SEE WINDOW DISPLAY.

THE GREATEST COLLECTION OF Antique Oriental Rugs ever shown in the West is now on display at this store.

George S. Koshaba of Oromia, Persia, with a large collection of Antique and Oriental Rugs and Wall Pieces will be at this store for a few days only.

You will have the opportunity of seeing and examining rugs, some of them three and four centuries old. Rugs with designs and figures that speak of ancient history. Mr. Koshaba will explain the meaning of these designs and how the rugs were made. Those who desire to purchase Persian Rugs will have the opportunity of a lifetime, not only to purchase, but to learn all about them. Every person is invited to come and see this display. Whether thinking of buying or not it will be a pleasure for Mr. Koshaba to show his goods. If you are at all interested in beautiful rugs don't miss this grand display.

Joseph A. Walsh, who died at his home here last night, was born 27 years ago on the 13th day of last April near Nebraska City, Nebraska, and came to Portland with his parents when but a boy.

There he entered the messenger service of the Western Union, and from it climbed to a telegrapher's desk. He continued to climb until he stood at the head of his profession, and then he entered the service of the Associated Press as telegraph operator, and afterwards entered the service of the United Press in the same capacity. After residing in Portland for 20 years he came to this city and accepted a position as telegraph operator for the United Press in the Journal office. While here he met and married Miss Laetia Goode, daughter of J. F. Goode, and who was then a bookkeeper in the Journal office. As a result of the union there was born to them, about a year ago, a daughter.

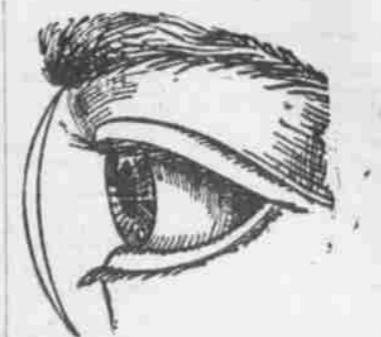

Since coming to Salem about three years ago he was a continuous resident of the city, save for a few months which were spent in Fresno, California, in the service of the United Press. He returned to this city a year ago last February, and since then, until a few weeks ago, when he became ill, served as telegraph operator in the office of The Journal.

He leaves to survive him, besides the wife and daughter, a mother, Mrs. Margaret Walsh, residing at 475 South Commercial street; a sister, Mrs. C. A. Western, of Los Angeles, California, and a half-sister, Miss Margaret Larray, of this city. Mrs. Peters was advised of his illness some time ago, and immediately came to this city so as to be near him.

The cause of death was an abscess on the brain. The funeral will be held tomorrow forenoon at 10 o'clock from the chapel of the Lehman & Clough Undertaking company, on 1st. Burial will be made in City View cemetery.

There is a Latin proverb which says: "Say nothing but good of the dead." Sitting as the writer has for a couple of years, by the side of Joe Walsh, working with him, knowing him, understanding him, he can unreservedly say that nothing could be said of him, either living or dead, but good. He was not strong physically, and no doubt for some time, at least during the last months of his employment on The Journal, suffered severely, but no one ever heard him make a word of complaint. He was a man, keen and quick of perception, broad in his views, firm in his friendships, faithful in his trust, energetic in his work. Upright, honest, capable and genial, he welded firmly the links of friendship with all his associates and the news of his death came as a shock to each and all of The Journal employees, who felt as if one of their own family had passed away. To the telegraph editor, who was in close touch with him eight hours a day, his death is indeed distressing. No one, except his own family, knew and understood him as did he. And by his Joe's quaint humor, his quick perception and sharp comments on "news" will long be remembered, as well as his sterling worth and genial companionship.

Eye Exhaustion

To have your eyes restored from a weak and impoverished condition of eye strain to perfect and preserved eyesight, must be experienced to be believed.

But the methods employed in doing this must be perfect in every detail, and in the hands of an experienced expert.

Let me give you the value of my 30 years' experience in fitting of glasses for eyestrain in all its forms.

You are invited to come where absolute accuracy in correcting eye defects is placed above every other consideration. No extra charges for examination.

My prices are lower than elsewhere for the service and material you get of me, and I can refer you to over three hundred prominent citizens of Salem, that I have fitted since coming here.

The entire problem lies in these words—Rightly Fitted, Fitted by the Right Man.

All broken lenses replaced while you wait. Office hours, 9:00 a. m. to 12 m.; 1 to 5:30 p. m. Evenings by appointment.

A Flirting Manual.

1. Don't be shocked if you find yourself flirting. It is a perfectly natural impulse.
2. If you want to learn a man, flirt with him.
3. If the defective woman who tries to break hearts.
4. Flirtation is one of the best mental exercises.
5. You must flirt with a man to understand him, and you must understand him to do him justice.
6. Flirting creates an insight into human nature.
7. Capable flirtation calls for mental exertion.
8. Women take delight in conquest—so do men—this is a deep-seated instinct in all animated beings.
9. Some women wouldn't flirt if there were no third person to look on.
10. A man who flirts to arouse jealousy is giving way to the primitive instincts of combat.
11. There is as much difference in flirting as there is in table d'hotes.
12. Flirting to one girl is mental exercise, to another it is cunning torture.
13. The man who flirts from a mercenary motive is a rare bird.

THE FLIRTING PRINCESS IS COMING NEXT

The announcement that the greatest success of the past season in Chicago, Harry Bulger, in "The Flirting Princess," which comes to the Grand opera house, October 14, under the direction of Mort H. Singer, will be welcome news. This musical farce is by Adams, Hough and Howard, the authors of "The Heartbreakers," "The Prince of Tonight," "Miss Nobody From Starland," and others. Mr. Singer is presenting here for the first time the "Oogie Dance" and the "Gloomy Glooms" dance, and also the "Egyptian Turkey Trot." These three dances have been the success of the season in dance creations, and are presented exactly as seen in Chicago during the long run of "The Flirting Princess." Mr. Singer has sent along an excellent company in support of Mr. Bulger, including the famous Princess chorus and the "irresistible beauties."

When you have a bad cold you want the best medicine obtainable so as to cure it as quickly as possible. Here is a drug that will do it: "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for 15 years," says Enos Lollar, of Saratoga, Ind., "and consider it the best on the market." For sale by all dealers.
