"HOUN' DAWGS" AND POLITICS.

If delegates would only drift into Speaker Champ Clark's camp with the regularity that "houn' dawgs" appear, the Missourian would have the nomination sewed up by this time, and be planning his stumping trips.

About every admirer of the speaker, it would seem, has felt it incumbent upon him to spend a plaster cast of a tearful canine that looks as though it had been kicked around since Grover Cleveland left the White House in 1897.

Every day a fresh consignment of "houn' dawgs" appears little dogs, big dogs, dogs in plaster, in water colors, in pen and ink, etc.

A San Francisco woman donated a beautiful piece of statuary, showing a farmer carrying a dog under his arm, and seemingly looking well pleased with conditions in general.

Another admirer contributed a bloodhound, done in water colors, while a Missourian, whose name the speaker withholds, has volunteered to present him with the finest flesh and blood hound that ever barked up a coon tree in Missouri.

The offer will probably be accepted as soon as congress adjourns, and the speaker gets back to his home in Bowling Green, where the dog can be cared for under Champ's personal supervision.

A part of the speaker's private office has been set aside as a "menagerie."

There the weird assortment of "dawgs" is stationed and carefully guarded.

Clark was asked how he expected to move his treasures back to Bowling Green, and he suggested that a freight car might be necessary.

But if the flood of "dawgs" continues until congress adjourns, it is likely that a whole train will have to be pressed into service.

DEPARTMENT MADE LAWS.

Over a decade ago, under the mistaken belief that the transportation of newspapers and periodicals through the mails caused great loss to the government, officials of the postoffice department started a campaign for a restricted circulation of the public press, and for this purpose demanded of congress an increase of the postage rate, adopted a code of laws extraneous to the laws passed by congress, and enforced them with the help of a small army of inspectors and a secret star-chamber court.

In the course of six years of phenomenal revolutionary ferment and its aftermath from December 7, 1905, to October 14, 1911, the Russian authorities confiscated issues of newspapers and periodicals in 1055 cases.

In 283 of these cases the issues confiscated were destroyed, and in 12 cases certain pages of articles were removed by order of the court.

These figures refer only to confiscations which were subsequently approved by the courts.

In the United States of America, during the same period, 1905 to 1911, inclusive, 5236 publications were either denied access to, or rejected from the mails, resulting in a permanent suspension of issues, in many cases with little less disastrous results to the owners than would have been the confiscation of types, presses and other printing and publishing equipments.

In Russia the confiscation of 1055 publications applied only to certain specific issues or parts of issues, not to the publications themselves, in every case authority for the procedure being justified by regularly constituted courts.

In the United States the confiscation covered the whole establishment, to the ability and right to publish further issues, without appeal to the courts, and based, not upon any well defined or well understood laws of congress, but upon certain multitudinous, obscure, arbitrary rules and regulations varying according to the notions of the official who happened to occupy the seat of power, and changing from year to year.

DR. WILEY A POLITICAL STORM CENTER.

The friends of Dr. Wiley, and he has thousands of them in the West, are rejoicing over the report of the Indiana master of chancery on the benzoate of soda case.

Particularly in the discomfiture of Solicitor McCabe and the thwarting of his plans in behalf of food druggers.

Secretary of Wilson comes in for the same wide-spread criticism as does McCabe.

The secretary has thrown his entire influence against the state in the controversy.

Not only did he and his side, Solicitor McCabe, provide witnesses to testify in favor of the use of benzoate of soda in preparing food products—he positively ordered Dr. Wiley not to testify against its use.

Finally the district courts of the United States took a hand, and ordered Wiley to give his testimony.

The result is shown in the following extract from the report in the case.

"Where factory waste, refuse, cores, skins and peelings of rotten and decomposed tomatoes are used in the preparation of tomato catsup, not being run through sieve, they produce a thin, watery catsup.

"And such catsup cannot be prepared so that it will keep after opening without the use of benzoate of soda, benzoic acid or similar preservatives.

"In the sense and to the degree stated in the foregoing findings benzoate of soda, when used in food preparations of inferior quality is approximately sufficient in concealing the inferiority of such food products."

There is a strong consensus of opinion that this action in Indiana is going to be far-reaching in its effects.

It is bound to be.

It shows the people are waking up to the dangers of food adulterations as they never have before.

Other states will undoubtedly follow the example of Indiana, and oust the purveyors of rotten fruits and vegetables sold under a deceiving label.

The matter is rapidly assuming a political aspect in many quarters.

In fact, so strong has the sentiment become, fanned as it has been by the Indiana chancery findings, that it is seriously affecting President Taft's standing.

He is figured as the friend of Secretary Wilson, and Wilson is known as the friend and supporter of McCabe, the open opponent of Dr. Wiley and what Wiley stood for.

And the end is not yet.

As a Spring Medicine Hood's is King

"For all the troubles I have had Hood's Sarsaparilla surely is the king. I have taken it at different times in the past three years when I have suffered from catarrh and stomach troubles, and have always found it a grand medicine. My stomach is very much better than it was, and as a spring medicine, too, I know that no one can do any better than to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. My husband and I have reason to recommend it cordially." Mrs. R. E. Plummer, 387 Union Ave., Laconia, N. H.

FIRST OCEAN GOING BOAT BUILT HERE

COMMODORE ROGERS SENDS HIS FLAGSHIP TO PORTLAND FOR FINISHING TOUCHES - PLANS MANY PLEASURE TRIPS ALONG COAST.

The ocean going cruiser which Commodore Jack Rogers has been building has at last left its dock in Salem and gone to Portland to have the final touches put on it before taking its dip in the ocean. The boat was taken down the river last Sunday, averaging about 12 miles an hour on the way, the engine never missing a stroke the whole distance. Everybody on board was highly pleased with its behavior.

The boat is equipped with every modern convenience and has sleeping accommodations for eight or 10 people. In brief the boat measures about 65 feet over all, has two 40-horse power engines, twin screws, electric lighting system, bath room, kitchen, and everything for the comfort of the passengers. Mr. Rogers expects to take her to Southern California and to Alaska, later making a trip through the Panama Canal. The cost of the boat is about $15,000.
