Governor Oswald West has assigned tomorrow, May the fourteenth, as "Mother's Day" and recommends that a white carnation be worn in memory and honor of our mothers.

Mrs. John McNary telephoned a few of the young women to be her guests last Saturday afternoon when she entertained with five hundred for the Misses Gertrude and Margaret Gray, nieces from Seattle. The affair was charmingly informal. Red carnations were the flowers used and very lovely refreshments served. The pretty edition of a late book was presented Miss Effie King for highest score. Mrs. McNary's guests were Mrs. Curtis Cross, Mrs. Frederick Thiesen, Mrs. William Burghardt, Mrs. R. C. Bishop, the Misses Cora Talkington, Mabel Robertson, Blanche Brown, Ruth Wallace, Effie Mae King, Veda Cross, Mildred Bagley, Aline Thompson and Edith Ragan.

Mrs. Harriet McArthur, of Portland, and Mrs. William Markland Molson, of Montreal, Canada, guests of Miss Sally Bush last Friday, took luncheon with Mrs. Henry Thiesen, Saturday leaving that afternoon on the three o'clock Electric for Portland.

Mrs. Z. J. Riggs returned last Saturday from a visit to Portland on business and to attend the Kirmess, bringing Mrs. Walter Honeymann, who remained for the week end. Mrs. Riggs leaves the first of the week for San Francisco where she will be the guest of her mother and sister for six weeks.

At nine o'clock last Friday evening students that represented all of the colleges of Willamette University found their places by unique cards when the Junior-Senior banquet was a reality. About seventy-five members of the two classes were present at this most elaborate affair. The table decoration of carnations was beautifully arranged and music from piano, violin and clarinet added pleasure for the banqueters.

Joseph O. Stearns, Jr., presided as toastmaster. Merton DeLong gave the Junior class address of welcome. The following toasts were responded to: "Our Juniors," Sydney Graham; "Unity, Our Colleges," Dr. E. H. Todd; "Willamette—Her Past," Robert Eakin; "Willamette—Her Future," James B. C. Oakes; "Athletics—The Cinder Path," Paul T. Anderson; "Our Preservers—The Doctors," Prince Byrd; "Societies—Their Sphere in College Life," Miss Mae Hopkins; "The Ladies," Guy Woods; "Love—A Cosmic Force," Margaret Graham; "The World Within an Atom," Dr. Holman. This banquet was voted in every respect the most enjoyable and successful affair that has been given during the year.

After spending the Winter in California and visiting her daughter, Mrs. B. J. Miles, in Salem, for six weeks, Mrs. Louise E. Collins left Tuesday for her home in Nebraska. Mrs. Collins is prominently identified with the Home Mission work of the Methodist church. For her benevolent deeds and lovely personality she is known through her state as "Mother Collins."

Mrs. George Rogers asked a few friends for an informal afternoon last Saturday, in honor of Mrs. Ada Strong's birthday. The decorations were confined to bouquets of flowers, and the refreshments very lovely. Many gifts useful and ornamental proved the affection for Mrs. Strong among her friends. The women who accepted Mrs. Rogers' hospitality were, Mrs. Ada Strong, Mrs. L. A. Westcott, Mrs. Ruben Boise, Mrs. Charles McNary, Mrs. George L. Rose, Mrs. Max O'Brien, Mrs. Harry Albert, Mrs. Joseph Baumgartner, Mrs. Frederick Thiesen and Mrs. Lenta Westcott.

Next Tuesday evening the Cherry City Improvement league will hold a meeting in the Board of Trade rooms at eight o'clock and are asking that a full attendance may help in planning ways and means by which to carry on this work during the Summer. Particularly is it desired that the women of Salem may be interested in this league work and lend their support in every possible way. A large attendance will greatly encourage the officers who are giving much of their time in efforts to make the city more beautiful.

Miss Jennie Fry is entertaining at the Delta Delta Sorority House in Eugene as week end guests, the Misses Rita Steiner and Claudine Rose, who will enjoy the program arranged by the Junior class of the university. The delightful closing of the week, the Junior promenade, will be given tonight. These affairs are planned each year by the Junior class.

A program arranged by Mrs. Fannie Fern Andrews, secretary of the American School Peace league, will be the order of exercises in many of the public schools, next Thursday, May the eighteenth.

Mrs. E. Breyman returned last Monday from an extended southern trip which included a visit to Cuba; the longest stay being made in New Orleans. Coming from Birmingham a few days were spent in Chicago.

Miss Helen Krause and Miss Grace McKenzie, of Portland, were delightfully entertained over Sunday by the Misses Helen and Dorothy Pearce at their residence on North Winter street.

Mrs. John McNary is entertaining informally this afternoon with bridge.

Miss Catherine Carson left Thursday morning for Eugene to be the guest of her sister, Miss Effie Carson at the Gamma Phi Beta sorority house during the university week end festivities.

The Misses Lyle and Ruth Stelwer will be week end guests at the Gamma Phi Beta sorority house in Eugene.

Mrs. Kate McCorkle was hostess for the Meum et Eum club last Tuesday evening. In the game of five hundred, highest score gave Miss Mabel Duncan first prize, a picture while Miss Kittle Harbord's very low score failed to bring a gift.

Reverend H. T. Babcock left yesterday to attend the general assembly in Atlantic City, and will visit relatives in Syracuse and New York City before returning to Salem. The trip will be of a month's duration.

Mrs. S. Livesley, of Woodburn, has been the guest of the T. A. Livesleys for the week.

On Tuesday Miss Ruth Wallace was the luncheon guest of Mrs. Hockenberry at the commercial club in Portland.

A notable event of the week was Miss Mabel Robertson's ten o'clock breakfast given last Sunday for the Misses Gertrude and Margaret Gray, of Seattle. These morning affairs are prominent features of Eastern entertaining and begin a full week day in most charming manner. Miss Robertson's breakfast was quietly informal, the table daintily spread and beautiful with violets, was circled by the Misses Gertrude and Margaret Gray, Miss Looney, Mrs. Schucking, Miss Mildred Bagley, Miss Elizabeth Lord and Miss Robertson.

Mrs. B. O. Schucking was hostess with a luncheon on Wednesday, honoring Mrs. A. M. Cannon, of Portland. The scheme for decoration was confined to ferns and spring flowers. Her guests were Mrs. Cannon, who was Miss Mabel Jones, a popular society girl of Salem, Mrs. Livesley, Miss Ilda Jones, of "Lalish Meadows," Miss Lord and Miss Wallace.

Miss Joy Turner with her friend, Miss Arvilla Morris, of Seattle, are guests for the week end at the Gamma Delta Gamma sorority house in Eugene. Miss Morris will be Miss Turner's guest in Salem next week.

Mrs. Mager's private recital given last Monday evening, presented an opportunity for the pupils to criticize each other's work and individual characteristics. This was the first recital of the year. Following is the program:

rooms. The guests were served with refreshments during the evening.

The tenth meeting of the Euterpean society was held last Monday in the university chapel. On account of misunderstanding as to change of date, not so large an audience was present as would otherwise have been to enjoy the very good program. The descriptions given by Professor Hull were extemporaneous with the exception of number seven which was the regular Euterpean description. One of the numbers was omitted, coming too late, the pictures could not be shown. The readings by Mrs. Fleming and Mr. Galloway were interesting, the solos by Mrs. Seely with splendid contralto and Professor Hull in fine baritone were most enjoyable. Mrs. Hull's and Mrs. Burghardt's piano work was excellent. Following is the program in full:

1. Characterization of Rubens, Reader, Mrs. William Fleming.
2. Vocal, "Traume" from Tristan and Isolde. Description by Professor Alexander Hull; vocalist, Professor Hull; accompanist, Mrs. Hull.
3. Characterization of Shakespeare Reader, Charles V. Galloway.
4. Vocal, "Walter's Prize Song," (From Der Meistersingers.) Description and vocalist, Professor Hull. Accompanist, Mrs. Hull.
5. Piano, Prelude to "Parsifal," description by Professor Hull. Pianist, Mrs. Hull.
6. Readings, "Selections from Shakespeare," Reader, Charles V. Galloway.
7. Vocal, "Evening Star," from Tannhauser. Vocalist, Mrs. Etta Squier-Seely. Accompanist, Mrs. William Burghardt.
8. Ten minutes intermission.
9. Piano (Four hands) "Overture to Tannhauser." Description, Professor Hull. Pianists, Professor Hull and Mrs. Hull.

A jolly affair of the week occurred yesterday when the Robert Benhams opened their attractive home on Court street, for the Kensington club and men friends for dinner in the evening. Each member of the club brought in the afternoon a prepared portion of the evening feast and all joined in the arrangements. It was entirely a club affair.

In decorating the dominant colors were yellow and green. A large basket hung from the ceiling filled with masses of Scotch bloom and maiden hair fern with white tulle interspersed. The long table on which were vases of flowers and many yellow candles, giving soft glow for the diners, was marked for twenty-four guests with envelopes on which was written a riddle, the corresponding envelope giving the answer by which a partner was found. The contents of these envelopes were theater tickets which were used by this merry party later in the evening. The music for the evening was furnished by the "Rusian Symphony Orchestra" guests, wishing to hear it were requested to take the train for Portland. The toasts which followed were cleverly given. Mr. Robert Benham acting as toast master; Mr. Frederick Thiesen, Mr. R. C. Bishop and Mr. Paul Wallace responding.

Many unique amusements were furnished for the evening's entertainment.

The ladies of the Christian church announced a supper for Wednesday and were greeted with a large crowd. These suppers are popular and among the very best given in the city. The dining room and five long tables were beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Among the Salem boys who went to Eugene for the university week end, were Dan Fry Jr., Russell Brooks, Jessup Strang and Carl Grubbs.

Last Wednesday afternoon at half-past two o'clock the corner stone of Jason Lee Memorial church was placed with appropriate ceremonies. No rain fell on this day for the first time in the month.

The choir of the First Methodist church in connection with the Glee club and Ladies club from the college of music, making an aggregation of seventy voices, will present a program next Wednesday evening of choral music interspersed with various other selections. The concert under the direction of Dean Mendenhall, will include several of the best and more elaborate choral numbers, four being by the entire chorus and two by the choir alone. The Ladies' club will sing several numbers and the Glee club will include in its directions the great "Miserere" scene from "Il Trovatore" with Mrs. Mendenhall in the soprano role and Mr. Schraumm as the tenor. The great Sextet from "Lucia" will also be given by the Glee club quartet, Mrs. Mendenhall, soprano, and Miss Edgington, alto.

Mr. and Mrs. St. Helens entertained very beautifully last Thursday evening with a progressive whist party in their home on Court street. The rooms were most attractively decorated with Scotch broom and ferns carrying out the colors of yellow and green. Eight tables were played and the final counting resulted in awarding Mrs. Charles Given and Professor Staley first prizes, a beautiful cup and saucer and a fine Dutch vase in blue. To Mrs. D. D. Olmstead and Mr. Charles Given a tin horn and toy drum were given for consolation. These gifts caused merriment and incidentally much noise. In serving most elaborate refreshments, the hostess was assisted by the Misses Avis Chatman and Lillian Bogert. Among the invited guests were friends from Portland, Los Angeles and Stayton. Mr. and Mrs. St. Helens' list of guests includes: Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Staley; Mr. and Mrs. George Will, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Olmstead, Mr. and Mrs. J. Olmstead, Mr. and Mrs. John Maurer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Given, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bynon, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Heyser, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skinner, Mr. Cherrington, Mrs. Willis, of Portland; Mrs. Helen Bolin, Dr. Margaret Pomeroy, Mrs. Nellie Knox, Mrs. A. McKean, of Los Angeles, California; Miss Lillian Bogert, Miss Avis Chapman, Mr. Charles Pomeroy, Mr. Henry Wirth, of Stayton.

The members of the Presbyterian choir and orchestra were entertained last Wednesday in the church parlors, an informal program adding to the evening's pleasure. Mrs. Frank Trickey gave piano selections in splendid manner. Miss Martin's singing, Miss Viola Vercler's violin solo and Miss Swartz' cornet solo were all delightful. The orchestra selections were beautiful. Bouquets of flowers adorned the
