

SOCIETY

President's day of the Salem Woman's Club was celebrated last Saturday, October the fourteenth, with a twelve o'clock breakfast at Hotel Marion. More than one hundred members and invited guests were seated at tables graced with garlands of flowers and trailing ferns, vases of roses and mounds of fruit. Eight courses were faultlessly made and perfectly served.

About fifteen choice selections, including bits from grand opera, were most beautifully given by Miss Mary Schultz, with violin accompaniment by Miss Eleanor Colony. The sextette from Lucia di Lammermoor brought a burst of spontaneous applause and a persistent call for encore, which was responded to by a repetition of the same bewitching strains.

The president, Mrs. William Fleming, announced as toasts: "The Time is here," Mrs. W. E. Kirk; "The Pure Food Crank," Mrs. A. D. Palmer; "Oregonitis," Mrs. P. H. Raymond; "Our Children," Mrs. George Burnett; "The New Woman and the Old Woman," Mrs. Edwin Sherwood; "Humbugs," Mrs. R. K. Page; "On the Hilltop," Mrs. Jerome Boyer; "What the Men Think of Us," Miss Mattie Beatty; the guests listening with pleasure and profit to each well delivered address. Two new departments of study will be added to the club work. A class in modern drama, with Mrs. W. E. Kirk as leader, and study of music under the able direction of Mrs. William Burghardt, Jr. Composing the committee in charge of this most delightful meeting, were Mrs. J. H. Albert, Mrs. W. E. Kirk and Miss Mattie Beatty.

Miss Margaret Boot was hostess last Monday for an afternoon of informal visiting with young women in the Kensington Club, of which she is a member. This affair was her last meeting with her club associates before the wedding.

The simple floral decorations were confined to big yellow marigolds and ferns in the rooms and lavender asters on the living porch, where refreshments were served. Miss McBride presiding, Miss Lively, the chocolate urn and Mrs. Lively's pouring tea. Miss Boot's guests asked for the afternoon were Mrs. A. N. Bush, Miss McBride, of Seattle; Mrs. Chauncey Bishop, Mrs. T. A. Livesley, Mrs. John Roberts, Mrs. T. C. Smith, Mrs. B. O. Schucking, Mrs. Frederick Thielsen, Mrs. Clifford Brown, Mrs. William Burghardt, Jr., Mrs. R. M. Hofer, Mrs. Donald Stevenson, Mrs. Edward Thielsen, Mrs. Harry E. Clay, Mrs. W. J. Ball, Mrs. Robert Benham, Miss Ellen Thielsen and Miss Aline Thompson.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Babcock on South Commercial street was the scene of a pretty wedding last week Thursday evening when, surrounded by her mother, sister, brother and schoolmates, Virginia Moss, became the bride of Mr. Harold Taylor, Reverend Philip E. Bauer reading the ring service. About the rooms were ferns and blooming plants. The bride was unattended and wore a pretty gown of brown, hand embroidered. In place of flowers, she carried a small bible.

The young couple left on the evening Electric for Portland to remain a short time before going to Hillsboro, where Mr. Taylor is in business. Their new home will be completed by the first of November. Gifts to the bride attested her popularity among friends in her set.

Mrs. Taylor has been a ward of Mr. Babcock's for six years and will cherish the memory of the care he so kindly bestowed upon her.

To attend the national meeting of Woman's Home Missionary Societies at Wichita, Kansas, Mrs. Fletcher Homan left Salem on Monday. After the business portion of her trip, she will visit a brother in Kansas City and returning by California, will remain for a short time in Los Angeles.

The Misses Beulah and Eva Maples entertained informally last Wednesday evening in their home at 290 South Fourteenth street.

Mr. Asahel Bush, Jr., gave a dinner last Tuesday evening in Hotel Marion grill, complimenting the groom's man and the ushers, who were asked for his marriage ceremony. Places for the guests were marked by gold stickpins and the table was centered with an immense bunch of white chrysanthemums. On this occasion Mr. Frederic Thielsen made the after dinner speech in most happy manner.

The following program of Chamber music was presented at Chemawa last Saturday evening in most excellent manner:

Faschingsschwank.....Schumann
Mordant Goodnough.

Sonata, Op. 2, No. 3.....Beethoven
Mordant Goodnough.
Melodie.....Ole Bull
String Quartet.....Bach

Mordant Goodnough.

Personnel—Mordant Goodnough, visiting artist; Ruthy Torney, violin; Miss Rena Mann, violin; Pickering Chalcraft, viola; Chas. E. Larsen, cello; Miss Fannie Adams, contrabass.

A large audience enjoyed the evening; about fifteen went over from Salem. Out of town guests were invited to the Chalcraft home, after the concert for a social hour, which was made most enjoyable. Choice selections were given by Mr. Goodnough, Mrs. Frank Frickey, Miss Clark delighting with her whistling.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Rose and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wilson have issued invitations for a dancing party to be given at Hotel Marion on Tuesday evening, October the thirty-first.

Mrs. W. P. Lord, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Elizabeth, returned to Salem last Thursday, having visited in Portland. Published last week in the Oregon Journal, from Mrs. Lord's pen, was a most interesting article upon the possibility of tax raising in this state.

With the charm of simplicity, a wedding was solemnized in First Methodist church, on Wednesday, October the eighteenth, when holy vows of marriage and their binding with the golden circle, made Margaret Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Boot, the bride of Mr. Asahel Bush, Jr.

With rare taste, softly tinted vine-male, pale yellow chrysanthemums and stately palms combined, screened altar and organ loft.

Previous to the strains of the wedding march, Professor Roberts played selections: "March from Suite" for organ, by James H. Rogers; "Bridal Nuptial" by Fyrisinger, blending into Lohengrin's march at the pealing of the noon hour bell. From a side entrance, Reverend R. N. Avilon, accompanied by the groom and his attendant, Mr. Frederick Behrend, of Portland, an Amherst man and fraternity brother, stepped to the chancel rail and met the ushers, Mr. Chauncey Bishop, Mr. Frederic Thielsen, Mr. Clifford Brown and Mr. Robert Benham preceding the unattended bride, entering with her father, who gave his daughter into the groom's keeping.

The bride wore an exquisite suit of cream white wool in basket weave with satin garnitures of the same color, and a close modish hat fashioned of cream white satin, white wool lace and swansdown with sparing touches in the new red. Her corsage bouquet was of lilies of the valley and Richmond rosebuds. As a delicate compliment, Mrs. Bush sent her bridal flowers to Miss Ellen Thielsen.

The large edifice was filled with guests bidden to the marriage. From Portland came many relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Asahel Bush, Jr.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Bush motored to their home at Oak and Liberty streets, leaving Salem later in the afternoon for a brief trip which will include Moscow, Idaho, Spokane and Seattle. There was no reception given after the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Melvyn Pilmpton were guests in Salem for a few days this week.

After a week's visiting in Portland, which included the first night performance of Gertrude Hoffman's dancing, Mrs. F. P. Talkington and Miss Talkington returned home last Saturday.

Mrs. C. D. Gabrielson arrived home last Tuesday, which was her birthday, and in celebration of the anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Bishop entertained a family dinner party.

Mr. Carl Gabrielson accompanied his mother from Des Moines, having returned to that city after his visit in Chicago.

Mrs. H. W. Thielsen, with her daughter Miss Ellen, went to Portland last Wednesday afternoon, expecting to return to Salem on Sunday.

Mrs. C. M. Walker and her daughter Miss Madeline went to Portland last Wednesday for a few days.

Complimenting Miss Helen Wood, whose family recently removed from West Union, Iowa, to make their home in Salem, Mrs. Elizabeth Case asked a few young girls for a very informal week-end after for refreshments. Miss Margaret Rodgers, Miss Barbara Steiner, Miss Florence Hofer, Miss Helen Decenbach and Miss Marion Gould were entertained for Miss Helen's pleasure.

After the marriage ceremony in First Methodist church last Wednesday noon, the ushers with their wives and a few friends repaired to Hotel Marion for luncheon in the grill. The long table was beautifully laid and graced with big white chrysanthemums and smilax. At places around the table were Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Thielsen, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Benham, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, Miss Ellen Thielsen and Mr. Frederick Behrend.

The Oregon Journal says the fact that the National Humane society convention will come to Portland in nineteen thirteen, is largely due to the efforts of Mrs. Frank W. Swanton, the Portland girls attending the University of California and Portland roses.

Mrs. Swanton invited a number of the young girls over to the St. Francis, in San Francisco, to attend the convention. They planned Portland roses on all the delegates, also a badge saying, "Portland Wants You in 1913," so the sentiment was won in favor of Portland and the convention is assured.

Mrs. Phoebe Hearst entertained Mrs. Swanton and a number of other delegates for a day at her country home. Mrs. Swanton passed last Sunday with Joaquin Miller and his family on the Heights. Mr. Hillier is much improved. Mrs. Swanton is now the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Waterhouse of Berkeley. Mr. and Mrs. Waterhouse, Miss Dorothy Waterhouse, Mrs. Swanton, Miss Edith Clewin and Miss Margery Cogswell, both Portland students at the University of California, made up a party that enjoyed a delightful motor party through the Santa Clara valley.

Miss Marie Lodge returned last Sunday from a visit in Victoria, British Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Richmond Matthews went to Portland last Tuesday for a week's visit, returning to Salem before the trip to California is made.

Mrs. A. Mitchell is the guest of her daughter at the Frederick Bynon home on Capitol street, and will make a fortnight's visit before joining Mr. Mitchell in Spokane, where they will be domiciled for the winter. Later a pleasure trip is to be taken when they will go to Chicago and returning by Canada will stop off in province of Calgary and also visit a daughter whose home is in Vancouver, British Columbia.

At Stayton, Oregon, on October the twenty-sixth, will occur the marriage of Miss Hallie Rae Stuckey, daughter of Mr. Samuel Clay Stuckey, to Mr. Louis Lester Thomas. The ceremony to take place at twelve o'clock, in the Methodist Episcopal church. Miss Stuckey is a musician of ability. Studying in Willamette College of Music, she became a successful instructor.

Mr. Thomas is a merchant in Stayton, and it is in that city they will make a home.

On the evening of last week Friday, Eaton Hall was the scene of a large reception given by the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations of Willamette University, in honor of the new students. There were no formal introductions; each guest wore a tag bearing name, residence and the department of study. There was an address of welcome by Mr. Oakes, president of the Willamette University Young Men's Christian Association, Mrs. Mendell gave a pleasure with two solos, a reading by Professor Biddell, instructor of English and oratory, a song by the college quartet, Mr. Oakes, Mr. Anderson, Mr. Booth and Mr. McIntyre, which, on account of persistent calls for encore, grew into four songs. After the program couples formed a line of march to the room where refreshments were served. The hall was brilliant with profuse decorating in autumn leaves.

The "Reds" of Woman's Relief Corps gave a Southern social last week Friday evening in the apartments of Mrs. Louisa Forstner on North Commercial street. Southern dialect and bandana turbans were in evidence, and the rooms were filled with blossoming potted plants. Mrs. Roland Glover gave readings and Miss Blanch Liston piano solos. Admission was charged for entrance to the curio shop, and among many strange and wonderful sights were a basketful of baby kittens and a basket of chickens clucking to her brood of chicks. Refreshments were served at prettily decorated tables. Entertaining on this occasion were Mesdames Forstner, Clark, Hunter and Ross. The contest for funds closes today. Each department has vied with the others to secure the largest amount before this date.

Mrs. Addie McKeon of Los Angeles, who has been a guest of the M. E. Pomeroy for the summer, was complimented with a party last Friday evening by her cousin, Doctor Pomeroy, in her home on Liberty street. Ferns and growing plants with vases of cut flowers were the motifs for decorating. The guests enjoyed five hundred. A book was given Miss Ruth Stanley for high score and a framed picture, really beautiful, was the low score prize, and fell to Mr. Joseph Rhinehart.

Five tables were played. Mrs. Frederick Bynon assisted the hostess.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ayer with her daughter Miss Kathryn and her mother, Mrs. W. A. Hoyt, are moving from Fayette, Iowa, to Salem. A bunjalow has been secured at 150 North Eighteenth street. Mrs. Ayer formerly lived in West Union, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spaulding of Salem were the guests of honor at a large and attractive reception given in Newberg last week Saturday evening, by Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Spaulding. About one hundred and fifty called at the Spaulding home which was beautifully decorated with the brilliantly red salvia and white blossoming clematis. In hall, living room, library and dining room, the same scheme was used. Mrs. Roy Mills assisted and during the evening Mrs. C. B. Wilson and Mr. Clarence Klenke gave selections in duet, with piano and violin. Miss Francis Elliott, state forester's niece, sang for the pleasure of the guests. Miss Hammer and Miss Rees presided over the punch bowl and a number of maidens from the younger set assisted in the dining room.

The beautiful new Sunnyside Methodist church was the scene of a pretty wedding last Wednesday evening, when Marie Hutchins and Reverend L. Kirk Richardson were joined in holy wedlock. Miss Eleanor Colony sang before the ceremony, "O Promise Me," and Miss Elma Weller played Lohengrin's bridal procession. Miss Colony joining with song. During the service continued. The six ushers entered from one aisle as the bridesmaids in white, carrying bouquets of white chrysanthemums and bound together with broad white ribbon, entered from the opposite aisle. The bride's sister was her maid of honor, robed in white and carrying pink carnations. The bridal gown was fashioned of cream crepe de chine—the bouquet of bride roses with shower of buds. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of her parents. Among the maids in her bridal train were Misses Myrtle Duncan, Olive Metcalf, Genevieve Potter and Essie Smith. A number of friends from Salem were guests for the ceremony and reception, at which the bride's maids assisted.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Denison of Nineteenth and Perry streets were guests of neighbors last Tuesday evening, while preparing for a surprise party went merrily on. Returning hastily in response to a summons, they found about forty friends awaiting them as a genuine surprise. Music and dancing formed most delightful entertainment. Assisting about the rooms and in serving lovely refreshments were Mrs. Welch, Mrs. Hixon and Mrs. Porter.

A recently organized needlework club, "The Fireside Embroiderers," carries on its membership roll the names of Mrs. Roy Rice, Mrs. C. E. Reinhart, Mrs. Paul Stege, Mrs. E. A. Erickson, Mrs. Earl Anderson, Mrs. William Welch, Mrs. Frederick Rice, Mrs. C. D. Babcock, Mrs. Robert Savage, Mrs. C. M. Inman and Mrs. E. Woods. The meetings will be held every other Thursday of the week.

The annual teachers institute of Marion county convened last Wednesday, with two hundred and eighty-five in attendance. The three days sessions, held in Salem High school building, were considered the most interesting and profitable of any previous meetings.

Six comets, most of them visible to the naked eye, are now interesting students of astronomy, and attracting attention of the ordinary observer. Four of them are new visitors, traveling on an orbit that brings them into vision only once in about a thousand years; most of us will be absent on their next round. It is a relief to learn that the appearance of any one comet has nothing to do with the others, nor have they any influence upon the weather.

Mrs. R. E. Fountain is slowly recovering health after the serious illness which brought her husband from Chicago to her bedside. Doctor Fountain returned this week to take up his duties in Cook County hospital.

At her home in Yaw Park Miss Kenilworth was hostess last Monday for the Muechacha club, with an evening of sewing and dainty refreshments at its close. The next meeting will be with Miss Litchfield.

There was a pretty wedding last Wednesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Eoff, when their sister Miss Grace Eoff became the bride of Mr. P. J. Hibler. Reverend P. S. Knight officiating. The living room decorations were of white clematis and red dahlias were used in the dining room, where refreshments were served. The bride's gown was of white serge and her hat of black, bearing plumes and a touch of blue. Only a few relatives and close friends witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Hibler left in the evening for Portland and will be at home upon their return, at apartments on High street, which have been made ready for them.

As hostess for the "Blues" of the Woman's Relief Corps, Mrs. Mary Hawley, Mr. Sarah Drauger, Mrs. Mary Briggs and Mrs. Hattie Cameron entertained most pleasantly on Thursday afternoon with a tea at Mrs. Cameron's home. Mrs. Elsie Simeral and Mrs. Rose Vorin arranged for music and readings. Francis Cameron gave a piano solo and Charlotte Whitler a reading and two songs. The rooms were bright with house plants and flags, and the affair was most successful socially and financially. Much excitement pervades the camps of the "Reds" and the "Blues" as to which department has collected the greater sum of money.

Anticipations for a successful Charity Ball were realized last evening, when a large company gathered at Hotel Marion in response to a call from the Ladies' Relief Society. The beautiful dining room was converted into a ballroom and the mirrored walls reflected the lovely gowns of the dancers. Under the balcony was arranged a punch bowl, presided over by Miss Charlotte Dick, with Miss Beatrice Walton assisting.

Palms and dahlias were used about the room and orchestra balcony.

Before the forming of grand march, Miss Mary Schultz and Miss Eleanor Colony entertained with violin and piano selections, which were beautifully given and called forth hearty response. Mrs. Carleton Smith sang

In splendid voice, her numbers receiving enthusiastic applause. Mc Elroy's orchestra furnished most excellent music for dancing.

At nine o'clock the ball was opened by Governor and Mrs. West leading off the grand march of about one hundred couples. Last night's brilliant affair has encouraged the members of the Ladies' Relief Society to make the Charity Ball an annual event.

To the committee, Mrs. B. O. Schucking, Mrs. T. A. Livesley, Mrs. T. C. Smith, Mrs. M. L. Meyers and Mrs. W. J. Ball great credit is due for the excellent manner in which the affair was arranged. Salem appreciates the good fortune of possessing a fine hotel and for its management of social affairs, too much praise cannot be given. In the ladies' grill refreshments were served during the evening.

Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Perkins came up from Portland to attend the Charity Ball, and were guests of the W. Melvyn Pilmpton.

A most pleasant meeting of the Centralia club was entertained yesterday by Mrs. Laurence Scellars in her home on South Liberty street. Needlework whiled away the afternoon, with dainty refreshments at its close. The guests enjoying Mrs. Scellars' hospitality were Mesdames C. J. Olmstead, H. St. Helena, W. E. Brooks, of Portland; Aena Pollock, Irene Burrell, Emma Somerville, George Skeels, Charles Parmenter, Frank Skinner, Iva Scheiburg and Samuel Garber.

Mrs. Lowell I. Will was hostess for the Naehen Verein club yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Clarence Albert (Miss Grace Byrd), of Portland, was honor guest.

The Adalantas met in their hall last Friday evening, opening a program with "Dear Old Willamette U." sung in chorus. The second number was Adalenta "Ginger Can" Volume Twenty-three, prepared and read by Miss Chapman, an extension.
