MONEY TRUST TO CONTROL AMERICAN INDUSTRIES CONFRONTS THE NATION

ANYONE OF MORGAN'S COURAGE WEALTH STRENGTH AND NERVE CAN DO MUCH HARM,--OR GOOD

E. H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the U. S. Steel, Gives Startling Testimony--Also Says "Government Must Act With the Individual Recognizing His Rights But Exercising Strct Control"---Points out Danger of Giving Wealth Unbridled License to Act Uncontrolled, and Wants More Regulative Legislation.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Washington, June 7.—Indications that a "money trust," seeking to control every American industry, confronts the nation, were developed today during the cross-examination of E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States steel corporation, at the session of the house committee's investigation of the steel trust. Representative Litleton sharply interrogated Gary regarding the power and methods of J. Pierpont Morgan during the period when the steel trust absorbed the Tennessee Coal and Iron company. "Does not Morgan control most of the banks in New York?" asked Litleton. "I do not believe that is true, but he owns several banks," replied Gary. Gary admitted that Morgan could have forced the sale of the Tennes-

He made a general denial of ever having received any graft in connection with the operation of the restricted district under Mayor Gill, which was closed up by a court injunction. He attributes the testimony of Gid Tupper, the chief witness for the state, who swore that he paid him $2000 on August 5, 1910, to Wappenstein's activity in prosecuting inmates of Tupper's resorts.

Coal and Iron company at any time, through his control of the banks which held the stock as collateral. "Any one of Morgans courage, wealth, strength and character," added Gary, "can do much harm as well as good in banking circles. But I believe that with power and privilege there is involved certain responsibility and obligation. That is one reason why I say that this country must

San Francisco, June 7.—Fifty thousand dollars is what cost the Southern Pacific railway to stop a spring in one of the tunnels on the Bay Shore cutoff, just south of San Francisco. The spring forced itself through the concrete wall of the tunnel, and it was only after several months of labor that railroad engineers succeeded today in capping the spring.

And He Objected. Redondo, Cal., June 7.—"I don't give a damn for the other charges. The only thing that hurts me is that she said I was responsible for the suicide." This was the answer made this afternoon by J. C. Butcher, city trustee of Hermosa, to the note Christine Ecker pinned to her clothes before she jumped into the waters at Hermosa Beach. "J. C. Butcher ruined my life by promises he did not keep," read the note. "Our child is buried in Odd Fellows' cemetery. ALL WIRES TO SECTIONS SOUTH AND WEST ARE DOWN SHOCK IS HARDEST THERE

Buildings in the City Are Wrecked, Streets Ripped Up, Water Mains Ruined and Electric Light Service Quits, Leaving City in Darkness Following the Early Morning Shocks---Quake Is the Most Severe Ever Recorded by Seismograph, Which Adds to the Fears for the Sections Cut Off From Communication.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Mexico City, June 7.—Thousands of persons who had flocked here to participate in the monster demonstration of welcome to Francisco I. Madero, Jr., revolutionary leader, were thrown into a panic this morning when a severe earthquake rocked the city. Ten soldiers are reported to have been crushed to death in the city barracks, and almost every prisoner in Belem jail was injured.

So far as is now known there were no casualties in the city proper, but the earthquakes made necessary a change in plans for the triumphal entry of Madero.

It is feared the damage in the city, however, has been heavy, and that great loss of life occurred in the districts just south and west of the capital.

Wires south and west of Mexico City are down, and no details have yet been received. The heaviest shock occurred just before daylight. Wires were prostrated, and the city lighting plant put out of commission.

In the confusion of the darkness of the early morning hours the terrified populace—men, women and children—rushed frantically into the streets.

Every hotel and lodging house in the city had been crowded with guests waiting today's celebration. In these places confusion reigned. Guests scantily attired rushed to the streets, fearing the collapse of the buildings in which they slept.

Shortly after the first and most severe shock, a rumor that insurgents, displeased with Madero's leadership, and plotting against him, had attacked the city and blown up the powder magazine at the barracks, was wildly circulated.

The continuation of the shocks, which lasted for several minutes, soon put an end to this story.

Thearrison at the barracks were caught under a collapsing roof. At the Belem prison, one of the heavy walls fell inward, crashing into the jury room and the main corridor of (the jail, where the prisoners were confined. Many of the largest buildings in the city were heavily damaged. The streets were strewn with wreckage. Pavements were ripped up by the force of the shock, and the water mains put out of commission. In the general wreckage of the city the triumphal arches erected for Madero still stood, while the brilliant decorations, in which the national colors predominated, fluttered in tatters from the fronts of wrecked buildings. Madero had planned to enter the city this morning, and proceed at the head of a procession which was to wind through the streets and pass down Avenida Juarez. Along these streets the decorations were particularly gorgeous.

Telegraph lines from Mexico City were still working badly late this afternoon, and conflicting reports of the damage done by this morning's earthquake were received. One report says that no one was killed and the damage was small.

100 Dead in City. Twelve bodies have so far been recovered from the ruins. Many persons are missing. It is believed that the death list will eventually reach 100. Nearly every public building in the city was damaged, and some of them demolished. In the poorer section of the city the ancient dwellings crumbled and fell in, the inmates being buried. Hundreds were injured in this way. In many cases the front walls fell outward into the streets, leaving the remainder of the building standing, adding to the desolate appearance of the wrecked city.

The Mexican Central railway roundhouse, the city barracks and the city prison were destroyed. The walls of the national palace were opened by great cracks. In the business section the damage was heavy. The plate glass windows of the principal shops were shattered, and the cracked and twisted pavements were [UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Berkeley, Cal., June 7.—With a battered eye and some minor bruises, R. L. Hemphill, who had nursed a garden in his back yard from infamy into a near mess of string beans, appeared in police court today to complain against the balloon that sat on and demoralized his crop. The balloon which sailed from Idora park last night, crashed vines and bushes and wrecked a little hot-house. A few minutes later a park employe came for the balloon. Hemphill refused to let him take it, asserting $75 damages had been done. The employe said he would go and get the money. He returned with three other husky gentlemen and a special officer and when they with the balloon, had departed, Hemphill had his decorated eyes. Today he is seeking damages for personal injury as well as the destruction of his garden.
