HUBBY WAS A DANDY ENTERTAINER ONLY REDEEMING TRAIT SAYS WIFE

SHE SAYS "HE IS EMOTIONAL AND ENJOYS SELF PITY AND HAS NO GOOD QUALITIES"

The Judge Rules Out All Testimony About the Dashing Admiral Phelps—The Woman Dissects Her Husband's Character Pitilessly and is Prompt and Apt in Her Replies to Attorney's Gruelling Cross-Questioning—Society is Still Deeply Interested in the Millionaire's Divorce.

Redwood City, Nov. 15.—Just what is the connection of a man named Phelps of the United States navy in the domestic infelicities of Millionaire J. J. Moore and his wife Lillian, probably will not be brought on during the trial now in progress here.

This was made almost certain today when by a ruling of Superior Judge Buck who, when Attorney McClanahan, for Moore, was cross-examining Mrs. Moore, ruled that questions as to the identity and connection of Phelps in the case were not competent in cross-examination. Throughout her grueling examination by Attorney McClanahan, Mrs. Moore steadfastly denied wrong doing and insisted that all the trouble in her married life came through the jealousy and brutality of her millionaire husband.

Attorney E. B. McClanahan, representing the husband, directly asked her if she had intended to convey to the court the impression that Moore had no other side, no good qualities, to his nature.

"No, he has not," Mrs. Moore declared. "That is precisely what I mean to convey."

"Did you not know," asked the attorney, "that your husband broke down and wept while making the deposition against you in the offices of his attorneys?"

"If he did it was simply because he is of an emotional nature. He takes keen enjoyment in self pity," she answered composedly.

"All of the questions were put with the intention of having Mrs. Moore concede some commendable points in her husband's character. Always she either directly denied their existence or gave some reason for their presence as pretense.

"Did you not entertain extensively?" asked the attorney in an effort to show that Moore wanted his wife to enjoy herself.

"No, I did not after my marriage. On the contrary I gave up society altogether, although I admit this was not without much effort on my part. I attended the theater but twice in a year. Dances I have never been to. Mr. Moore liked ranch life, and I, too, was expected to like it."

"Is it not true that your husband

HE "SWUNG AROUND THE CIRCLE"

A. G. MAGERS HOME FROM A 14,500-MILE TRIP THROUGH CANADA, THE MIDDLE WEST, NEW YORK, THE SOUTH, MEXICO AND THE COAST—WAS GONE 32 DAYS.

Nearly 50 years ago, President "Andy" Johnson, by his famous trip through the South, gave a place in the American language to that expression "swinging 'round the circle."—Teddy in later years did a much more spectacular vaudeville stunt of the same kind and only a few days ago President Taft completed a trip that for distance eclipsed them all, lifting his hat to the citizens along 14,000 miles of railroad, and, incidentally doing some feeding and speechmaking.

A Salem man, Mr. A. G. Magers, arrived home last night after a 32-day trip that rivals that of the White House man.

Leaving here he went to the village "down the creek," and, thence to Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver, where he struck the cushions of a Canadian Pullman, and proceeded to take in the scenery of that grand route. He stopped at Calgary, Winnipeg and Thier River Falls, then stopped again at America's great beer center, Milwaukee, and then "done" the greatest city, in many respects, in the world—Chicago. At Buffalo he glimpsed the big falls and other attractions for a day, and then put in nearly four days at the hub of the universe, New York. Here he made a boat trip around the island, saw the greatest gathering of battle-ships the world has ever known—and enough other things to keep a man busy the balance of his life trying to recall them. Then he went down to the town that is so highly touted it kicked against the president voting in it, Cincinnati, "crossed the Rhine," and moved on to Louisville. Then, in turn, he took in Memphis, Rome, Georgia, and thence to New Orleans. He was particularly impressed with the great Southern city, which is unique in many ways. In the first place it is 10 feet lower than the river, its sewer system is operated by pumps, its dead buried in raised mounds or tombs, built up some eight or 10 feet. In the "aristocratic" cemetery there is a building clause compelling the erection of a monument costing not less than $5000, and there are many costing $20,000 or even $25,000. He says it is, in many respects, the most wonderful and beautiful "city of the dead" in the world. The monuments are mostly of the famous Georgia marble. Here he visited the old slave markets where the thrifty New England ship owners landed their black cargoes from Africa, and sold them to the southerners, though afterwards they were unanimous in the opinion it was a crime to own them. The old slave dungeons, where the ancestors of the present "men and brothers" were put in cold storage for a better market, are still there, maintained by the city, as one of its sights and "attractions."

Leaving New Orleans, the big train is taken across the Mississippi on a ferry, and from there across Louisiana for 150 miles through the black level prairies, is one vast field of sugar cane. The land is so low and wet that wagons cannot be used on it, and lines of railroad track are laid through the fields. "Ab" says, when he saw the amount of sugar cane, and the labor it took to handle it, he was impressed with the idea that the American people would have to work hard to handle the whole product with their teaspoons.

To the cane succeeded cotton as the train carried them through Texas, miles and miles of it, with darkies big, little, old and young, male and female, making black spots through it like punctuation points on white paper, as they plucked it.

Then came the Arizona deserts, the most bleak and barren and desolate in the world—miles on miles of alkali plain—air filled with sand and dust, train running on funeral time, on account of it, hot, stifling, dirty, a small section of hell slipped in between the green fields of the prolific South and the paradise of the Pacific coast.

He stopped at the Rio Grande.

The Boys Are Branded.

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 15.—Lithe, well-knit chaps in peg-top trousers wandering about Sacramento today with a small "star" niched in the back of their heads behind the left ear are creating a mild sensation here. They are students of the Sacramento high school. The edict has gone forth from the chiefs of the secret societies that all members shall be so branded. The branding was brought about through the refusal of Principal Williams to allow students to wear pins or fraternity emblems.

BEATTIE'S LAST HOPE VANISHES

Governor Mann Refused to Grant a Respite, and Beattie Must Sit in the Electric Chair.

SMILED WHEN HE HEARD IT

His Minister Broke the News to Him and He Smiled—Sent Word to His Friends Not to Worry—He Has Shown Wonderful Nerve Through the Trial, and, His Friends Say, Will Die Smiling.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Richmond, Va., Nov. 15.—In refusing to grant a respite to Beattie today Governor Mann said:

"To grant a respite in so plain a case as this would be to set a precedent which would be to temporize with the law and to encourage appeals to the supreme court with the sole purpose of gaining time.

"I believe that the best way to prevent such crimes as this is to punish adequately, certainly and speedily. Therefore, the judgment of the circuit court of Chesterfield will be carried into effect without interference from me."

Rev. Benjamin Dennis, an Episcopal clergyman, broke the news of the governor's refusal to interfere with the execution of his sentence to Beattie.

This is the first time Governor Mann has refused to grant a respite of sentence since he has been the state's chief executive.

After hearing the news of the governor's decision that he must die, Beattie remained calm and urged his friends not to worry.

When he came with the news to the prisoner, Dr. Dennis found Beattie's sister Hazel in the condemned cell. After she left, Dennis told the news. Beattie only smiled. His friends expect him to enter the death chamber smiling.

The execution, under the Virginia law, must be held between 6 o'clock in the morning and 6 at night. The current probably will be turned on at sunrise.

It Was Unanimous.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Lakeview, Ore., Nov. 15.—After arranging with their friends on the election board to telephone in case anyone voted against the $20,000 bond issue needed to complete the new high school, the business men of Lakeview took no further interest in the election. They planned to vote only if their ballots were needed to carry the bonds, but as the 19 persons who did vote favored the issue, the business men were not disturbed.

Pumped Her Out.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Seattle, Nov. 15.—After a joy ride in a taxi last night, Miss Loretta Carey told her escort, Joseph Kretler, that she did not want to go home. He took her to the Planters' hotel and at 1:30 o'clock this morning she swallowed Paris green. Physicians arrived in time to save her life.

ANOTHER REVOLUTION IN MEXICO DESPERATE BAND TAKE TORREON

Uncle Sam May Do It.

Rome, Nov. 15.—Despite the denial of Secretary of State Knox, in Washington, that there are any negotiations pending for the intercession of the United States as a mediator in the Tripolitan situation, the Seculo, a newspaper of Milan, declares today that the United States, through President Taft, is favorably considering Italy's intimation that pacific mediation will be acceptable to the quiriina.

According to Seculo, the American government has officially notified Ambassador Thomas O'Brien that it is considering the matter and might act definitely soon.

RODGERS RECOVERS FROM HURT

WILL HAVE TO PRACTICALLY REBUILD HIS MACHINE BEFORE HE CAN COMPLETE HIS TRANSCONTINENTAL FLIGHT.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 15.—Mechanicians of the Rodgers camp must establish an aviation carpenter shop at Long Beach to repair the biplane that Rodgers shattered when he fell at Compton Sunday, or else send the entire craft to the Wright works at Dayton to be rebuilt before he can complete his transcontinental flight. The mechanicians will decide today whether it will be possible to repair the aeroplane at Long Beach.

Rodgers was much improved today. He slept late and after breakfast, which was followed with three cigars, he announced that he was going to get up and go for some exercise. He also suggested that he might take a three-days' trip to San Francisco, while his men were at work on his machine. His doctor arrived barely in time to prevent him leaving his bed.

DEFENDANT PROBABLY HAD NO MONEY

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 14.—In Justice William's court here today, the record for securing a jury in a murder trial was broken.

George W. Hanek is being tried for the murder of C. L. Wilbur, and a jury was secured in three minutes.

WOULD SELL HIS BODY TO PHYSICIANS

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—Facing starvation with his wife and baby, Dr. Herbert Glynn is seeking today to save his family by sacrificing himself to a living death. He has advertised his body for sale to vivisectionists.

Dr. Glynn states that suicide, in theory provides nothing for his family, and seems to him like a waste of good material. He argues that there must be some one, for scientific purposes, or otherwise, who is willing to pay a reasonable price to become absolute owner of the body of a man who is willing to die at any time by request. He is willing to submit to slow vivisection, he says.

Glynn is a graduate of some of the leading medical and surgical colleges of London, and is not yet 50 years old. His present capital is $5 cents.

DRIVE FEDERALISTS OUT THREATEN ALL FOREIGNERS 300 AMERICANS IN DANGER

The Bandits Capturing Torreon Are of the Worst and Lowest Type of Mexican Guerilla—Are Part of the Gang That Participated in the Massacre of Chinese at Torreon Last May—Washington Has Been Notified of the Situation and May Take Drastic Action.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 15.—Revolutionists of the most desperate type, including a number of the bandits who participated in the Chinese massacre in Torreon, in the state of Coahuila, near the border of Durango, on May 26, last, are in possession of Torreon today, according to code messages sent to bankers here by the American residents of Torreon.

The messages state that the guerilla revolutionists drove the Mexican federalists out of the city last night, and are now threatening all foreigners within its limits.

There are 300 Americans in Torreon, and the situation there is considered critical. Judging from the tenor of the messages, the army officers along the Rio Grande have been notified, and dispatches have also been sent to Washington telling of the situation.

HUMANE SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

The Salem Humane society met in special session at the Board of Trade rooms last evening and in addition to receiving the report of the president, elected the following list of officers:

President, D. D. Keeler; vice president, Mrs. Barr G. Lee; treasurer, Theodore Roth; secretary, Mrs. Louis A. Tillson. Board of trustees: Rev. Barr G. Lee, Clell Hayden, Henry W. Meyers, Theodore Roth, Mrs. S. C. Wall. Advisory board: Governor West, J. M. Powers, Ben W. Olcott, Geo. G. Bingham, Hal D. Patton, J. Baumgartner, Walter Smith, Dr. W. J. Patterson, Mrs. Elizabeth Case, Mrs. H. W. Meyers, Dr. Wm. Long.

Reports on the condition of horses and mules on the Oregon Electric grading work have been made each week through a special officer sent over the line between here and Albany. The society has prosecuted every case where sufficient testimony could be secured of the neglect or abuse of a dumb animal and has made a splendid record for the past year. The society is very much in need of a larger membership and of financial support to carry on its work.

Engineer Fired.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Tacoma, Nov. 15.—J. C. Manley, assistant city engineer, was today put in charge of the construction of the municipal Green River gravity water system, replacing J. R. Probie, who was fired yesterday.

Much dissatisfaction with Probie arose when the work, which is being done on the unit basis, began to run over the estimates. It is likely the $2,000,000 voted for the project will not be enough.

U. of O. All Ready.

Eugene, Or., Nov. 15.—The University of Oregon football squad turned out this afternoon for the last active practice, preparatory for the game with the University of Washington, at Portland Saturday. The contest probably will decide the Northwestern conference championship.

Although the game is only two days off, the Oregon lineup has not been announced, although it is believed it will remain as it was in the Whitman game.

HE DECLARES CHRIST WAS "INSURGENT"

GOVERNOR ALDRICH, OF NEBRASKA, CLASSES THE SAVIOR AS A "PROGRESSIVE," WHO DESTROYED ONLY THOSE THING THAT SHOULD HAVE BEEN DESTROYED.

Kansas City, Nov. 15.—Declaring that Christ was an insurgent, and drawing a graphic parallel between the life work of the Nazarene and the Progressives in modern politics, Governor Chester H. Aldrich, of Nebraska, today addressed the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress in reference to the plan of congress to limit the jurisdiction of the minor federal courts in order to prevent them from enjoining state officers
