EIGHT-HOUR DAY AND THE FISH LAWS

Responding to a request made upon him by Master Fish Warden Clanton, Attorney-General Crawford has rendered an opinion that those who fish in the ocean within three miles of the shore, must take out fishing licenses, and must abide by the laws relative to the closed season in regard to fishing and all other laws on the subject. The jurisdiction of the courts of the state extend three miles out on the ocean and in view of this the attorney-general holds that all of the laws of the state would be applicable to all matters transpiring on the ocean for that distance.

He has also rendered an opinion that the eight-hour law does not apply to hatcheries. This law provides that it shall not apply to any state institutions, excepting the penitentiary, but Labor Commissioner Hoff did not believe a hatchery was an institution. He desired an opinion from the attorney-general and that rendered by him excludes the operation of the law. He holds that an agency through which the state exercises its powers is an institution within the meaning of the law.

Cool Your Skin

Hot weather brings skin troubles. Perspiration irritates. "Sleeping" eczema is brought to the surface. Rash, disfiguring pimples, ivy poison, bites, bites, prickly heat, are all common during the summer season. Often, too, serious skin troubles begin this way.

and for this there is nothing so good as that cooling, soothing wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for eczema.

A 25 cent trial bottle will give you instant relief. We have made fast friends of more than one family by recommending this D. D. D. Prescription to a skin sufferer here and there, and we want you to try it now on our positive no pay guarantee.

COASTING VESSELS TO BE FREE

CONGRESS DISCUSSING MATTER OF TOLLS ON PANAMA CANAL SEEMS NEARLY UNANIMOUS IN PASSING COASTWISE VESSELS FREE.

Washington, D. C., July 18.—(Special)—Shall shipping controlled more or less by the railroads be excluded from the use of the Panama canal and shall ships engaged in the coastwise trade be permitted to use the canal free of toll, are problems shortly to be solved by the senate when the bill "providing for the opening, maintenance, protection and operation of the Panama canal" is taken up for consideration by the upper branch of congress.

The house bill relating to the regulation of the Panama canal was amended in a number of important particulars by the senate committee on interoceanic canals, of which Senator Brandegee is chairman, but the bill, which is on the calendar and is to be made the unfinished business after the sundry civil bill is out of the way, was submitted without a report from the committee. While amendments were adopted by majority votes in a number of instances, a majority could not be found to stand for the bill as amended and so its making is entrusted to the senate, which will probably debate the questions suggested at considerable length.

The bill as it passed the house gives vessels engaged in the coastwise trade free passage through the canal and prohibits steamships which are owned by the railroad companies from using the canal. The bill as it came from the senate committee on interoceanic canals extends the provisions for free passage to American ships in the foreign trade, provided the owners of such vessels agree that they may be taken and used by the government in time of war or other public emergency, and allows railroad-owned or controlled by railroads road-owned ships engaged in foreign trade to also carry coastwise commerce through the canal provided that at least half of their cargo, in tonnage, is destined to or shipped from Oriental or European ports.

Upon these provisions, as lively and interesting a debate as the senate has listened to in years may be expected. "In my opinion the Panama bill should be amended in the senate to conform to the house bill," said Senator Geo. E. Chamberlain, of Oregon, today.

Coastwise vessels should be permitted to use the canal without the payment of tolls, but this privilege should not be granted to steamships owned by railroads or by companies the stock of which is owned in whole or in part by railroads.

"If railroad companies are permitted to operate steamers through the canal and engage in coastwise traffic in competition with independently-owned steamship companies, the result will inevitably be that by reducing rates below a remunerative basis steamships owned by railroad companies will drive the independent companies out of business entirely and leave the railroad companies to fix the transcontinental rates, at figures that will not only compensate for carriage but for losses sustained by their steamers.

"This has been the history of transportation on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and railroad companies have for years operated steamers at a loss, driving independent lines out of business and fixing arbitrary rates for interstate and all continental traffic.

"It is a part of the history of the Pacific coast that the Southern Pacific company and other transcontinental roads have operated steamships on the Pacific, between Panama and points north, at heavy expense and yet have been able to recoup these losses by excessive rates by rail.

"Not only has this been the history on the Pacific coast, but it is the history of transportation wherever a navigable waterway is paralleled by lines of rail. Whenever an independent company undertakes to operate steamers on such waterways these latter companies install their own vessels, reducing rates by water so as to drive out all competition, thereby leaving the railroads masters of the field and able to fix such rates as they may see fit.

The Panama canal was built for all the people. If the government should now undertake to levy a tax or toll on coastwise freight through the canal, it will be reversing the policy of a hundred years. There is no more reason for the charging of tolls on domestic commerce through the canal than there is to charge tolls to ships through the Great Lakes, or to boats on the Ohio or Mississippi. The policy has always been to permit the free use of the waterways of the country in order that they might operate as regulators of railroads and any other policy would be an unjustifiable tax on the whole people.

"The Democrats in the Baltimore convention practically endorsed the house bill as it passed that body insofar as free tolls and railroad-owned ships are concerned, and I don't see how the Democrats of the senate can do otherwise than support the bill as it passed the house."

WEATHER SULTRY IN THE VALLEY

Salem experienced another extremely hot day Wednesday. The temperature ranged from 94 to 97 degrees in the shade. In some exposed places the mercury ranged as high as 100 degrees, but this is not regarded as the correct temperature on account of exposed conditions. At Eola the temperature was 102 in the shade at the store and at other places in the vicinity of Salem it stood around the hundred mark.

On the streets many men were seen without coat or vest and in the offices and places of business the same custom was practiced. Bank clerks made use of the half-dressed costume and everywhere men were seen dressed so as to make themselves comfortable.

In the circuit court lawyers, jurors and individuals doffed their coats and vests in an effort to make themselves comfortable. During the progress of a trial the said and dignified Judge McFadden, of Corvallis, looked askance at Judge Kelly, who in turn said: "Judge, you may make yourself as comfortable as possible." This is out of the usual practice of judges, as at one time during a term of court in Albany, under another judge, that one of the jurors was sent from the court room after his coat and an attorney was fined for presenting himself in court without a coat.

The weather today has slightly moderated and the weather prediction is for cooler weather.

During the summer months watch for any unnatural looseness of the bowels. When given prompt attention at this time serious trouble may be avoided. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy can always be depended upon. For sale by all dealers.

There is no need to take blame for anything this season. Anything that can't be charged to the hard winter can be laid to the presidential election.
