TO EXTEND ROAD FROM SILVERTON

SILVERTON LUMBER COMPANY WILL EXTEND ITS ROAD INTO THE ABIQUA BASIN, SAYS THE SILVERTON APPEAL.

According to our information arrangements are almost completed for extensive improvements along the line of railroad building in this vicinity. A great deal of talk has been going the rounds of the country concerning railroads and if half the lines were built which have been placed on paper and in the minds of those having elastic imaginations, the globe would certainly be encircled several times. This line, however, in which we are most interested, is the most feasible of all. The Silverton Lumber Co. already has ten miles of road in running order and use every day. Now it is proposed to extend the line into the Abiqua basin, making the road twenty-four miles in length.

This is reputed to be one of the finest bodies of standing timber in the world, and the fact that the road will be relaid with much heavier steel is evidence that it is the intention to bring large quantities of the product out.

So far as we have been able to learn the contract for the extension has not yet been let, but it is expected that it will be within the next week. If this is the case a large force of men and teams will be put to work at once and all possible speed used to the completion. Several contractors have already been over the ground with a view of submitting bids.

With this important extension and the necessarily increased business Silverton will naturally hum as never before. As has been said many times before, we are indeed fortunate in occupying the geographical position we do. Every citizen of the town should feel a great pride in what has already been done and what is about to be done. We have the best town on earth, and it is getting better with exceedingly rapid strides.---Silverton Appeal.

DORROW MAKES PLEA.

without reservation that I never gave him a dishonest dollar. Franklin told George Hood, a fellow lodge member, that I didn't give him the money. He said somebody from out of town gave it to him, and was watching him closely while he had it. "That's the excuse Franklin gave for not stealing the money. Hood is a liar--all liars."

Growled Darrow with biting sarcasm. "Franklin told the same story to his lawyer, Tom Johnson. Men tell their lawyers the truth. Johnson went to Ford with the story. Ford said it wouldn't do; the only thing he wanted was a statement against Darrow."

"Franklin said in January that if he made a statement against me he would be a damned liar. What is he? He has characterized himself. I hope the district attorney's office got its money's worth by bribing Franklin."

Darrow wiped his hands on a handkerchief and shot an angry glance at District Attorney Fredericks.

"Ford says I corrupted Leecompte Davis. Davis is a full grown man. He's a lawyer of experience. He can take care of himself. And, gentlemen, all these people lied. Franklin is the only pure and innocent man in the case. Franklin, a self-confessed liar and man who bribed jurors for $1000 a shot. A man who is testifying for immunity, a man who suddenly began telling the truth when he took the stand against me. Before that he told nothing but lies."

Darrow took up the settlement of the McNamara case. He said: "Another fact is, the McNamara case was disposed of several days before November 28, as far as I am concerned."

"All of you may not agree with the philosophy of Lincoln Steffens. When you are in your jury room you may be talking about different things and you can not agree on all of them. Be careful about not believing the idealist. He may be right. The world is moving. Things we accept today were scoffed at 200 years ago. But I don't care about his philosophy. I care about his facts."

"Ford says I betrayed my clients. I, who always regards as my friends, I gave my very life blood for those boys and bared my breast to the darts of my friends' criticism, and to that of the world. If you think I betrayed my friends--well, I will drink the cup to the dregs."

Stretching out his arms, Darrow slowly, solemnly declared: "There is in every man both good and evil. It's not his fault. God Almighty made him. If you'd hang the McNamaras it would conceive more hatred, more wrong, more crime than could come in any other way."

"Good and bad come from the heart. You can't change a man until you change his heart. "Let me tell you something about these labor men. They laid the rails, they man the locomotives, so you and I may ride in peace in Pullman cars. They take their lives in their hands, they walk on frames of building ten and twelve stories above the ground, and often their mangled remains are found on the earth beneath."

"Every step civilization has taken has been for the raising up of these men. They are often ignorant and rough. They are but human."

"I took up their cause. The Times disaster was a terrible moral accident. As time went on I realized that J. B. McNamara and his brother town there are others who still stand by me.

"I know that deep down in the mines, in the stores, in the shops, on the railroads are thousands on thousands who are looking to this jury to save me--to vindicate by name. "Thousands of them, gentlemen--men, women and little children, gentlemen; they look to you. I place my fate in your hands."

Darrow, as he closed, was surrounded by a crowd of tearful friends, who shook his hands and patted him on the shoulders. His face was stained with the mark of tears and everybody in the courtroom wept.

Dog Show Opens in San Francisco

San Francisco, Aug. 15.--Strings of highbred dogs from Washington, Oregon, Montana and southern California are entered today for the big dog show at Dreamland rink, entries for which close August 19.

One of the features of the show will be the triumvirate of judges instead of the usual one, to pass on all awards. They are G. C. Israel of Olympia, Wash.; for bull terriers; S. Christenson of San Francisco, for pointers and setters, and E. Wrightson Thorpe of New York, for all other breeds and unclassified specials. More than 200 premiums have been donated.

Buy Land For Loganberries

Anyone who has given the matter any thought knows that there is money in the Loganberry business. There are no long waits like there is in planting out an orchard. The second year the plants pay big money.

Read this statement, which originally appeared in the Portland Oregonian:

Salem, Or., Aug. 3.---(Special)---With an average yield of about five tons an acre in the Brooks district, with $80 a ton being paid for berries delivered at the station, the Loganberry harvest is practically over and the year has been an excellent one for Marion county Loganberry growers.

Thirty-seven cars of Loganberries were sent to the Portland cannery alone. Included in these shipments were 125 tons from the Aspinwall ranch. Practically $31,000 was paid by the Portland cannery to Loganberry growers living near Brooks.

We have 360 acres of land, all cleared, level, well drained, close to a station on the Oregon Electric, close to school, a rich, black, easily-worked loam soil, which we sell in 5, 10, 20 or 40-acre tracts, on easy payments.

$125 Per Acre

You can make a small payment down, the balance monthly or annually, as you prefer. This land is the equal of any land in the valley, and which in some cases sells for twice as much money. It is located ten miles north of Salem, on the Portland road, in a good neighborhood, and is absolutely first class in every particular. The Loganberry is the coming crop in this district, and is a safe and sure investment for the person who puts his or her time and money into it.
