FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

Gale S. Hill, of Albany, is making a popular candidate for the office of district attorney.

He is running again t Walter C. Winslow, of Salem, and both are fine young men of more than average ability.

Both are naturally good prosecutors and have done their duty without fear or favor in the office of deputy prosecutor. The Capital Journal can support either of them heartily for the election in case either of them is nominated.

It is not understood that the present district attorney's office is taking any hand in the selection.

Mr. Winslow, as secretary of the Salem Business Men's League, has naturally a warm place in their hearts.

Many of the friends of these popular young men will not know which one to vote for but can make no mistake.

CUT THE TAX CREATORS.

If the people want lower taxes they must not vote for men who pile up taxes on them. If you are complaining bitterly at the way taxes have run up do not overlook that fact. Those who want high salaries and want to handle lots of public money are in that class.

Men who never open their voices for reduction of taxes cannot be trusted in official places to get lower taxes. This campaign has got to be made and The Capital Journal suggests to the people that they start right now. At the primary weed out the man who has helped pile up taxes and who is indifferent about your high taxes. Read over the campaign pamphlet and the sample ballot, if you can get one, and then do your duty at the primary. Then after the primary take time, and there will be plenty, to read over the ticket and the campaign promises.

There will be an opportunity to do some more sifting and then when the legislature meets we will take it up again.

Let that be the issue once, whether the officials are going to make their own terms, or whether the citizens can.

THE RESIGNATION OF PROF. POWERS.

City Superintendent Powers' resignation was not a surprise to those who knew the surrounding circumstances. He had fully determined upon such a course of action some

No city in the state has had a city superintendent who was more highly respected than Mr. Powers.

He had taken the Salem schools when they were in a state of discord and slowly built them up to efficiency.

When he took them there had been the same kind of a turmoil over student body activities and finances.

The Salem schools, under Mr. Powers, were stripped of the last vestige of personal and political manipulation.

Teachers were employed solely upon qualifications, and there was no flattery or catering for popularity.

It will be some time before this district secures the services of a city superintendent of better poise and better judgment. From a financial standpoint Mr. Powers is the gainer, as he can easily command a much better salary than he had contracted to serve for at Salem.

EXAMPLE OF PATRIOTISM IN CHINA.

People are accustomed to strangs happenings in China, but few could have expected that the man who opposed the revolution and who declared himself as opposed to the republican form of government in China, should have not only satisfied the revolutionary leaders of his patriotism, but should have inspired such confidence in them as to secure his unanimous election to the highest office of the state, the presidency of the republic of Nay, more, who would have expected that in China an example of self-abnegation and self-sacrifice unparalleled in the history of the world would have been set by the leader of the revolution, which lifts that struggle on to the highest plane?

Yet that is the spectacle which China presents to the world. Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the first president of the republic, in accordance with his promise, resigned as soon as the abdication of the throne was announced.

He and his ministers tendered their resignation to the national assembly, which met at Nanking, and the assembly, while reluctantly accepting Dr. Sun's resignation, unanimously elected Yuan Shi Kai, who had at the time the abdication was announced declared himself in favor of a republican form of government.

This augurs well for the future of China, The change of presidents has been accomplished peacefully, and there has been no quarrel between the two parties in the state, who have been contending against each other for the past five or six months.

The self-sacrifice of Sun Yat Sen must command universal admiration.

For years he has worked indefatigably for this change of government, worked, it is true, from a distance of thousands of miles, and when he landed in China recently he was at once acknowledged as the leader of the great rebellion and unanimous-of the republican provinces as the president of the provisional government And now that victory has been won, largely by his organizing ability and wise diplomacy, he is found ready in the interests of peace and an early restoration of order and good government to stand aside and recommend for the highest office in the state the very statesman who has hitherto figured as the chief adversary of the republican cause, simply because Sun Yat Sen recognizes that there is no statesman in China more capable of undertaking the great task which now lies before the government of reuniting the nation and preparing the way for the introduction of those great administrative reforms which it has been the object of the revolution to secure. The chairman of the national assembly described Dr. Sun's action as an example of self-sacrifice and purity of purpose unparalleled in the history of the world, a tribute which will receive universal endorsement. It was largely due to his modesty and magnanimity that the north was won over to the republican cause, and it says a good deal for his genius that he has been able to reconcile his friends and co-workers to his relinquishment of the presidency in favor of Yuan Shi Kai,
