TALK CLUSTER LIGHTS

which they have prepared and the cost of these lights. The light as suggested by the company would be stationed on Court and State streets from 12 to Front and on the intersective streets from Front to Cottage. There would be four posts to the block and about 200 posts altogether. Each post would be equipped with four 100 candle powers tungsten lights and the cost of the post equipped and ready for service would be $85, the same as in Portland. The price of lighting these posts per month would be $4, the same as in Portland. The post would be 12 feet high and will weigh 700 pounds and will be different from the post in any other city on the Coast, giving Salem an exclusive design and one of the most beautiful posts ever manufactured.

Mr. Ben Olcott spoke on behalf of the state. He said he was personally in favor of the proposition, but could only speak for himself as one member of the executive board. He said the state would have to stand the expense of 22 posts, and while there is no appropriation at this time to cover the cost of installation he said that he figured he could save enough money from economies in lighting and water expenses which he was now carrying out, to cover the cost of these posts, and that he felt without a doubt that the other members of the board, Governor West and Treasurer Kay, would join with him in a favorable report to the next legislature asking for an appropriation to cover the expense of installing the posts along the state property. The P. R. L. & P. Co. would carry the expense of installing the posts until such time as the legislature might appropriate money for their payment.

Mr. Huckestein spoke favorably in regard to this kind of lighting system.

Mr. Hill, chairman of the lighting committee of the city council, said at the present time the city could stand no expense whatever toward cluster lights, but that he was heartily in favor of them.

Mr. White, of the finance committee, said that later on the city could undoubtedly help share the expense of lighting these posts.

Mr. McMicken spoke again stating that the vital point at this time was to get the posts installed and that maintenance would come later on.

Chas. Spaulding spoke as a property owner on Court street, saying that he was heartily in favor of the street lights, and would sign a petition for them, but he would like to see the work go to local men.

Max Buren said, as a property owner on Court street, he would be among the signers.

Mr. Grolle, manager of the Independent foundry of Portland, spoke next, telling of the street lighting in other cities. He said that Woodburn, Eugene, Marshfield, Roseburg, Grants Pass, Pendleton and many other places had installed the illuminated posts as their method of street lighting, and that as fast as they adopted this system the orders for posts came in continually. He said that in the larger cities, such as Seattle and Portland, the lamp posts were now as thick as stumps were 20 years ago. He said if the people gave the orders 60 of these posts could be installed by September 11, the opening of the state fair.

Mr. Shand, of the Salem Iron foundry, spoke next, and said that in the six months they had been working on the street lighting proposition they had signed up one order. He said, however, he was equipped to build the posts as they were ordered.

John McNary said, as a property owner, he would sign the petition, and that if Salem did not put in these lights it would soon be a back number. Little towns, like Wodburn and other small places, are going ahead of Salem, and it is the duty of the state capital to make itself as attractive as possible, and that Salem owed it to the rest of the state. The following resolution was adopted, and a committee of 15 business men will be appointed to help the P. R., L. & P. Co. place the matter before the people:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the Salem Board of Trade that the representatives of the federal government of the state of Oregon, the county of Marion and the city of Salem should lend all possible aid in the matter of installing and maintaining cluster lights on the principal streets of the city of Salem."

THE CIRCUS OUT TOOTED THE BOOSTERS

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 21.—The Blaine boosters, about 200 strong, with a brass band, arrived in Vancouver by special train earlier than they were expected, and were therefore not officially welcomed at the station. But their glory was dimmed by that of a circus parade that was taking place at the same time. They dispersed in favor of the elephants, and the blare of their trumpets was drowned in the roar of the steam calliope. Almost immediately after their arrival they went their various ways, seeking the best point of vantage from which to view the big show.

The purpose of the boosters is to let Vancouver know that Blaine is on the map and to seek an arrangement with the British Columbia Electric Railway company by which power will be supplied to their city on the border.
