken from the following places: One from Piedmont, one from Sellwood, another from the Savier-street barns, the office force in the new electric building has contributed a team, and one more from the East Ankeny-street car barns.

Chauncey Bishop was out of town last evening, and nothing could be learned regarding his plans for this season in the baseball world.

The April Strand Magazine.

With a Sherlock Holmes "Adventure" and a Jacobs story the April Strand should prove of more than ordinary interest to the magazine reader. Both these contributions are worthy of their authors and will be read with keen delight by their numerous admirers. Besides these well-known writers there are stories by E. M. Jameson, E. M. Ingram, Frank E. Verney, Margaret Westrup, Randolph Bedford, M. F. Hutchinson and E. Nesbit. An important and interesting article on "Charles Dickens' Manuscripts" is contributed by J. Holt Schoelling. In this topical paper we learn that Dickens thought so little of his MSS. that few were kept intact. There is not much of the original "Pickwick" left and many of the volumes in manuscript are incomplete. Other articles of especial interest include one by Johannes Josefsson on "Glima—The Secret Sport of Iceland." A nature article by Professor John J. Ward on "Water Spiders—and How They Become So" is illustrated with some of the most remarkable photographs of spiders building their nests under water that have possibly ever been taken. The color section is entitled "A Gallery of Beauty."

The April Wide World Magazine.

A budget of interesting stories and articles appears in the April issue of the "Wide World Magazine." The Rev. F. Cowley Whitehouse, of Constantinople, describes "The Turk at Play" and assures us that, when he chooses, the indolent Turk can exert considerable strenuousness. Prof. C. H. Hawes continues his "Wanderings in Crete" and C. V. A. Peel brings to a conclusion his sporting adventures

"Among Ryper and Reindeer of Norway." In an article on "The Mountain of the Ark" we learn that Mount Ararat has only been scaled 17 times. L. Dow Covington begins a series of articles dealing with "Mysterious Senoussi-Land" and there are some very exciting stories of that quality which readers of the "Wide World" have come to look for. Mrs. Fred Maturin, who has a world-wide reputation as a great traveler, begins a series of articles, entitled, "Our Trek beyond the Zambesia." As usual there are a great many remarkable photographs in this issue of a what is really a unique monthly magazine.
