

The Rayo Lamp

It Never Flickers

The long winter evenings give a woman a splendid chance for sewing or embroidery; but her eyes suffer from the strain unless she has a good light.

The Rayo is the best lamp made.

It gives a strong, diffused light that is remarkably easy to the eyes. There is no glare to it; no flicker. It lights up a whole room.

The Rayo is an economical lamp, too. You get the most possible light-value for the oil burned; and the Rayo itself is a low-priced lamp. Yet it is a handsome lamp—an ornament to any room in the house.

The Rayo Lamp is easily lighted without removing shade or chimney; easy to clean and rewick. Made of solid brass, nickel-plated; in numerous other styles and finishes.

Ask your dealer to show you his line of Rayo lamps; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of the

A PLAY THAT IS TYPICAL OF THE WEST

"THE VIRGINIAN" WITH GEORGE KELLY IN THE TITLE ROLE, AN INTENSELY INTERESTING PLAY AT THE GRAND MONDAY.

Monday, January 8, at the Grand Opera House we are to see the Kirke La Shelle dramatization of Owen Wister's novel, "The Virginian". For a play typical of the West, "The Virginian" has been adjudged one of the best that has been produced. From the first to the last scene, the play teems with that breezy ranch atmosphere that obtained in the Wyoming cattle country a quarter of a century ago, when ranch owners and cow punchers were the leading lights and cattle thieves the only criminals. It is small wonder that the play has not only been a monetary but an artistic success, for few dramas on the stage today more closely follow the original story and yet maintain the thread of the plot in such an absorbingly interesting manner. George Kelly, who plays the nameless cowboy is known to have won unstinted praise for his conception of Wister's hero. His interpretation of the character, we are told, is in strict accordance with the author's ideas. H. C. Russell will be seen as Trampas, Frank Conway will be seen as Steve.

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a reliable family medicine. Give it to your children, and take it yourself when you feel a cold coming on. character. The aim is to teach the pupil to think upon his feet, and to give logical expression to that thought. Each pupil is given the opportunity to speak on a variety of subjects before real and imaginary audiences on widely differing occasions. He is expected to speak with purpose, and accomplish a definite aim with his audience. Frequently the subject is assigned after the pupil has taken his place on the platform.

Those who have occasion to speak in public will find this course of great value.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Assembly 87 of the United Christians celebrated with a belated Christmas entertainment last evening in their hall. A big tree was hung with foolish presents adding merriment with the opening of each package. After the tree was stripped of presents, the company formed for a grand march around it when they were given bags of candy and fruit.

A large crowd enjoyed the evening. There was music and an elaborate supper. After the festivities, the officers who were elected a week ago, were installed.

... Mrs. James Kinder and Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Dinsmoor were year end guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Lock and attended the Illinois ball.

... Mrs. M. E. Rogers and Miss Mabel Page left Salem yesterday for Southern Oregon, where they will visit friends of Miss Page.

An altogether delightful affair was the surprise party given last evening in honor of Miss Bertha Clark's sixteenth birthday. Her home at 1121 Fir street was invaded by a merry crowd bent on celebrating the event. The evening passed with games and music and at its close luncheon was served. Before the company dispersed, a flash light picture was taken. Enjoying the affair were Misses Marion Gould, Ora Constable, Helen Deckebach, Katherine Powle, Barbara Steiner and Floyd Bates, Bert Ford, Harold Eakin, Hummer Eagan Allen Bynon, Don Byrd, Ross Miles.

UNCLE BILL IS WEARY OF PAYING

Uncle Bill Lansing has kicked the bucket on life insurance. He has paid out a pile of money and sees no signs of his ever getting it back, and has written the following letter to the managers back East:

Dear Sir and Brothers: When I joined the order as a charter member, in June, 1880, I paid one dollar assessment, and limited to eighteen dollars a year. We paid that to about the year nineteen hundred, and then all above fifty years old went to three dollars and eighty-five cents per assessment. Now I find myself in the sixty-eight class with an assessment of $18.62 staring me in the face. Now what will happen to me if there are a few more raises in the next few years, and I cannot pay them.

I have joined the fraternal order and have been paying dues for thirty-two years, and I want to know how far officialism is going to carry me.

I see a man at thirty-six paying for nineteen years, or a total of $627.20, would be getting higher insurance than in a regular company. I made my last payment the 28th of last month, and never intend to pay any more. Yours very truly,

WILLIAM LANSING.
