SOMEBODY IS EVIDENTLY LYING ABOUT CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS

M'VEAGH SAYS WELLIVER'S STORY "NEVER HAPPENED" DEPEW SAYS HE WAS A JOKE

Depew, Who Was Then Senator, Gave $10,000, and After Campaign Was Over He Was "Assessed" $17,000 More, Which He Paid--He Stated Leaders Told Him He Could Not Be Re-elected to the Senate, But Promised Him the Ambassadorship to France--Said He "Was a Joke Often Cracked."

Washington, Oct. 8.—"No such event," declared McVeagh, in testifying this morning and repeating Welliver's testimony "ever happened in Morgan's office. I asked Welliver to come and see me. I told him I would talk to him only as a gentleman and not for publication. I did not tell him of anything that occurred in Morgan's office. "I was in the office of H. McK. Twombly, when the latter was called to the phone. A man wanted to talk to him in the long distance booth. He returned and said he had talked with Harriman, who had been called to Washington, and who found that Roosevelt was anxious to raise considerable funds. Harriman agreed to raise $240,000 and expected Twombly to give $50,000. He said Harriman intended to give $50,000, and Twombly led me to believe that Morgan was to give $50,000. Twombly said there was nothing to do but to meet Harriman's request."

MacVeagh asserted that he had not further to say to Welliver. Chauncey M. Depew former senator from New York, was the next witness. He testified that in 1904 he contributed $10,000 to Benjamin B. Odell's campaign for governor of New York. He could not recall whether he contributed to the fund which the late E. H. Harriman is alleged to have raised for Colonel Roosevelt's campaign. Depew declared that after the campaign, Twombly assessed him $17,000 more. "In 1904," the witness said, "the state leaders told him that he could not be re-elected to the senate. Depew said that Colonel Roosevelt denied that he ever had offered him the ambassadorship. "I have been somewhat of a joke all my life," said Depew. "To be asked to contribute and then to have them try to trick me out of a seat in the senate was quite a joke on me."

DISCUSS SOME REAL NEW IDEAS

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 8.—A state guaranty of employment to every citizen, based on the right to life asserted in the declaration of independence, is the vital point in the program of legislation demanded by the Progressives in the California state labor convention in its second session today. One resolution to this effect is sponsored by R. R. Telfer, assemblyman from San Jose; another comes from Los Angeles and is understood to have been drafted by Job Harriman for the Central Labor Council of that city. Developments of the past 24 hours indicate that the Progressive demands will be endorsed when the convention comes to a vote on the report of the resolutions committee.

Old Age Pensions. Old age pensions, to be paid by the state, and pensions for mothers of dependent children are the subjects of other resolutions. A minimum wage board to regulate the wages in industries employing women is expected through the San Francisco garment workers have a resolution opposing the plan.

So great has been the change of sentiment since the last convention that the opposition to the election of officers by referendum vote of the affiliated unions and the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall within the federation is reduced to a small group.

San Francisco's delegation will caucus tonight on candidates for president and vice-president, while Los Angeles and the south held a brief caucus today.

SALEM MEN WILL SEE BIG BALL GAMES

Among those who will be fortunate enough to witness the initial baseball game of the world's series at New York today between the New York Giants and the Boston Red Sox, will be Chas. F. Elgin and Sam O. Burkhardt, of this city. These gentlemen made the trip east as guards to a number of lunatics from the state insane asylum, their itinerary having been fortunately arranged so as to permit of attendance at the first game of the series of the national game. When they return the baseball fans of the city will look for a detailed description of the game.

Interest in the national game has grown steadily of late and it is confidently expected by the management of the world's series this year that the crowds will eclipse those of any previous year. The attendance will run from 30,000 to 50,000 at each game.

RUMOR LA FOLLETTE IS BACKING WILSON IS FALSE

Madison, Wis., Oct. 8.—Alfred Rogers, law partner of Senator LaFollette, declared here today that the report that LaFollette had declared himself for Woodrow Wilson for president was absolutely false.

COMPANY MUST EMPLOY SOBER LOT OF MEN

Duluth, Oct. 8.—To bring to an end the traction strike here, the city council today notified the company that its franchise would be annulled within three days if it fails to provide capable, honest and sober crews for its cars.

The hiring of strike-breakers by the traction company is held responsible for the action.

Some people borrow trouble and some buy it outright.

Think They Have Burglar.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—Detectives arrested Alfred Tfieler, driver for a department store, here today and believe they have in him the man responsible for the big department house burglaries committed recently. As evidence, the police have at headquarters several thousand dollars worth of silverware smashed into an unrecognizable mass.

May Restore Jewels.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—With the hope that the prisoner would restore a portion of the jewels belonging to Mrs. J. J. Alentine, wife of the former president of Wells Fargo & Co., here, Police Judge Weller released John Summers, a former street car conductor here, today on $500 bail. Summers was brought here from Los Angeles to answer a charge of theft, having confessed to having appropriated $15,000 in jewels belonging to Mrs. Alentine which he found in a street car.

BOHRNSTEDT ORCHARDS ARE BOOSTED

FRUIT INDUSTRY AND FACTORIES ARE PROMOTED IN THE PEEBLES WILLAMETTE VALLEY—FINE MODERN HOMES ARE GOING UP IN HISTORICAL REGION.

Ten good boosters went out to the Waldo Hills orchard tracts Monday and helped along the enterprise of the A. C. Bohrnstedt company, that is putting about 1000 acres into fruit bearing orchards on five-year contracts with Eastern people who are coming to make their homes in the peerless Willamette valley. The home industries were given a lift at the conclusion by a Made in Oregon promoter, who made an earnest plea for the factory alongside of the fruit farm as the highest type of the self-sustaining community.

Dedicated Picnic Ground.

About 40 ladies and gentlemen went out in autos to the Bohrnstedt picnic in the canyon near the Mackenzie place, where a fine cafeteria lunch was served by Mrs. Bornstedt, assisted by other ladies of the new colony of Eastern people, who are doing so much to develop the Waldo Hills region, and its wonderful views of the valley.

After the picnic, which was served in a beautiful natural park with the ground carpeted with moss and ferns, the party visited the J. S. Mackenzie farm home, a modern type of dwelling with all modern conveniences, including electric lighting from storage battery. The owner and his wife have settled here to make a model country home. They have a family of sturdy sons and daughters, and Mr. Mackenzie, who came from Lethbridge, Alberta, is a public spirited man, who has seen nearly every part of the United States and Canada, and says this surpasses all other regions in beauty and fertility.

Three Government Officials.

Were present at the meeting, and spoke of the plans for farm survey and farm management work in this section: They were Byron Hunter, supervisor of farm management; Mr. Thompson, superintendent of farm surveys; C. J. Chapin, farm management expert, located at Salem. Other speakers were A. F. Hofer, of the Salem Board of Trade, Mr. Bohrnstedt, Mr. Mackenzie, Alex. LaFollette, John H. Albert of the Capital National bank, P. H. D'Arcy and President Homan of Willamette University.

Fine Homes Going Up.

The Mackenzie home will cost about $500 when completed, has a septic drainage, water service and electric lights. A fine large fireplace is an attractive feature of the house that was much admired by Salem folks. The house stands near an historical oak tree about four feet in diameter, and spreading 120 feet. In all directions are wonderful views of the val-

A PACKING CASE FULL OF STUFF

Elmer Dover, of Tacoma, Former Secretary of the National Republican Committee, Tells of Records.

BOXES OF IT IN CHICAGO

Dover, Who Is General Manager for the Northwest for the Byllesby Gas Company, of Chicago, in the Federal Court, Tells of the Records of the Contributions Being Filed Away in Chicago.

Tacoma Wash., Oct. 8.—Locked away in a packing case in a Chicago warehouse are duplicate lists of all contributions received by the republican national committee during the campaign of 1904 and copies of reports made to Cornelius N. Bliss national secretary, and papers which passed through his hands. Partial list of contributions for almost ten years are included.

This was the gist of a statement made today by Elmer Dover, formerly secretary of the national republican committee who was interrogated today in federal court by United States Senator Wesley L. Jones a member of a sub-committee now engaged in investigating campaign contributions.

Contained in the documents in storage is information which is greatly desired by the Clapp congressional investigating committee, now in session at Washington, which are expected to shed light on many disputes and questions concerning contributions to Roosevelt's campaign.

Dover testified that he had personally contributed $15,000 to the campaign fund of 1904 for the estate of Mark Hanna. This was the largest single contribution he had personal knowledge of.

Dover denied that he had been offered a cabinet position by George W. Perkins if he would support Roosevelt in the present campaign or that he had been offered $50,000 to take charge of the campaign.

Dover is now general manager in the Northwest for the H. M. Byllesby company, of Chicago, which controls most of the gas companies in this section.

The investigation was conducted at the request of Senator Clapp, upon telegraphic communication received by Senator Jones.

ley and the snow mountains. Mr. Bohrnstedt took the party to the site of his proposed home, that is to cost about $20,000, and looking down into the city of Salem, and with a panoramic view of the valley for 20 miles, and extending to the coast range of mountains and the Cascades on the east. The entire party visited the experimental gardens and orchard of the corporation, and saw wonderful orchard growths that are managed on the most advanced scientific principles. All expressed themselves as highly pleased with the Waldo Hills orchard enterprise and with the high character of improvements being made.

BOSTON WINS FIRST OF THE SERIES IN A CLOSE GAME BY SCORE OF 4 TO 3

The Mayors Rooted.

Mayor Gaynor, of New York, and Mayor Fitzgerald, of Boston, were among the most prominent "rooters" present. The mayor of "Beantown" is an ardent Red Sox fan, but he quit the rooters' brigade long enough to pose with New York's mayor for several photographs. Then Fitz grabbed his megaphone and rushed back with the Boston rooters. Umpire Klem officiated behind the bat. Evans presided over the base decisions. O'Loughlin took care of the left field foul line, and Rigler looked after the right field line.

DECIDES A NUMBER OF CASES

SUPREME COURT PASSES UPON SEVERAL MATTERS AND DECLARES LAW ABOUT TUB BUTTER UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

Declaring an act passed by the legislature in 1911 making it unlawful for any person to sell or offer for sale squares of butter cut from tub butter without marking it tub butter to be in conflict with the state constitution, the supreme court today affirmed the circuit court of Multnomah county in the case of the state vs. Roy Goodhue.

The statute, while forbidding some in placing such butter on the market without marking it, allowed creameries to do so if it was placed on the market within 20 days after its manufacture. The supreme court held that this was granting immunities and privileges to some and denying it to others and that, therefore, the act was unconstitutional.

The other cases decided were as follows: Diamond Roller Mills vs. M. A. Moody, et al., Wasco, petition for rehearing denied. Traugott Wirth vs. John Richter, Yamhill, affirmed. In re, Young Estate, Umatilla, petition to re-open decree denied. Herbert B. Roadman vs. W. C. Harding, et al., Douglas, affirmed. Jacob Hahn vs. Donald McKay, Multnomah petition rehearing denied.

AN INSANE MAN ASKS PROTECTION OF THE GOVERNOR

Laboring under the delusion that he is being persecuted by enemies a man believed to be mentally deranged entered the governor's office this afternoon and demanded protection from Governor West.

Ralph Watson, private secretary to the governor, was in the office at the time, and feeling certain that the man was insane, made an excuse to leave the office to communicate with the police. The man followed him into the hall, and Watson went into the office of the secretary of state to telephone the police, and he departed down one of the hallways. Deputy Sheriff Esch arrived on the scene as soon as possible, and, though a search was made, the man could not be found.

To Watson he declared that he had been run out of Alaska, and that his enemies were trying to railroad him into the penitentiary. Watson is inclined to believe that he is the same man who last summer wrote the governor along similar lines.

(By Grantland Rice.)

New York Oct. 8.—Joe Wood of Boston delivered today. Result Boston 4; New York 3.

By one of these very narrowest of squeaks which make baseball, Boston finished under the wire today an eyelash length ahead of the Giants, but the distance was sufficient.

Big Jeff Tesreau, upon whom New York had pinned hopes of winning the jump-off game, delivered the best he had in stock and that best was a mighty fine commodity for six innings but in the seventh the terrific strain under which the Ozark giant had been working took the spring from his mighty right arm, and the Red Sox, who had been waiting and expecting this very thing, connected with his falling efforts for three runs, chalked up on the basis of a pair of singles and a brace of doubles. This trio of tallies, taken together with a lone run scored in the sixth inning, did the business for Boston.

Young Joe Wood, making his initial world's series bow, the same as Tesreau, supplemented his arm with his head to better advantage. By using better judgement and saving something for the last, the smaller man managed to go the distance. Even in his case, however, the same strain which had worked the undoing of Tesreau, got in its work in the final session, and with one man down the Bostonian faltered, and for a moment it looked as though he would go the way of his adversary. Three singles in a row torn off by Merkle, Herzog and Meyers, gave the Giants a run, and put them within a single tally of tying the score. At this stage, however, Wood tightened up, and by splendid head work held the Giants safe, and put the first game of the world's series "on ice" for the American championship.

Never in the history of baseball were more nerve racking moments known than in the last inning of the game, and when it was all over the crowd simply wilted.

Joe Wood was the hero of the hour, and only Speaker, with his triple, approached "Smoky Joe's" glory.

New York, Oct. 8.—Wearing the same old uniforms that they wore throughout the 1912 campaign, the Boston Red Sox and the New York Giants appeared on the Polo grounds about 1 o'clock this afternoon, ready and eager to begin the battle for the world's baseball championship. More than 30,000 leather-lunged fans were on hand, and the din turned loose was deafening.

Manager McGraw and his National league hopes were the first to appear. It was exactly 12:48 o'clock when the New Yorkers started from their club house. Thirty thousand voices joined in a rousing welcome. Five minutes later the Boston Red Sox, led by Manager Jake Stahl, appeared. Several hundred Boston rooters, led by Mayor Fitzgerald, rose en masse and joined in a vociferous welcome.
