

EXTENSION OF HOME INDUSTRIES

RURAL LIFE CONDITIONS AND FAIR TREATMENT FOR COUNTRY PEOPLE THE PLEA OF ABLE SPEAKERS—ORGANIZATION OF WOMEN TO HELP GET MORE PAYROLLS—HOME CONSUMERS' LEAGUE TO BE RE-ORGANIZED.

Mrs. Mary Vandeventer called to order, and introduced Col. E. Hofer as presiding officer at the meeting held Monday night at W. C. T. U. hall to boost for better social and industrial conditions. Addresses were delivered along these lines by Mrs. Wethered, president of the Washington Federation of Business Women. Judge John H. Scott talked for better rural life conditions and fairer treatment for country people. Judge P. H. Arcey spoke on endorsement of the fight for the moral and social uplift. Mrs. Hinges and Miss Shelton furnished some delightful music.

Col. Hofer's Address.
In introducing the speakers Col. Hofer made a plea for industrial education. He said it underlies the whole question of better citizenship. Nothing but respect for industries and habits of actual useful labor would give the rising generation that seriousness of purpose in life that would make them better men and women. It was the idling, trifling boys and girls, chasing about the streets and developing appetites, passions and animalism that became a menace to society. He plead for manual training in the schools and hoped the day would come when half the time of school children would be taken up learning useful industries. When they were through school they must have industrial employment. The industries were of more importance than politics or even a great deal of what is called religion. If he had to choose between contributing to build a new church or a new industry in Salem, he would put his money into the industry and give people a better chance to make a living in this world. He closed with a strong appeal for the home industries.

Move to Organize Women.
Mrs. Wethered spoke on good roads and country life and the importance of building up the home industries. She gave expression to some good thoughts on those lines. While she is a native daughter of Oregon, her residence for some years has been at Tacoma. She said in that state a woman counted for as much as a man. So women were more active in public life. They took an active interest in public matters and good roads had as many champions among the women as among the men. The moral and intellectual evolution of the individuals forming the great body of country people was more dependent on good roads than anything else. The council of women voters in Washington had taken up the study of country life—to dignify the home and improve its surroundings.

The agricultural colleges were taking up the question of better rural life. The Washington's women's clubs were doing as well as talking. The state was covered with organizations of home-builders and house keepers who were organized to buy the products of the home industries, and paying less attention to Shakespeare and the bric-a-brac of old Pompeii and more attention to pure food.

The boarding houses and family hotels were more often the cause of the downfall of men than saloons. The man who is coaxed by his pretty wife to buy the seal skin that they cannot afford, to keep up with another idle woman whose husband has a seal skin ransly. It would be far better for such young people to live in the country and even for him to be called a country Jake in preference to becoming a defaulter.

The speaker took up the question of patronizing the home industries. The state of Washington was thoroughly organized to support the home industries and make the factories prosperous. The same organization would produce the same result in Oregon. She hoped to see the women of the state carrying on the same work just as successfully as their sisters to the north.

Mrs. Hinges was introduced and sang "Mavourneen" to the great delight of all present. She very graciously responded with another sweet song.
Mrs. Wethered was heartily applauded and congratulated on her address and announced that she wished to meet the women of Salem again and expressed the hope that here at the Capital City the first Woman Consumers' League in Oregon might be organized.
Judge John H. Scott made some hearty remarks for the uplift movement for better country life. He commended the practical nature of Mrs. Wethered's remarks.
Judge D'Arcy spoke next and concluded the program of the evening. He confessed to having been raised in town. Nine-tenths of the professional

AWAKENING OF HELENA RICHIE A GREAT PLAY

Miss Roselle Knott, who is a woman of great personal charm and an actress of remarkable gifts and high attainments, will appear in the character of Helena Richie, in the Charlotte Thompson dramatization of Margaret Deland's fascinating fiction, "The Awakening of Helena Richie," at the Grand Opera house on Thursday, September 19.

Miss Knott is charged with a task that but few players would care to undertake—the following of so distinguished an actress as Margaret Anglin in one of her best accepted characters, yet she accomplishes the matter with such ease, displaying so much originality of thought and native strength in the delineation, that those fortunate enough to have seen Miss Anglin in the character of the mysterious young woman, who set the villagers of quiet Old Chester to such a flutter of gossip, will find ample reason for according her unqualified endorsement as an actress generously endowed with talents both versatile and rare.

It is the endeavor of Miss Knott to avoid occasion for even the slightest accusation of any imitative attempt at the Margaret Anglin Helena Richie. Charlotte Thompson has made a most delightful transfer of the scenes, characters and atmosphere of the Margaret Deland story to her stage version of the book, and dear old Dr. Lavender, the quiet, dignified and sympathetic Dr. King; David, the precocious and fondly worshipped protégé of the neglected Helena; the half-crazy village poet; the severe and uncompromising Benjamin Wright; the women gossips, and all the other characters of the ante-bellum Pennsylvania small town are to be found in the Charlotte Thompson play, and each to be easily recognized by the most exacting of the Deland readers in Miss Knott's presentation of the drama. All of these Old Chester personages are most admirably realized, and the material framing of the story is both artistic and convincing.

Earl Dwire as the gentle, tenderly considerate and rarely sympathetic old Dr. Lavender, will be found a delight; while Adin Wilson as Sam Wright; Henry Hall, late star of "The Man from Home," as Lloyd Pryor; Mayo Methot (the cleverest child on the American stage) as David, the child, furnish a company of exceptional merit.

The implicit confidence that many people have in Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is founded on their experience in the use of that remedy and their knowledge of the many remarkable cures of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery that it has effected. For sale by all dealers.

But how could the prayers of all good people who want opposite or different kinds of weather be answered?

T. L. Parks, Murrayville, Ga., Route 1, is in his 73d year, and like the majority of elderly people, he suffered with kidney trouble and bladder weakness and urinary irregularity. He says: "I have suffered with my kidneys. My back ached and I was annoyed with bladder irregularities. I can truthfully say, one 50c bottle of Foley Kidney Pills cured me entirely." They contain no habit forming drugs.

MAN AND THE SOIL.

Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, author of the Common Sense Medical Adviser, says "why does not the farmer treat his own body as he treats the land he cultivates. He puts back in phosphate what he takes out in crops, or the land would grow poor. The farmer should put back into his body the vital elements exhausted by labor, or by ill-health induced by some chronic disease." Further, he says, "the great value of my Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is in its vitalizing power. It gives strength to the stomach and purity to the blood. It is like the phosphates which supply nature with the substances that build up the crops. The far-reaching action of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is due to its effect on the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases that begin in the stomach are cured through the stomach. A bilious spell is simply the result of an effort made by the liver to catch up when over-worked and exhausted. I have found the 'Discovery' to be unsurpassed as a liver regulator and rich blood-maker."

Miss LOTTIE KNISKLY of Perth, Kansas, says: "I will here add my testimony of the effectiveness of your remedy upon myself. I was troubled with indigestion for two years or more. Doctored with three different doctors besides taking numerous kinds of so-called 'stomach cures' but received no permanent relief. I was run down, could not sleep at night with the pain in my chest, caused by gas on the stomach. Was weak, could not scarcely anything although I was hungry nearly all the time. About one year and a half ago I began taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and after having taken several bottles an nearly cured of stomach trouble. Can now eat without distress and have gained fifteen pounds in weight. I thank you for your remedy and wish you all success in your good work."
