THE ROOSEVELT MOVEMENT.

Republicans, and even supporters of President Taft, cannot afford to underestimate the Roosevelt element of strength.

When Roosevelt became president, not since the days of Lincoln, has there been an aggressive, outspoken labor president.

Many common laborers were not getting over ninety cents a day for ten hours' work, and carried rather slim dinner pails.

Since Roosevelt's day wages for common labor have gone up to two dollars and two and a half a day.

We are speaking now of common labor—unorganized labor—the man at the bottom of the ladder of industry.

When it comes to being a progressive Roosevelt is the original and only progressive to be considered.

All the rest are imitators or minor performers, and why not take our progressiveism at the fountain head?

All over the nation there is a movement towards Roosevelt, and the movement is unsolicited by its recipient.

Would it not be a great step in advance if the people for once arose in their might and handed the presidency to a man who is not chasing it with literary bureaus and organizations?

In Oregon there is no concerted Roosevelt movement in any political sense.

There is a feeling that under the new Oregon system the people should be permitted to choose.

How can they express themselves if all the men who are in the presidential class are not on the ticket?

Fair play and good judgment in the interest of the Republican party demands that no one be debarred from expressing his choice.

So petitions have been gotten out, and they will be voluntarily signed, and Roosevelt supporters given place.

Some La Follette men and some Taft men are impatient to have Roosevelt sentiment suppressed in the interest of their candidates.

But that is not good political tactics, and it will be far better for all good-naturedly to allow each other some freedom.

The progressive town of Hood River bought out the private corporation operating the water plant there, and the fire and water committee there report after three months public ownership a net profit to the city of $1648.95, or at the rate of nearly ten thousand dollars a year, based on the estimated growth of the city. The people of Salem voted to buy the water plant and authorized a bond issue and created a water commission. But the water commission was never called together, and the bill, when it was passed by the council to purchase the plant, was vetoed by the mayor. In his veto message the mayor intimated that it might be desirable to acquire the water plant, but favored postponement. The best business men in the city all favored purchasing the plant at the reduced price, and the city would have had an income from it of at least thirty thousand dollars a year, without spending a dollar on a filter system. The city has lost its opportunity to purchase at the original price. The men who favored progress were right, and the city has lost its opportunity to get hold of a profitable public utility. The water corporation has become an interstate corporation that, when it is sued, will have to be sued in the federal courts. As the city lost its opportunity to get Fairmount Park, and to get the North Mill creek water power, so it lost the water plant.

TO WEAR GOWNS OR NOT TO WEAR TROUSERS.

This is a great issue in one of the colleges of Oregon—and a farmers' college at that.

A few years ago, in imitation of the universities, the farmers' college put their graduating class in gowns.

That is the male part wore gowns—we suppose they had on trousers under their dresses, skirts outside the pants.

Now a hot class fight has sprung up whether the Aggies for 1912 shall gown or not gown when they get their diplomas.

We are glad to see Col. McFadden, of Corvallis, fighting the male skirt-wearing business for the farmer graduates.

Better put them in overalls and blouse, with a few callouses on their hands than this lachrymal medieval gowning.

At Eugene the student body of the university is all torn up because a college paper has come out against full dress.

Some of the daughters of the millionaires and official plutocracy have taken to wearing ball dresses at "informals."

This puts the daughters of the ordinary grocer, country real estate man or county official up against it.

The girl who goes there with only one party dress can't wear it "informally," and have anything for special occasions.

It may take an action of the legislature to settle this great issue in higher educational circles and restore the "statu quo."

What have the young society ladies to show at the university if they can't show their fair shoulders and a yard or two of a train?

This whole matter indicates the absence of serious purpose in life and a tendency to imitate degenerate idlers on the part of some who are receiving a state-aided education.

The good work done by public-spirited Salemites to make it possible for the Illihee club to have its own home, and for the Elks to erect a fine building on their corner ought to be appreciated even by those who do not subscribe to the funds. The investment will be just as good as the investment in the Odd Fellows' block, the Masonic temple or the U. S. national bank building. Let Salem keep a stiff upper lip and forge ahead on conservative lines, and this will always be a good town to live in.

MURDERER OF WIFE GETS LIFE TERM

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Oregon, Ill., Jan. 22.—Dr. HARRY Webster, who murdered his second wife when threatened with arrest for bigamy was sentenced by Judge Farland to life imprisonment at Joliet prison. In view of the plea made by counsel for the defense the judge said he would not sentence the prisoner to death but would inflict "an even greater punishment," in pronouncing sentence, then the court recited the circumstances of the case and then denounced Webster and painted a gloomy word picture of the long years to be spent in prison.

ACCUSED OF TRYING TO BURN HOUSE

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 22.—Mrs. Samuel Rouda, wife of a prominent tailor here, is under arrest today, charged by Fire Marshal Towe with attempts to destroy the three-story flat in which she lives. Paper ice cream boxes, about 150 in number, filled with alcohol, and alcohol-saturated rags were found, according to Towe, distributed over the flat. The blaze had gained considerable headway when the firemen arrived. About half an hour after its discovery Mrs. Rouda and her two children returned home. She says her husband is in Philadelphia on business, and denies setting the building on fire.

SPOONING MADE EASY IN SAN JOSE

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] San Jose, Cal., Jan. 22.—"Pay as you spoon" benches at five cents per "spoon" are being tried out by the park commissioners here, or rather by "loveys" and "doveys," under supervision of the commissioners, today. A sample pair, installed in City Hall park, have made a great hit with the lovers. A nickle in a slot contrivance at the end of the bench releases a lock, the bench revolves into position, and—uh—um! It locks automatically when empty. The idea is to discourage loafers, rather than the encouragement of "spooners," it is said.

Hillsboro is to have a $10,000 cannery for fruits and vegetables.
