CITY NEWS.

Hodson Council Tonight— Regular meeting of Hodson Council, No. 1, R. & S. M., this evening. A full attendance is requested. By order of the Thrice Illustrious Master. Visiting companions welcome.

Pension Day— Today being pension day, the county clerk's office was busy as usual on such occasions in taking acknowledgment on pension vouchers for all those who came there to have their work attended to.

Will Harry March 10.— A marriage license was issued Saturday by the county clerk's office to William A. Baker, age 22 years, and Carrie A. Magness, age 24 years, both of Salem. The couple will be married at Wheatland, March 10th, 1912.

Call Up Phone Main 360.— And get our prices on cleaning and pressing. All work guaranteed. Ladies' work a specialty. Modern Electric Cleaning & Pressing Co. Gent's Club rates. 444 Court street.

Situation Wanted.— By lady holding embalmer's license, also experienced in bookkeeping, clerking, housekeeping, and embroidery. Situation in any of the above or other lines of work. Address, Mrs. Stella M. White, Personal, 293 North Cottage street.

Grand Jury Meets.— The grand jury met in the grand jury room of the court house today at 1 o'clock. There are seven cases to receive the attention of this body but it is not expected that much time will be consumed in disposing of them.

Admitted to Probate.— In probate court today Judge Bushey admitted the estate of Naomi Steen to probate, on petition of Faith Keeney, a grand-daughter of the deceased. Property to the amount of $2500 is involved in the proceedings. There are six children as heirs of the estate, as follows: J. E. Steen, of Murray, Idaho; Mrs. Jennie Florence, of Creston, Washington; Lodome Morgan-Kirby; Parry Steen; W. M. Steen; and Nancy Steen-Kennedy, the last four of whom are deceased, their heirs taking in place of them.

First Ball Game of Season.— The first ball game of the season was played by the Englewood Blue Sox, with North Salem boys at the latter's grounds, March 2. The score was 13 to 14 in favor of the Englewood boys. The umpire was Mr. Schaefer, a well known baseball player. He says it was the fastest game he has ever witnessed. The officers for the Englewood team this season are as follows: John Lynch, captain; Chester Starr, manager; Lester Swartz, secretary and treasurer. With the help of Prof. West, their coach, they will make one of the fastest minor teams of Salem.

Men Are Employed.— The Capital Journal is informed that the men being sent to this city by the Canadian Employment Bureau, of Portland, are being sent for only when there is an actual need for laborers. The Owl Construction company has several sewers to dig, and in one of these is running water from six inches to three feet deep. Salem men are employed on all the dry work, but when Salem men cannot be found to do this work, the company hits the long distance telephone and asks for men from Portland. The men who work in the ditches from 10 to 20 feet deep and in the water are furnished rubber boots and get three dollars a day. It is wet, nasty, cold work and the local men will not do the work. This is the contractors' statement of the matter and The Capital Journal is always willing to give both sides of a matter in which the public are interested.

NO CASCARET USER EVER HAS HEADACHE

A 10-cent box will keep your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh for months.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver, delayed fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissues, it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Salts, cathartic pills, oil and purgative waters force a passageway for a day or two—yes—but they don't take the poisons out and have no effect upon the liver or stomach. Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means inside cleanliness and a clear head for months. Ask any of the millions of Cascaret users if they ever have headache.

STATISTICAL. BORN. RUGGLES—At the family home, 1211 Highland avenue, Sunday, March 3, 1912, to Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ruggles, a daughter.

MARRIED. WANN-DAKE—At Turner, Oregon, on March 4, 1912, Mary J. Dake, of Turner, Oregon, to L. C. Wann, of Ontario, Oregon.

BORN. MORFORD—At the family home on N. Cottage street, Salem, March 2, 1912, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Morford, a son. Nine pounds.

DIED. JOHNSON—At Woodburn, Or., March 4, 1912, at 5 a. m., Frankie, daughter of S. P. agent S. T. Johnson. The funeral will be Wednesday, March 6, interment near her old home at Jefferson. She had just lately arrived from California, where she went, hoping to be benefited by the climate.

Frankie was a lovely character, and was respected and loved by a large circle of friends. She is survived and her death will be deeply mourned by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Johnson, and three brothers and one sister. The deceased was a niece of J. C., G. W., and H. A. Johnson and Mrs. J. W. Harritt, of Salem.

THE END OF A TRAGEDY.

The Blow That Hurt. Then one day she and the son, Russell, quarreled, and he left. Afterwards she quit her position at the cafeteria, intending to go to Colorado to her sister. Unable to raise the money; her oldest boy, upon whom she had depended for assistance, gone, and with nothing but work, poverty and dirt confronting her, she began to brood, and then the horror came, night fell upon noon, and stygian darkness enshrouded her future.

With hunger gnawing at the vitals of her children and indescribable sorrow and despair eating out her heart, she resolved to end it all by plunging her children, as well as herself, into the great unknown. Past fashionable residences, surrounded by comfort and cheer, men and women attired in the height of fashion, she wended her way to a drug store and secured the poison. Then, in the stillness of the night, she sat down in her little tent and penned her farewell to the world—a farewell that until hearing dies will ring in the ears of every person who read it, and, after administering the deadly poison to each of the children, she quaffed the cup herself.

She is in God's Hands Now. Maybe she did wrong, and maybe she did not—God alone knows. From the lips of some, as they gazed upon the withered hands, the wan, haggard countenance of the woman, the beautiful and innocent faces of the children, as they lay on their cold slabs in the morgue, words of condemnation were heard. In the pale and emaciated features of the mother they saw nothing but a woman who had sinned, but maybe the eyes of God, who alone knows the springs of the human heart so much better. than they, and whose judgment is just, it will not seem so important. He knows and He will consider the struggles and despair which had weighed down her heart until her season tottered on its throne, and His judgment be less harsh.

In Dreamless Sleep. But anyway they sleep tonight. Wrapped in the dreamless slumber of eternal peace, the mother sleeps beside her children in their graves in the little cemetery on the hill tonight, careless alike of storm or sun, praise or condemnation. Beyond the reach of man, and in the beneficent care of God who made them, and who alone can judge them.

Beneath the load of human sorrow other hearts in this world may break, but the hearts that have become as dust will never break again. From other eyes in this world the light of joy and happiness may fly and die; but the eyes that have been curtains by the everlasting dark will never know again the touch of tears.

From other lips in this world may come the agonizing cry for bread, and the cry, as he's, goes unheeded, but into eternal silence there will never come another word of pain or joy.

They will sleep tonight, their bodies in the beautiful cemetery, Salem's city of the dead, and the world can never again bring to the weary mother the agony and suffering she feared for her children, but with her little brood, no longer clad in the habiliments of poverty, but robed in draperies of spotless white, hand clasped in hand, together they will tread with joyous feet the flower-decked fields of Paradise.

You can say goodbye to constipation with a clear conscience if you use Chamberlain's Tablets. Many have been permanently cured by their use. For sale by all dealers.
