

COLORADO CERTAINLY GOES SOME

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
Sacramento, Cal., April 23.—Copies of each of the initiative petitions now being circulated in Colorado under the new direct legislation law passed in that state last winter were received here today. Among these measures for which the people of Colorado are working are:

A constitutional amendment establishing the recall of all elective officials; a recall of decisions of courts declaring laws unconstitutional; the allowing of trial by jury and before another judge to anyone charged by a judge with contempt of court not committed in his immediate presence; a "mothers' compensation bill," promoted by Judge Ben B. Lindsay, of Denver, providing pay for needy mothers to stay at home and take care of their children, rather than having the state pay for the children's care in a state institution and a bill establishing state coal mines, whose product is to be sold direct to consumers as nearly as possible at cost.

Another amendment sought is to create a public utilities court, similar to the California state railroad commission. Still another would utilize all school houses after school hours as forums for the people for discussion of public questions.

DOBBS TO SHOW HIS WONDERFUL PICTURES HERE

Straight from the heart of Alaska, where he has been for 10 years, comes Beverly B. Dobbs, the Alaskan photographer, with a remarkable collection of arctic films. For two hours Mr. Dobbs leads his audience over snow and ice; sometimes by land, sometimes by sea, portraying in a most intimate manner all of the strange nooks and crannies in the land up there. One moment the spectator is enjoying the more or less sedate business of watching a gold clean-up, the next he is leaning forward as the little schooner crushes her way through the polar ice in the wake of an immense polar bear. Later he is traveling over the 500-mile mail route in the land of the great white silence, behind Eric Johnson's famous mail dog team. The next he is traveling the mighty Yukon and watching the midnight sun at Circle City, and the next, ascending in a bucket line up the mountains at an elevation of 3500 feet in a ride of three and a half miles to the great Bonanza mine, the richest copper mine in the world.

Dobbs and his camera will be at the Grand Opera House Friday and Saturday, April 26 and 27, with Saturday matinee.

The Economical Cooking Fat

There is both economy and solid satisfaction in cooking with Cottolene. Not only is it more economical than either butter or lard—one-third less being required—but it can be used in fine cakes and pastry with every bit as good results as butter, and for frying it excels lard or other cooking fats. Unlike lard, Cottolene makes food wholesome, nourishing, digestible. It is made from Cottonseed Oil, the use of which Dr. Wiley so strongly has commended. Cottolene shortens your food—lengthens your life, and saves you money at the same time.

COMPLAIN OF THE FOOD AND STRIKE

The track laying crew of the Oregon Electric went on a strike yesterday on account of the cooking and serving of the food furnished by the boarding camp. There were about 200 men affected, and with 150 laid off by the contracting firm of Guthrie, McDougall & Co., the city is pretty well filled up with idle men. They are mostly Greeks, Italians and Austrians, but there are few Americans among them. They are all pretty well supplied with money, and seem to be pretty peaceable and quiet for men of that class. There was no dispute about wages, but there was a strong protest on account of the food. The men claim they cannot work on the food supplied, which is spoiled in cooking and arrangements will be made at once for a new gang of cooks, and then the men will return to their work. Some of them have already returned, but there are not enough to start work. The strike occurred about six or seven miles up the river near Hall's ferry where the end of the track is now. From present indications, the officials of the road say, that within a day or two a full crew will be at work, after which time work will be rushed along at the rate of two miles of track a day. It is claimed that a Portland firm has the contract for supplying all laborers at so much per man, and that this firm is not dissatisfied with the men quit, as it gets its $3 for each man sent up in the place of the quitters. It is intimated that this had something to do with the trouble.

WILLAMETTE WILL HAVE A STRONG TEAM

From the results of the tryout for the Varsity track team yesterday afternoon it looks as though Willamette will have some track team this year. Notwithstanding the fact that the season is early yet and that some of the men have only been out once or twice before the tryout, some fine records were made and to those who are interested in this end of the university's athletics, things look bright for a winning team. The tryout uncovered some fast men, especially in the sprints, McInturf, who won the quarter and the hundred, is a new man and looks like a point winner. Doane at the first night out took the pole vault at nine feet five and should raise that a great deal before the end of the season. The following are the results: 220, Lowe first; mile, Burdette first, Marsh second, Stearns third; time, five minutes, seven seconds. High Jump: Mills, 5 feet. Shot: Francis, first; Blackwell, second. Fifty-yard dash: Stimson, first; McInturf, second; Blackwell, third. One hundred yard dash: McInturf, first; time, 10-2-5; broad jump, Blackwell first, Doane second; discus, Pfaff; quarter-mile, McInturf first, Joseph second; pole vault, Doane, 9 feet, 5 inches; low hurdles, Mills first, Francis second. The 80-yard run and the high hurdles were postponed.

PLANT 100 ACRES TO LOGANBERRIES

Speaking of the loganberry business, people will be interested to know of the largest acreage yet planted by any one grower. Reference is made to the farm of L. H. Roberts and his associates, who have bought a large farm on the Garden Road four miles east of the city. They have already planted 100 acres of logans, 120 acres of potatoes, 40 acres of cherries and 35 acres of prunes. This has been done quietly, but it is well done, on the best of soil and will produce a big crop of money producing stuff. Potatoes have also been planted between the fruit rows, which materially increases the earning capacity of the project. They have secured a fine quality of loganberry plants, which will no doubt produce over half a crop next year. This will make work for scores of laborers and fruit pickers in season, and promises to be a money maker for the owners as well.

who seemed about five miles away. This was at daybreak, and all cries had stopped long before."

The officer stated that he saw no bodies floating in the water. At 1:30 o'clock, he said, he saw a white light on the horizon, but was unable to tell whether it was from a lifeboat or a steamer.

Pittman then went into details of the scene, which Boxhall, fourth officer of the Titanic, had described. He said that he saw distress rockets sent up from the Titanic, but saw no Morse signals. As the Titanic sank he looked at his watch and noted that it was 2:20 a. m., according to the ship's time. He had not heard that the Frankfort was near the scene.

How Ship Went Down.

The officer admitted that if every lifeboat had been crowded they would have accommodated only 1200 persons. He asserted that he transferred two men, a woman and a baby from his boat to lifeboat No. 7, at their request.

Asked to describe the Titanic's foundering, he said: "The Titanic was submerged to the forecastle, and afterwards turned over and went down perpendicularly. I heard four reports like big guns in the distance. This was probably caused by the bulkheads bursting. I do not think the boilers exploded."

"I saw people on the after deck when the boat sank. Every one whom I saw on the ship wore a lifebelt except a few members of the crew. I did not see Captain Smith when the Titanic sank."

Cries Were Pitiful. Asked if he heard cries of distress, he replied sadly:

"Oh, yes. I heard crying, sobbing and moaning and praying, too. But there was no noises until the ship sank."

Pittman started his testimony in a laconic and brusque manner. Comments on his stolidness were audible in every part of the room. Then the committee began questioning him on the scenes on the Titanic when it was found that there was no hope of saving the vessel. Pittman's demeanor underwent a complete change, and in a choking voice he begged the committee not to press him regarding the death cries of the trapped victims.

A Chorus of Woe. "The prayers and moans of the passengers arose in a mighty chorus of woe when they learned that hope had vanished," Pittman said. "It was a continual moan for an hour, and it died away gradually. I wish you had not referred to this."

Women spectators wept, and the senators composing the committee chafed their eyes as Pittman described the scenes at the sinking of the "unsinkable Titanic."

J. Brice Ismay, Pittman said, was standing near a lifeboat, and he heard him ask about a boat loaded with women. Captain Smith, Pittman said, followed out Ismay's suggestions in issuing orders.

Pittman declared his boat saved 40 passengers, in addition to six members of the Titanic's crew. He heard four explosions, he said, and then the Titanic pitched perpendicularly into the depths.
