Far Western Reflections on Some Recent Publications
(Written by the Idler Who Sits in the Shade of the Green Cucumber Tree)

The apotheosis of the lady past due, the no-longer young, last entered upon her thirtieth year, her life, her spoiling time, with a young man—in this book "Through the Pastern Gate," with a mere boy—that is the theme of some modern novelists. Florence L. Barclay has done it several times—not so bad in the Rosary, where the woman is well advanced in years. But why not allow the femininity of maturity to have its fling at love-making? It is a little rank to take a mere boy and enthrall him with a woman almost old enough to be his mother. What is still worse taste—giving it a religious gloss at the end of each chapter by quoting Scripture—that is the limit. She gets the boy at the end of the story. But is it not tiresome to realize what shifts are resorted to for selling novels? The use of religion to cover a multitude of sins and get the dollars, when one is really doing for a good fair and square love story, with no apologies or subtleties. The publishers are Geo. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. The book is beautiful in print, binding, and pictures and will be enjoyed by that uncritical multitude called the public.

"Elsie Lindtner," sequel and companion to "The Dangerous Age," by Kern Michaelis, the last named, but who has added "Strangeland" to her literary title—this is another humor document, the warp and woof of which must have been lived. The two books are companion pieces. They are the first parts of one book. In this second volume there are fragments of dreams, the green-eyed maid with yellow hair, who sold her soul for a pair of gilt stockings, has a baby. Elsie Lindtner adopts a boy and falls in love with him as he grows up. This deep interpretation of the book is the result of overstudy of the abnormal. His philosophy seeks to explain that the dangerous years of transition in a woman's life may affect the brain of even the staidest and most normal of women. The rhapsodic affair of Eli with the Professor is the chef d'oeuvre of the performance, and there are others nearly as good. John Lane Co., publishers, New York.

J. S. Ogilvie Co., 57 Rose street, New York, send us the short speeches of Hon. W. Sulzer, chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, of the national house of representatives. After reading his biographical and his short speeches on a multitude of topics, one feels like calling him "the Hon. Bill Sulzer." He makes a distinct Abraham Lincoln impression in his picture.

"Common Honesty, a Study of Fundamental Principles and Their Relation to the Labor Problem," is the alluring title of a Single Tax book by Orren M. Donaldson. The writer starts us by saying that we teach everything in school but honesty and we believe everything in the way of religion but honesty. Then we are asked to be honest in labor matters and not take toll of others. He holds the basic principle of special honesty to be:

1. Every man has a right to what he produces.

II. No man has a right to what he does not produce.
III. All men have equal rights in the bounties of nature.

These matters are worked out in easy flowing, clear-cut style.

"Common Honesty" is published by Van-American Press, 523 Kimball Hall, Chicago, and will be sent postpaid for 60 cents. It can be secured through the local book trade.

"The American City," by the Civic Press, 93 Nassau street, New York, Harold S. Brittenhelm, editor, for June, is a woman's number. How can women help solve municipal problems, is answered by signed articles from president of women's clubs and federations from many states in the Union. The general idea of the women seems to be to make the government a kind of moral and municipal department store, where everything is furnished from pure water and pure milk to pure air and pure politics. What is called "civic work" is to take place of philanthropy. Intelligence is to displace charity required as the result of ignorance. "The circulation of this magazine will do great good because it establishes the fact that we can no more run a city without the help of women than we could run a home without 'em."

In the hot summer time we are asked to read a 401-page book entitled "U. S. Money is Corporation Currency." It is a criticism of the Aldrich plan of a central bank. In place of this plan there is proposed an United States Monetary Council—a new currency and banking plan. It is a very interesting discussion on the plan of "Coin's Financial School." Those interested can address The Magnet Company, Provident Bank building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Photo Era, monthly, by Wilfred A. French, 553 Boylston street, Boston, has a wonderful collection of child pictures and portrait work in the July number. If you love camera work, write for a copy, mentioning this paper.

CHURCH SERVICES.

Unitarian.
Corner of Chemeketa and Cottage streets. J. A. Cruzan, pastor. Sunday school at 10 o'clock, with "Familiar Talk" to adults on "Did Paul Write the Letters Which Bear His Name." Public worship at 11 o'clock, with an address on the great religious movement started in Persia 700 years ago, of which Abbas Effendi, now in America, is the head. Abbas Effendi.
There is now in America a remarkable man, Abbas Effendi, from Haifa, Persia, who is variously held to be an impostor, a priest, a prophet, according to the view-point of the estimator. He is the head and leader of Bahalism, a great religious movement which started in Persia near the middle of the last century, and has won already millions of adherents, and is being sealed by the blood of thousands of martyrs. Abbas Effendi came to America for the purpose of dedicating a temple to this new religion in Chicago. That he, and the movement he leads is the greatest power for good among the 200,000,000 of the Moslem world, there can be but little doubt. Mr. Cruzan is to speak on Sunday morning in the Unitarian church on "Bahalism: Whence It Came, and What It Stands For."

A Sustaining Diet.
These are the enervating days, when, as somebody has said, men drop by the sunstroke as if the Day of Rite had dawned. They are fraught with danger to people whose systems are poorly sustained; and this leads us to say, in the interest of the less robust of our readers, that the full effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla is such as to suggest the propriety of calling this medicine something besides a blood purifier and tonic,—say a sustaining diet. It makes it much easier to bear the heat, assures refreshing sleep, and will without any doubt avert much sickness at this time of year.

Castoria For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Wm. A. Foster

Loss of Appetite
Is loss of vitality, vigor or tone, and is often a forerunner of prostrating disease. It is serious and especially so to people that must keep up and doing or get behindhand. The best medicine to take for it is the great constitutional remedy Hood's Sarsaparilla Which purifies and enriches the blood and builds up the whole system. Get it today in usual liquid form or choicest tablets called Sarsatabs.

FATTENED ON BEQUEST TO THE POOR

A STORY OF HOW CORRUPT BENCH AND BAR CARVED THE FAT ESTATE LEFT BY STRATTON, AND STILL SLICING AT IT.

A Denver dispatch of July 10 says: "Sensational exposures were made today of the way in which judges and lawyers have gutted the estate of Winfield Scott Stratton, the famous Colorado mining king, who left an estate worth $29,000,000.

"Stratton had been a poor man and worked for 20 years as a carpenter, using his earnings to grubstake himself while he prospected in the Cripple Creek district. He struck it rich in the independence mine, the greatest producer of his time.

"Stratton's sympathy was with the poor. He left a will in which he directed that his wealth be used to found the Myron Stratton home for friendless aged men and women, and for homeless boys and girls. His great heart was moved by the misery of penniless old age and helpless childhood.

Fatten on Estate.
"From the day of his death the bench and the bar have been slicing away the estate in huge chunks. Judges and lawyers, executors and administrators, and "their sisters and their cousins and their aunts" have made a Gilbertian farce out of the grand old miner's dream.

"Not a shovelful of dirt has been turned, not a thing has been done toward carrying out Stratton's orders. Year in and year out, for 10 long years, the judges and lawyers have been fattening on Stratton's money, while the poor old men and women and homeless children for whom Stratton intended a home should be built, remain without shelter or food or education. Honest lawyers view the case with shame.

"The buzzards of the bench and vultures of the bar are now being exposed. Their work is being held up before the eyes of the world, their names are being scolded so that all men may know these foul birds of the law for what they are—lower and viler than any common criminals.

"The scandal has created such high feeling in Colorado that the guilty lawyers and their rotten courts have become a hissing on the lips of the people.

"But every other western state is interested in this expose of the jackals of the law, and the lesson is being pounded home to every man of money that if he wants to do good with his money he should see that the work is done before he dies, because if he is fool enough to leave it to the unscrupulous members of the bench and bar, his will is almost certain to be ignored and the money will only go to the ravenous sharks.

Swam in Graft.
"The leaders of this gang of estate looters are Attorney Tyson Dines, D. H. Rice, Carl Chamberlain and William Lennox. Dines was at one time one of the biggest lawyers in Denver. He assaulted John Mullins, and old, broken-down man, with a dog whip, beating him frightfully. The affair caused such feeling that Dines got out of Denver and went to St. Louis, where he built one of the finest homes in the country with Stratton's money. He has lived high ever since.

"Dines and his outfit slipped $5,000 to W. S. Morris. Then when Morris got in a district judge, he carried out his part of the conspiracy by fixing outrageous salaries for the trustees. The gang swam in graft. The law was violated by paying appraisers more than $300 such a day, though the legal limit is $2 for such work.

"One honest judge rises out of the riot of theft. One honest judge shines among the crooks as a candle in a dismal swamp. That lonely, honest man is Judge Robert Kerr, of the county court, who wouldn't stand for the looting of the estate. But the crooks soon got rid of him, because when he came up for office again the crooks saw to it that he was defeated on a political combination."

AFTER LONG SUFFERING

These Two Women's Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Read Their Own Statements.

Cheneyville, La.—"Some time ago when in poor health, suffering from female ills, I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. I soon felt better and gained in strength and flesh. A gradual improvement continued as I took the Compound, and from 120 pounds I now weigh 155, and feel that my life has been prolonged.

"I deeply regret that I did not know of your medicine long before I did. Friends often speak of the wonderful change in my health, and I tell them that your medicine did it."—Mrs. J. W. STANLEY, Cheneyville, La.

Distressing Case of Mrs. M. Gary.
Chicago, Ill.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for backache and it has certainly made a new woman of me. After my first baby was born I was left a perfect wreck. I was so weak I could hardly do my household duties and suffered with an awful backache. But since I have used your Compound the pains in my back have left me and I am strong again.

"My mother used it also through change of life and speaks very highly of it. You can use this letter any way you wish as much as I, to let others know of your great remedy."—Mrs. M. GARY, 2368 N. Ridgeway Ave., Chicago, Ill.
