Charles H. Jones, Mrs. Edgar, Mrs. Sarah J. Parks, Mrs. Mollie Dennison, Mrs. A. J. Anderson, Mrs. J. W. Young, Mrs. M. S. Jones, Mrs. H. P. Boll, Mrs. Lula Jerman, Mrs. Ruth Dennison, Mrs. Nellie Doe and Mrs. Williams.

The members of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen will entertain this evening in honor of their mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts. A number of the many invitations issued will call guests from neighboring towns. The form of this entertainment has been closely guarded leaving the guests with curiosity as to what they may be presented with. Last Saturday evening sixteen members were initiated into the Brotherhood.

Mrs. Barr G. Lee, who has been ill for two weeks past, is improving.

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's church will be entertained next Friday afternoon in the Guild house.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ackerman returned the first of the week from their sojourn through the Middle West and Eastern states, going directly to their home in Monmouth. They are expected in Salem next week.

Miss Edith Sides and Miss Laura Hansen entertained their respective clubs the Meum et Eum and the Billiken at Miss Sides' home with the game of five hundred, last Tuesday evening. When the merry game was finished, Miss Culver received a lovely embroidered handkerchief for high score and Miss Grace Damon was given an amusing toy to console her for having low score.

The stork left a May day basket for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jenks (Miss Edith Winstanley) filled with Edith Mae, a fat little daughter. Everyone well and happy.

Mr. George A. Wood, of West Union, Iowa, was in Salem this week. Mr. Wood is travelling through the Northwest with a view of locating in one of the three states. His decision may be a Willamette Valley town.

Mrs. J. C. Hopkins entertained with an afternoon tea for the Women's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church last Thursday at her home on South High street, honoring Mrs. A. O. Condit, vice president of the North Pacific board. Mrs. C. A. Park, Mrs. Robert Eakin and Mrs. J. H. Albert. Reports were read from the delegates for the Presbyterian. Light refreshments were enjoyed after the social hour.

Mrs. P. S. Knight is seriously ill at her home on Liberty street. Many friends wish for her speedy recovery.

Mrs. S. C. Wall, of the Needlecraft shop, went to Aurora last Wednesday morning to instruct an embroidery class of sixteen members to whom she gives one day in each month. After the class work, an informal reception with dainty refreshments closed the afternoon. Mrs. Wall was the dinner guest of Mrs. Sandler, returning on the eight o'clock train.

Miss Margaret Root, one of the Palo Girls in the Kirmess, returned to Salem last Sunday.

Mrs. W. Melvine Plimpton returned from Portland last Wednesday after a visit with relatives and attending the Kirmess.

Mrs. George Shand and Mrs. A. L. Brown entertained at Mrs. Shand's home with a Kensington, honoring Mrs. Alfred Marcus. The living room decorations were apple blossoms and honeysuckle. The mantle banked with the flowers and the pillars twined with honeysuckle. The color scheme in the dining room was yellow and green, masses of buttercups everywhere, honeysuckle covering the plate rail and trailing from the chandelier. Refreshments were served for the fourteen guests at a long table attractive with white and gold furnishings and profusely decorated with buttercups.

The hostesses foresaw the difficulty of judging sewing for a prize and tied a red ribbon inconspicuously on one of the chairs. When it came time to lay aside thimble and needle, Mrs. J. C. Brown was found seated in the marked chair and awarded the prize, a large blooming red geranium. The guests enjoying this afternoon were Mrs. Alfred Marcus, Mrs. John Bayne, Mrs. J. C. Brown, Mrs. George Dunsford, Mrs. Romao Hunter, Mrs. Otto Hendricks, Mrs. O. J. Gould, Mrs. George Baerlein, Mrs. Smart, Mrs. Clew, Mrs. J. B. Craig, Lillian Applegate, Mrs. A. L. Brown and Mrs. George Shand.

Last Saturday afternoon the pupils of Mrs. W. A. Denton's music class gave a most entertaining recital at her home on North Twelfth street to the pleasure of about sixty guests.

The first part of the program was devoted to the work of younger pupils two of whom being but six and seven years of age. These tots gave their selections in thoroughly enjoyable manner. Among the older ones, Godard's Secord Mazurka and Verdi-Paul "Il Trovator" showed particularly good work. Mrs. Denton's next recital will be given early in June and is the last of the series for this term.

An event of interest to their Salem friends was the marriage of Anna Eva French to Mr. Byron J. Taylor last Thursday evening at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Francis, Marlon French in Albany. The wedding arrangements while simple were very pretty; about forty guests were asked for the ceremony. The home was lovely with its elaborate floral decorations. Ferns, red carnations and asparagus were used in the dining room while the living room was made beautiful with masses of white lilacs and innumerable strands of vine covering the walls. Under a large umbrella made entirely of white lilacs the beautiful ring service was read by Reverend White, of the Presbyterian church. The bride, gowned in a tailor suit of cream color, wearing large black-plumed hat and carrying pale pink carnations with asparagus, was very lovely. She was unattended. Miss Taylor, the groom's sister, and Mrs. Richard Williams, of Portland, assisted in serving refreshments. The young couple went to Newport where they expect to remain for the summer and will locate in Corvallis next Fall.

Mrs. Lowell Tweedale entertained the Ladies' Missionary Circle of the Baptist church at her home on Chemeketa street, yesterday afternoon.

Through the courtesy of the management at the Wexford theater, students from Sacred Heart academy enjoyed a special matinee of the "Fall of Troy" last Thursday.

The Reverend R. U. Avison, with his family are occupying their fine new home on State street. The members of the First Methodist have cause to be proud of their parsonage which is modern and quite perfect in detail.

Twenty-five members of the Orange club enjoyed the hospitality of Miss Huddleston last Tuesday at her home on South Twelfth street. The decorations were confined to the club colors, orange and black, college pennants and orange shaded lights with the same color scheme throughout the rooms. After the regular club business the evening was given over for the entertainment of the guests. An informal program with piano solo by Miss Huddleston; a reading from Mrs. David Wright; Mr. Carl Abrams in a talk; Mrs. Simeral with vocal solo, Mr. Jay Reynolds and Mr. Brodie story tellers, and little Francis Ward, a seven-year-old prima donna, in one of her selections. This last number was very beautifully given. After the serving of refreshments the evening was finished with college songs.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Smith of 1765 Asylum avenue, celebrated Mr. Smith's sixty-second birthday last Thursday evening with a fine dinner, entertaining Professor and Mrs. Von Eschen, Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Hellyer, recently from Grand Junction; Colorado, a daughter and two sons of the family. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have been in Salem for three years coming from Guthrie Center, Iowa, where he was county recorder for four years; he was also county recorder in Kansas four years. Previously he had taught school fifteen years. This locality pleases him and he intends educating his children and conducting a real estate business in Salem.

Mr. John Gantenbein and Mrs. Mary Wenderoth were united in marriage last Thursday evening at the parochial residence, Reverend A. Moore officiating. Only a few relatives were asked to witness the ceremony.

Mrs. R. J. Hendricks is steadily improving in health and will soon be able to return to Salem.

The young women of the Queen Esther circle in the first Methodist church entertained in most amusing manner, a large audience last Wednesday evening in the church parlors. The numbers on the program were quite as funny as they were indescribable. In giving this manner of entertainment the work is far more difficult than the ordinary program calls for; not so much in practice as in tactful handling. These young women succeeded admirably in giving in refined manner, a "screaming farce."

Governor West with Mrs. West reviewed the military maneuvers of the Oregon Agricultural College cadets in Corvallis, yesterday.

Mrs. J. H. Albert and Mrs. G. J. Pearce were hostesses yesterday afternoon for the Woman's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church. The meeting held in the church parlors was largely attended and of most interesting nature.

Miss Simmons will talk before the Salem Womans club on the subject of "Sculpture," next Friday afternoon at half past two. The place of meeting will be announced later.

Mrs. S. W. Thompson and Miss Aline Thompson were Sunday guests of the Frederick Thielens at Derry Orchard.

Mrs. F. W. Steusloff and Mrs. Ida Babcock entertained the Woman's Missionary society of the First Congregational church yesterday afternoon at Mrs. Steusloff's home on North Commercial street. The business meeting was followed by social entertaining. The rooms were attractively decorated with very beautiful pansies from Mrs. Babcock's flower garden. They were shown in such profusion and variety the affair was called "Pansy Tea." Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

An important feature of the Salem Woman's club meeting next Friday will be the nomination by ballot of the officers for the ensuing year. Each member is expected to file with the nominating committee her choice of candidates for the various offices. The nominating committee will make up the official ticket by placing upon it for each office the names of the two women receiving the highest number of votes as determined by this nomination ballot. The annual meeting will be held the second Saturday in June.

Mrs. John McNary is entertaining this afternoon honoring her nieces the Misses Gertrude and Margaret Gray, of Seattle.

The Maids and Matrons of the sewing club and a few invited friends spent a delightful afternoon yesterday as guests of Miss Aline Thompson. The affair was informal and simple refreshments were served. Enjoying Miss Thompson's hospitality were: Madams J. J. Roberts, R. C. Bishop, Frederick Thielens, Donald Stevenson, Robert Benham, Clifford Brown, William Burghardt, L. A. Westcott, William Ball, Shaw, the Misses Ruth Wallace, Elizabeth Lord, Margaret Boot and Fielda McClain of Silverton.

About thirty couples of the young society people in the Catholic church enjoyed a program of dancing last evening in St. Joseph's hall, to the good music of the asylum orchestra. A scheme of red, white and gold decorated the hall and Miss Anna Plinsky presided at the punch bowl.

Last Tuesday evening three members were initiated into the St. Joseph Court, number 1279 Catholic Order of Foresters.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Fry asked the Priscilla club and their "protectors" to help celebrate their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary last evening at "Bright View." The home was lavishly decorated—porches and hall in Scotch broom, living room with flowering almond, the mantle banked high with the lovely pink blossoms. Baskets of sweetbriar and flowers hung between living room and library with pillars twined in vines and flowers. The dominant colors in the dining room were green and red. A bowl filled with an immense bunch of red carnations adorned the long table. Smylax covered the plate rail, and both were used in profusion throughout the room. Reverend Philip Bauer performed the ceremony of remarrying Mr. and Mrs. Fry, after which the affair was in the nature of a musical, with fine program by best local talent. After refreshments were served, Miss Jennie Fry acted as "toastmaster" in a most charming manner. Rev. Bauer responded to what "Marriage Means to Both Old and Young;" Mr. E. M. Epley "Daniel Fry as a Boy;" Mr. J. M. Payne, "Dan as a Man;" Miss Edith Sides, "What it Means to Be Single;" Judge W. R. King, "Reminiscences of My Married Life;" Mr. F. W. Steusloff.

"Is Marriage a Failure?" Daniel Fry, Jr., gave "Boyhood Recollections of Mother and Father" in most excellent manner. It remained for Mr. Fry to tell in his clever, witty style, of his "Trials and Tribulations of Twenty-five Years' Conflict."

In serving the elaborate lunch, Miss Hortense Epley and Miss Jennie Fry assisted.

Many beautiful gifts were sent to Mr. and Mrs. Fry in remembrance of the day, among them a fine berry spoon of "Mother's" patterns, as present from the Priscilla club.

Mr. Fry presented his wife with a splendid silver salver, most artistically engraved.

Miss Elma Weller's little musical, "The Birds' Carnival," will be given on the sixteenth of May. The place will be mentioned later.
