A most beautiful wedding was celebrated at eight o'clock on the evening of Tuesday, September the twenty-sixth, in First Presbyterian church, when Reverend H. T. Babcock read the impressive ring service which made Blanche Beulah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lincoln Brown, the bride of Ralph Richmond Matthews. The church gave evidence of exceptional artistic skill in decorating. Ferns and flowers were banked high above the organ, the pulpit and chancel were entirely concealed with roses and asparagus ferns, mingled with tall ferns. Pink shaded globes softened the lights, throughout the edifice. Before the chancel rail, which was twined with flowers and vines, the bridal party assembled. In splendid voice, followed by Miss Beatrice Station with piano accompaniment, Mrs. Carlton Smith sang Mary Helen Brown's "Love's Way." Mrs. Henry J. Bigger, Jr., of Portland, whose wedding march was played by Miss Brown one year ago, returned the compliment, presiding at the piano. To the soft strains of Loehgrin's-enclosed melody, Reverend Babcock followed by the groom and his best man, Mr. Otto Ragan, entered from the side and awaited the bridal procession which was announced by the coming of the ushers, Mr. Paul Wallace, Mr. Frank Myers, Mr. George Brown and Doctor Harry Olinger. Preceding the bride came her charming maids of honor, Miss Elsie Mae King and Miss Marie Hofer, in exquisite pink marquisette gowns, fashioned over mesaline rosin. Pink rosebuds outlining the low neck and continuing on bodice and short sleeves. Most becoming, dainty hoods were worn, of pink tulle and lace and rosebuds. Immense arm bouquets were carried of pink roses combined with asparagus fern and held with wide gauze ribbons of the same color. The bride entered alone, beautiful in her handsome robe of cream pino silk, en train, over mesaline and daintily trimmed with lace and pearl beads. The yoke and sleeves composed of tiny of very narrow valenciennes, slightly fluted, the skirt showing the same trimming of lace and insertion with tiny tucks. A flowing white veil entirely enveloped the bride and was arranged in hood like effect with pearl bead ornament. Her flowers were of bride roses and asparagus fern, with shower of buds on white gauze ribbon. The bride's father gave her into the groom's keeping and after the ceremony and blessing, Mendelsohn's wedding march was played by Mrs. Bigger as the newly wedded couple, followed by their attendants, passed from view. Invitations for the ceremony were extended to relatives and a few near friends. A delight to every one was the presence of the groom's sister, who has but recently recovered from a serious illness. Following the wedding, a small reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Brown, where guests were received by the wedding party, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Matthews. The living rooms bore white and green decorations. Mrs. Andrews Hofer and Mrs. William R. King assisted. In the dining room were pink roses and smilax. Centering the table which was dainty with pink, ribbons and rosebuds, was a silver candelabrum with lighted tapers; and among the flowers in the room were candies in tall silver sticks. Mrs. Frank Myers cut the fee cream and Mrs. George Goodall poured. When the bride portioned her cake, the ring was an over Sunday guest of Reverend and Mrs. R. N. Avison. Mrs. Barr G. Lee has been the guest this week of Mrs. J. P. Eckler, in Portland. Mr. William Klitz, of Vancouver, British Columbia, has been visiting in Salem. After the morning service on Sunday, September the twenty-fourth, in the Unitarian church at San Francisco, and surrounded by a few close friends, Myrtle Edwina Montgomery was united in marriage to Edgar J. Sherman. The bride was charming in a gown of pink broadcloth trimmed with velvet of the same shade. She wore a black picture hat with facing and plume of pink and carried pink roses, Miss Florence Blanchard was the bride's maid. The maid and groom's attendants were friends in San Francisco where Miss Montgomery resided at one time. Acquaintances which were then formed, placed huge jars of pink roses about the pulpit and scatter the flowers beneath. After the ceremony, the young couple was showered with roses, and as they left the church, grains of rice fell upon them. A dinner was served at the hotel, to which the minister and his wife, the attendants and witnesses were invited. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman will reside in Coalinga, California, where Mr. Sherman is engaged in business. For the pleasure of her guest Miss Gertrude Stamp, of Greattinger, Iowa; Miss Mabel Grinnels was hostess with a charming dish supper last Monday evening, asking Miss Ida Marshall, Miss Ethel Jones, Mrs. Clara Neugebauer, Miss Mabel Wilson, Miss Elsie Cotterman and Miss Grace Blalock. Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Yantis (Miss Mildred Perkins) who were married four weeks ago today, last yesterday morning, having visited for a few days in Salem. Mr. Yantis is in business at Wallawa, Union county, in Eastern Oregon. Mr. George A. Dearborn, of Minneapolis, was a Salem visitor this week. Mr. Dearborn is traveling through the west coast states with the view of locating in the city most pleasing to him. Misses Aetna and Esther Emmel, of Sherwood, Oregon, are attending Willamette University and will be with their sister, Mrs. F. H. Thompson, during the winter. Mrs. M. L. Meyers and Mrs. W. A. Denton left Salem last Wednesday for a visit in Portland and The Dalles. Mr. Ralph Serven, of Washington District of Columbia, who has been in the west coast states on important business, spent Saturday and Sunday in Salem with his cousin, Mr. Frank Newberry. Celebrating her daughter, Emma's eighteenth birthday, Mrs. Effie Wright gave a family dinner last Wednesday evening. Roses were used in the dining room and on the table covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Byars, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Glover, Miss Emma Wright, Miss Vera Wright, Nesbitt Byars, of Goldendale, Washington; Mr. Joseph Wright, Elma Wright and Mrs. Effie Wright. A few young friends came.

In the evening, surprising Miss Emma. Games were played and light refreshments served. Among the birthday gifts was a lovely gold watch. Miss Cronise has issued cards for her opening dance at the Armory, October the sixth. The dancing classes will meet every Friday evening from seven to nine, and social dancing on those evenings, will be given from nine to twelve. Children's classes on Saturday afternoon from two-thirty to five. Private instruction daily. The dancing parties given last winter by Miss Cronise were delightful affairs and were looked forward to with the greatest pleasure by the young and very young set. Miss Cronise is genial and courteous and her gatherings are surrounded by an atmosphere of refinement. In response to a general invitation announced by Reverend R. N. Avison the dance program, last Saturday afternoon about one hundred fifty strangers and friends in Salem called at the Old Peoples' Home and were received by Mrs. F. A. Southwick, Mrs. E. J. Swafford, Mrs. C. C. Kuneay and Mrs. Fannie Penn, officers of the board of control. The rooms were beautifully decorated with purple and white panels and dahlias. Assisting in entertaining and serving the punch and wafers, were Misses Fay Bean, Ruth Spoor, Francis Penn, Carrie Cooksey, Edith Sherwood and Pearl Eyre, who are members of Queen Esther circle. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Moore spent the week end with friends in Portland. Mrs. Herren left on Tuesday morning for Vale, Oregon, where she will visit her daughter, Mrs. Oaks, for several weeks. After a pleasant stay in Salem, Mrs. Frank Dunn returned to her home in Eugene last week accompanied by Mrs. George Myer, who remained for a few days. The annual gathering of the Young Men's Christian Association, of Willamette University, for an introduction party, will be held this evening in the gymnasium when all sorts of "high jinks" will be the entertainment. The affair closing with old style refreshments. Mrs. Louise Short was hostess for the Needlecraft club last Wednesday afternoon. Roses and asters in addition to her splendid collection of blooming plants made the rooms very attractive. About fourteen of the members were present. Lovely refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Heyser's residence. Mrs. Lillian Josse Harris attended the wedding of Miss Myrtle Long and Doctor Schaefer last Wednesday evening in Portland, and was a guest at the reception given in the home of the bride's parents on East Ankeny street. Mr. W. Melvine Plimpton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Plimpton, of Portland, motored to Salem on Thursday, expecting to return today accompanied by their children and grandchildren. In their pretty new bungalow, Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Spaulding entertained informally last Tuesday evening with a dinner for Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kennedy. At a daintily arranged table, places were marked for Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Henry Mills, Miss Edyth Haney, Mr. Oscar W. Holcomb and Mr. and Mrs. Spaulding. Card games and candy making rounded out the evening. Among many who enjoyed, last week, the genial hospitality of Reverend and Mrs. Edwin Sherwood, were Reverend J. N. Green, of Gardner, Oregon, who is the friend of a member of Mrs. Sherwood's family in Omaha, Nebraska; Reverend J. H. Westervelt, of Cedarville, California, who lived in a town adjoining theirs in Ohio; Reverend Tarinogean, a classmate of Doctor Sherwood's in Drew Seminary at Madison, New Jersey; Reverend A. R. MacLean and his daughter. Mr. MacLean is a friend of Mrs. Sherwood's brother in Phoenix, Arizona. Telephoning invitations to a few friends for five hundred, Miss Della Hagen entertained at the home of Mrs. O. P. Hoff on Chemeketa street, last Tuesday evening, complimenting Miss Iverson and Miss Wright, who have been house guests. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence True Wilson, of Portland, were guests during conference week, of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Spencer. This week Mrs. Spencer is enjoying a visit from Mrs. T. H. Harthof, of Portland. Mrs. Halle Parrish Hinges has been honored with an invitation to sing at the dedication of the new pavilion and auditorium in The Dalles, on the third of October. As soloist, her voice will be the first to fill the auditorium with music. The Wasco and Hood river fair will occupy four days of the first week in October and Mrs. Hinges has been engaged by the management to sing in the auditorium at each evening's entertainment. During her stay in Salem, Miss Elizabeth Isabelle Winlock, one of the prominent character delineators in "Jumping Jupiter", was entertained by Mrs. F. A. Jones, of 449 North High street. Miss Winlock's mother, Mrs. Martha Moreland, was a schoolmate of Mrs. Jones in Monroe, Wisconsin, where the family is still living. The late Jacob Wenger attended the same school. Mrs. Jones' friends who were asked to meet Miss Winlock were delighted with her charming personality. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Powersox returned home last Wednesday, having enjoyed a most delightful three months' vacation. Two months were passed in the mountains of southern Oregon and the remaining time, at Newport. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Sauter and their daughter, Miss Bernice, who have been in Newport for some weeks, returned to Salem last Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thielsen motored to Portland last week Friday and were week end guests of the W. T. Pangles and the Calvin Heigligns. A box party was tendered them for the enjoyment of "Jumping Jupiter." Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Akin accompanied by Miss Florence Akin, returned last Sunday from a four months' trip in Europe and were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Spencer. Mrs. Hughes, of Portland, is visiting this week with her daughter, Mrs. A. N. Bush. On Thursday afternoon there was a gathering in First Methodist church parlors of the cradle roll and beginners in the Sunday school. These children, accompanied by their mothers, made a guest list of about one hundred. The occasion was for the purpose of introducing Mrs. F. H. Thompson, who has recently been elected to have charge of the cradle roll which numbers one hundred and twenty-five and includes children from one to four years of age. Miss Anna Nowlen is superintendent of the beginners, who prepared the program for the afternoon's entertainment and presented their numbers very prettily. Reverend R. N. Avison gave an interesting talk on subjects pertaining to the work. Mrs. Homan addressed the Mother's class and Mrs. Thompson acknowledged her introduction with remarks concerning the work for the coming year. Six young women of the Sunday school served refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Graber returned home last week Friday from a visit with Doctor and Mrs. Ringo in Pendleton, during the round-up exhibition. Mrs. O. P. Hoff accompanied her guests to Portland last Thursday, Miss Iverson, of Tacoma, leaving on the following day for her home, and Miss Ione Wright, Mrs. Hoff's cousin from Cheney, Washington, will remain in Portland for a week or two, visiting Mrs. H. E. Hoff. At Portsmouth, Ohio, situated one hundred and twelve miles above Cincinnati, the Second Presbyterian church, a fine new edifice, will be dedicated during the ceremonies, which are to extend from November the twenty-sixth to October the third. Reverend H. A. Ketchum, of Salem, was the first pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Portsmouth and remained with them for ten years. Having received an urgent invitation, he is expecting to be present for the dedication celebrations. Owing to ill health, Miss Ketchum will not be able to accompany her husband. Mr. Andrew Young, Mrs. Elizabeth Spaulding's brother-in-law, whom she has not seen for sixteen years, arrived in Salem on Thursday and will remain for a short visit. Mrs. William R. King, of Portland, came to Salem this week for the Matthews-Brown nuptials. On Tuesday, September the twenty-sixth, the marriage of Reverend

Albert F. Cramer, of Portland and Miss Lena Schindler, of Salem, was solemnized at high noon in the German Methodist church, the ceremony performed by Bishop Charles W. Smith. The church decorations were very beautiful. Asparagus and white asters were used in profusion. A cousin of the bride, Miss Frieda Muellhaupt, of Portland, played Enochmann's wedding march as the ushers, Mr. Carl Osterman, Mr. Henry Osterman and Mr. Alfred Osterman entered. Following were three tiny maids, Hulda Maag, Louise Cramer and Constance Yantis, in white frocks, scattering pink and white sweet peas before the bride, who was charming in a gown of shimmering ivory white satin, embroidered and garnished with Princess lace. Her veil of tulle was caught with orange blossoms. Miss Frieda Schindler, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore blue crepe de chine. Her flowers were pink carnations. After the ceremony, there was a wedding dinner at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Anna Schindler, in Fairmount. The dining room was graced with tall pink lilies and the same flowers were used as centerpieces on the table at which places had been marked for seventeen guests, the bridal party, relatives and a few intimate friends. Mrs. Cramer has many friends in Salem, which has been her home since childhood. She is especially well known in Willamette University circles, where she was very active in Young Women's Christian Association work, and graduated with the class of nineteen hundred and seven. Reverend Cramer was pastor of the German Methodist church in Salem for two years, and president of the Ministerial Union. He was recently transferred to the First German Methodist church, of Portland. After a short outing, which will include the Columbia river trip, Reverend and Mrs. Cramer will be at home to their friends about the middle of October, at 509 Hoyt street. Of interest to many friends in Salem will be the announcement of the marriage of Miss Fanny Sweester and Kenneth McKenzie Clark Neill, of Scotland, which took place at three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, in All Saints' Episcopal church, Reverend Roy Edgar Remington officiating. "The bride who came in on the arm of her father, Mr. Phillip Metschan, wore a chic suit of cream broadcloth with lace waist and black picture hat bearing white plumes. She wore the groom's gift, a diamond lavaler, and carried a bridal bouquet of mauve orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Lillian Metschan attended her sister as bridesmaid. She was gowned in white lingerie and wore a black picture hat, adorned with white plumes. Her flowers were bridesmaid roses. Norman Clark Neill was his brother's best man. A large number of friends were present at the church. Following the service, a wedding supper was served at the Imperial, with places marked for thirty-six relatives and intimate friends of the bride. Orchids centered the bride's table, and favors of the same exquisite flowers marked the places. Orchids and pink baby roses were used on the other table. Mr. and Mrs. Neill left on the Shasta limited for some weeks of travel in California, where they will eventually make their future home." Mrs. Emma Smith and Mrs. Ethel Folger were hostesses for about thirty members of the Woman's Relief Corps last Thursday afternoon at Mrs. Smith's home on North Sixteenth street. This affair was a social gathering. An elaborate lunch was served. (Continued on Page 4.)
