WHY? R?

Because he means something to the wage-earners. He does not need money for his political activity. He does not need a job when he gets through at the White House. He does not need any more honors, having had them all. In the eyes of the world he is the greatest American of his generation. He has never mixed up with the Lorimers, et al. All the rest of the candidates, Republican and Democratic, are chasing the job. Roosevelt makes his own fight straight out for what he wants. He calls a spade and a liar a liar. The Capital Journal predicts Roosevelt's nomination and election by overwhelming majorities. The result will be the greatest victory for progressive politics, for governmental righteousness and democratic institutions ever won.

SIX GOOD ROADS BILLS.

The new good roads committee is asking for six new road bills. The principal bills are for a million state bonds and another for county bonds. Six bills are too many for the people to consider or digest, and the outlook for these bills is not flattering. But the agitation will be beneficial, and there will be some education of the people to some end or other. The good roads agitators are slow to learn that some things can not be done here in Oregon, even for good roads. The Capital Journal does not pretend to know it all about good roads, but it knows a few things. It has been at the state capital for nearly a quarter of a century, and has seen many things tried. For fifteen years gentlemen have come up to Salem with their pockets full of good roads legislation. The Tuttle road law was a sample of many other—futile and fallacious, and doomed to failure. There has been unwillingness to do the simpler things, and to do things that are inexpensive. The over-enthusiastic agitator talks of millions of bonds and big salaries and state-built roads. But he has not yet learned to put up a proposition that he can get enacted into a law. Next he has not learned to draft law that will result in any roads being built. But the continuous agitation will bear some kind of fruit in the long run. In the meantime Mason and Spence are initiating two grange road bills.

THE OREGON DELEGATION.

It is taken for granted that the ten votes of Oregon will be cast for Roosevelt. When Roosevelt is the nominee the organization should be in the hands of his friends. If Taft is nominated, Taft men should run the campaign. The national committeemen from Oregon must be in perfect accord with the nominee. The machine could not be trusted to enthuse over a progressive candidate. A reactionary nominee for president would not want a progressive chairman. There are politicians who will take political instructions in opposition to their principles. There are men so hungry for honors they will take them on any terms. That day should some time belong to the past, and principle should count.

SENATOR BOURNE IS THE AUTHOR

HAS A PLAN FOR PARCELS POST THAT SEEMS TO BE FAIR TO ALL AND GIVES AMPLE PROTECTION TO LOCAL MERCHANTS.

Washington, May 6. — Senator Bourne's parcel post bill, introduced a few days ago, is designed to give the people of the United States as low a merchandise rate as the actual cost of the service will permit and to base the charge upon the service rendered. His bill includes what is called a "zone" system; with rates varying according to distance. This plan gives the advantage to the local merchant, and yet provides much lower rates for long hauls than the rates now in force.

For example—the present rate on merchandise is one cent an ounce, or 16 cents a pound, regardless of distance. This is an absolutely unscientific rate. It now costs a resident of a rural route 16 cents a pound to have merchandise mailed to him from his local market, and the limit is four pounds, which would cost 64 cents. Under the Bourne bill the rural route rate is five cents for the first pound and once cent for each additional pound, or 15 cents for 11 pounds, this weight being the limit.

But the Bourne bill will not be as favorable to mail order houses as local merchants have feared. The proposed rate for a distance such as that from Chicago or Kansas City to Oregon is 12 cents for the first pound and 10 cents for each additional pound or $1.12 for 11 pounds. The present charge for 11 pounds made up in four-pound packages would be $1.76, so that there is a reduction of 64 cents and yet the local merchant has a rate of 15 cents as compared with $1.12 charged on the package from Chicago. This difference of 97 cents because of the greater distance, is believed to be ample protection to the local merchant and fully justified by the cost to the government.

Senator Bourne has always asserted that retail merchants are not injured by mail shipments, but freight shipments and that mail rates can never compete with freight rates. The freight charge on merchandise from Chicago to Oregon is $3 or less per hundred, or 3 cents a pound. The parcel post rate is over 11 cents a pound for the same distance. Hence it is claimed by Senator Bourne that the great bulk of goods ordered by mail will always be shipped by freight and that the amount of goods shipped by mail long distances will not materially injure local merchants.

His bill, however, gives low rates for short distances. Thus, for the first zone, with a radius of about 50 miles, the rates is 6 cents for the first pound and 2 cents for each additional pound or 26 cents for 11 pounds, or about 2 cents a pound.

Statistics show that more than half the package business comes within a distance of 200 miles, for which distance the Bourne bill provides a charge of 7 cents for the first pound and three cents for each additional pound or 37 cents for an 11-pound parcel.

These short distance rates are much lower than express rates now in force.

Many people ask why 11 pounds is fixed upon as the limit and the explanation is that the international parcel post limit is five kilograms, or approximately 11 pounds.

"Marion Harland," Mrs. Janet M. Hill, and Mrs. Sarah Tyson Hays are among the cooking authorities whose names are familiar to almost every housewife. Each has her own distinctive methods of work, but it is interesting to note that on the all-important question of a cooking fat, they are unanimous in recommending Cotolene.

"Marion Harland" says of Cotolene: "It has given complete satisfaction." Mrs. Hill says: "Very satisfactory; glad to recommend it." Mrs. Hays says: "A much more healthful product than lard."

With such authority behind it, every housekeeper will be safe in giving Cotolene a trial. It is purer and more wholesome than lard—and it is more economical, too, one-third less being required.

Pleased a Child.

Ed. Journal: In the summer of 1899 as Col. Roosevelt was returning from the Rough Riders' re-union in Oklahoma, via Santa Fe, accompanied by Black, of that road, he, as vice president was wont to exude great drops of perspiration, and little extemporaneous political speeches from the rear platform at each station. The stop at Harper, Kansas, was marked by a little incident that clearly portrays the real character of a truly great man. Upon arrival, the car was at once surrounded by a throng of voters, on the outskirts of which could be seen a little six-year-old girl with a huge sunflower, the face of which quite out-sized her own. In vain she repeatedly endeavored to reach the big man enveloped in a broad grin, dark trousers and a bold pink and white striped shirt, who by this time had turned on full political speed. Seeing the efforts of the child, he stopped abruptly. "Stand aside, gentlemen, and make way for that little girl with the big sunflower," at which the master ceremonies kindly offered to relieve her, and reach it to the coming president. "No, no," said Roosevelt, "stand aside and allow the little girl to present it herself"—which she did, with a face all aglow at her success. And the effort was rewarded by that "delighted," followed by a sort of benediction on little Cecil Stewart, who now lies out in the cemetery. However, she lived to see the recipient of her huge state flower president of this great nation, and derived much childish pleasure in telling of her acquaintance with the illustrious Roosevelt.

The I. W. W.

How many of you good people, who are so vociferous against the I. W. W. really know anything about them? Honest Injun, now—do you? Or are you giving voice to what some one for instance a kept press, has told you?

I used to think they were dreadful beings, running about with their pockets full of deadly weapons, their mouths full of bad language, and their hearts full of murder, but since I have given them a chance to prove themselves I must say in justice to them, that no meetings I have ever attended were more orderly or courteous, or showed a truer spirit of democracy than theirs.

Some of the commonest charges against them are drunkenness, rioting and violence, yet in their meetings, held from time to time at Ryan's Hall, there has been an organized band of workers, to prevent members from entering saloons.

They have disclaimed all violence and misconduct, and steadily strive to impress upon each other the idea of peaceful solidarity.

Honest now—did you ever hear of a more peaceable strike? "By their fruits ye shall know them." What have they done to bring all this unjust censure upon their heads? What is that little thing the good book says about judging people? Have we forgotten it? Are you fair minded or not? What do you really know about the I. W. W.? "Pess up, now, please—before you open your mouth again to condemn him, unheard—go down and get acquainted with him. He's folks, just like you and me, no better no worse, and with all his trials, very human."

When this strike was declared, they all pooled their money, grimly resolved to win.

ved to feast together or to fast together, as the case may prove; Bulgarian, American, Swede, Norwegian, German, Irishman and all, in one common struggle for existence and recognizing their common need.

These lonely, vagabond men—victims of a system that has made them what they are, wanderers upon the face of the earth, the surplus product of human life and human energy, standing together in their common grievance against society; social outcasts, as it were, ostracized, condemned without a hearing, shunned as a pestilence, preyed upon by exploiting pawnbrokers of labor, made in every way to feel their wretched condition of life—and for what?

Because machines have supplanted men in the great labor marts of the world, and these represent the surplus quantity of labor offered for sale. O, what a crime to be without a job!!!

Banded together for common defense and welfare these so called "undesirable citizens" ask only the simple right to live as other people live. What will this city of churches do to the I. W. W.?

He asked nothing but a "square deal." Down and out, cold, hungry, ill clad and unkempt as he must be, let us see what we shall see.

Few Women Know the Dangers of Constipation

That Constipation, Neglected, Opens the Gateway to ALL HUMAN ILLS—Yet Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea Quickly Relieves Constipation.

Stop up, for an extended period, one of the natural outlets—sewers—of the body, and the consequences are always serious—often dangerous. Waste matter retained in the bowels, produces poisons and disease germs which contaminate and pollute the entire system—in time spreading weakness and disease to every organ.

A chronic constive condition produces impure blood, dizziness, headaches, backache, nervous malades, piles, inflammation and ulceration of the bowels—even the dreaded appendicitis. Surely no sufferer from constipation can afford to delay a single hour in correcting such a dangerous condition.

But neither can one afford to take any drastic purgative or cathartic. Anything which acts violently upon the bowels must do more harm than good—because it weakens the bowel muscles, in time absolutely incapacitating them. One dose may force a passage, but next day, or the day following, you are again constipated—and you must gradually increase the dose to secure the desired results.

Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea

acts mildly—without gripping—upon the bowels. It soothes and strengthens the delicate mucous lining of the bowels—it doesn't scour and weaken. No minerals; no poisonous drugs! Nature's own remedy—composed of the medicinal herbs, roots, leaves and seeds that in bygone generations were gathered by our grandmothers to provide the family medicine—now grown, gathered and assembled in scientific proportions—proven correct by thirty years experience.

This good old-time remedy is even more than a purely vegetable bowel tonic. It is a natural liver regulator and acts beneficially upon weakened or congested kidneys. It makes you well and keeps you well—cleanses the blood and tones up the whole system.

Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea—The Tea in tablet form—are put up in a convenient package for busy people and travelers. Worth their weight in gold if you are slow and bilious.
