NEW YORK WON GAME IN FIRST

Pounded O'Brien, Boston Pitcher, All Over the Grounds, and Marked Up Five Runs in the First Inning.

DIFFERENT WITH COLLINS

After Collins Went Into the Box New York Made No More Runs, But Boston Piled up Two in the Second—After That There Was Nothing Doing on Either Side—Series Now Stands Boston 3, New York 2.

(By Grantland Rice.)
New York, Oct. 14.—Driven to bay, the Giants led a last rushing desperate assault against the Red Sox machine today and tore it apart within one round. Marquard pitched his pals to a romping, cakewalk victory by the count of 5 to 2. The Rubes, as in his first start, broke the Boston attack at every turn, and after one rickety round—the second—stopped Stahl's slashing sluggers with a thud.
Tonight the Giants move back to Boston for another game stand, where Jeff Tesreau and Joe Wood hook up for the third clash.
The first round today settled the battle. Stahl stuck in Buck O'Brien, and the Giants were ready. Knowing they had their backs against the wall, they rushed the Red Sox spitballer with such savage ferocity that he was on the ropes in a twinkling, when he was slammed for six hits and five runs before Stahl could get another pitcher warmed up and into the fray.
Collins followed O'Brien in the second round, rolling back the Giants' rushes by wonderful pitching—sure and effective—but his brilliant work went to seed. For, working on that five-run lead, the Rubes, after one short lapse—through over-confidence—settled to his task and breezed in under wraps. From the second round he was never in trouble, and sharp, sure support by his mates did the rest.
That first assault on O'Brien was a classic. Doyle led off with a hit and steal. Then, with two out, Murray singled; Merkle doubled; Herzog doubled; Meyers singled, and Fletcher dumped a bunt which squeezed the Indian over with the fifth run. But this wasn't all, for, in the middle of that wild melee and medley, O'Brien balked. Doyle home with the first run, and Meyers and Herzog flashed a double steal.
In the second round Marquard erred on Gardner's tap, Stahl singled, and Angle's double, linked to Devore's boot, cost two runs. But from that period on, the two southpaws worked in matchless fashion, and the scoring closed abruptly.
The game was the last one to be fought in New York. Tomorrow's game goes to Boston, and when the flip was made for the deciding battle ground, in case the Giants win again Tuesday, Boston won the toss, and gets two games at home in order to decide the series.

TELLS THE SAME TALE OF KILLING

"Bridger" Webber, Who It is Alleged, Was in Charge of Gang That Murdered Rosenthal, Tells His Story.

BECKER URGED GANG ON

Webber Swears Becker Said to Him: "If the Man Rosenthal Ever Sees Whitman Its All Off, Why Don't You Boys Have Him Croaked? I'll Take Care of You Fellows After the Job Is Done"—He Urged Them to Hurry

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
New York, Oct. 15.—Full corroboration of the story told Saturday by "Bald Jack" Rose that Police Lieutenant Charles Becker wanted Gambler Herman Rosenthal "killed, dynamited or croaked," was given today by "Bridger" Webber when the trial of Becker on a charge of having instigated the murder of Rosenthal was resumed.
"If the man Rosenthal," Webber swore Becker said to him, "ever sees Whitman, it's all off. Why don't you boys have him croaked? I'll take care of you fellows after the job is done."
Webber, who is alleged to have been in charge of the gangsters who killed Rosenthal, testified that he told Becker he would "pull off" the job in a few days. But Becker, he said, kept after him to hurry up.
Webber then described the meeting of the gunmen on July 15, when arrangements were completed for slaying Rosenthal.
The witness testified that he met Becker, Harry Vallon, Rose and Sam Scheps just a short time before Rosenthal was killed.
Justice Goff today told attorneys and the newspaper men that gangsters using reporters' passes, were admitted to the courtroom last Saturday. Hereafter, Justice Goff said, no one would be admitted without a card bearing his (Goff's) signature.
Webber testified that he located Rosenthal at the Hotel Metropole on the night of the murder, that he told the gunmen who left immediately for the scene. The witness said he went to the Metropole at 2:10 in the morning, and saw Rosenthal's body lying on the sidewalk.
At 5 o'clock that morning Webber said, he met Becker and Rose. Becker, he said, was smiling, and said to him, after shaking hands: "Well, Bridger, you did a good job. Don't worry. I told you I would see you through. The only thing necessary now is for you boys to lay low a few days."
Then Webber swore, Rose gave him $1000 to distribute among the gunmen.
DEDICATION BY MOOSE POSTPONED TO NOV. 16
Owing to the delay in the shipment of the furniture and fittings for the new Moose lodge rooms which have been recently completed in the Derby-Lafay building at the corner of High and Court streets, the public dedication, which was to have been held October 22, has been postponed until the night of November 12. At this time a public dedication will be held for the entertainment of all those desiring to attend and every effort will be made to accommodate all who come. The lodge rooms of this order are said to be the finest on the coast and the furniture and fittings excel anything in the west at the present. It is reported that one car of the furniture and fittings for the lodge has been lost, at least no trace has been had of it for some time, but it is believed by those having the matter in hand that it will arrive in time for the dedication on the 12th of November.
November 16th will be observed by the members as a house-warming day and only the members of the lodge will be admitted to this meeting, but at the dedication the public in general is cordially invited to attend.
Twelve Medford women will start on a tour of Jackson and Douglas counties in bubble wagons and in the interest of woman suffrage.

GREETING!

Today the ownership of the Daily and Weekly Capital Journal passed into the hands of the Barnes-Taber Company, and as fast as the edition leaves the press to meet its old friends, and, perhaps, some new ones, it carries with it not only the greetings of the new management, but also the sincere hope and desire that the people of this substantial and growing city of Salem, this beautiful and prosperous Willamette Valley, and this grand and resourceful state of Oregon will receive the paper and the new management with as kindly a spirit as the new management already bears towards each and every one who receives this—the initial issue.

We have come here to live. We want to be your friends, and we want you to be ours. We like this city—we like its people. It is with you that we want to turn over the pages of future development and future years. We are evidencing our desires and our intentions in a most substantial manner—we are investing our money with you—the greatest of all evidences of business sincerity.

The policy of The Capital Journal, under the new management, first, last and always, will be unwavering loyalty to Salem, her citizens, her institutions, and her friends. We are bound to no corporations, factions, cliques or individuals, nor will we ever be bound to any.

The Capital Journal, under the new management, expects at all times to keep closely in touch with the political situation. Our policy being independent, we will support the best man, irrespective of his political beliefs, and once we select our man we will support him absolutely—win or lose—there will be no eleventh-hour changes. The paper will take no active part in the forthcoming election—we have not been here long enough to know people or to know conditions—we will treat all candidates equally courteously—and we only hope that the best man wins.

In conclusion, let us say that we are buying The Capital Journal, and assuming the management, quietly and modestly—we have no radical changes to suggest, nor any radical policies to foster.

We feel at this time that we are entitled to the confidence and the support of the citizens and business men of this community—we ask for these until we prove ourselves unworthy—and when we do prove ourselves unworthy, we know that neither confidence nor support will be forthcoming.

And with this we make our bow.

ENGLEWOOD PEOPLE MEET WED. NIGHT

TO HEAR DISCUSSION OF SEWER BOND CONTROVERSY—CANDIDATES COMING OUT FOR THE INITIATIVE.

There will be another meeting of the citizens of the sixth ward on Wednesday evening to hear the sewer bond issue discussed. The meeting will be held in the assembly room of the Englewood school house. At the meeting Friday night at the Highland school there were about 150 voters present, and City Superintendent Kuntz was introduced and thanked for the courtesy of allowing the people to hold a meeting there. He said the school houses would always be open to the people for non-political and non-sectarian meetings, in reply from one of the committee as to their use. Supt. Kuntz made his bow to the people at Highland, and was well received. At the Highland meeting the initiative bill was endorsed by an overwhelming vote, and the seventh ward resolution adopted. The arguments presented were not met by anyone for the opposition, Grant Corby being detained at another meeting. But it is understood that Mr. Corby will be at the Englewood meeting Wednesday night. Candidate Waring, who is in the primary contest for mayor, was present, and was called out. He unqualifiedly stated that he would enforce every detail of the initiative bill, if it is carried by the people. He showed the injustice of paying off the sewer debt of $189,000 for South Salem, which had been declared illegal and void by the supreme court, and letting the people of the north half of the city pay their own assessment and pay for South Salem, too, and pay their share of the $69,000 refunding the old bonds issued for the three sewers built through the old main part of the city. Cqj. Hofer spoke for the initiative bill, as the only way to clean up the situation and relieve all the property of the city that had been assessed from all liens and encumbrances. He showed that the initiative bill was carefully drawn so that property owners would pay only for their house connection, within the block, and he contended that was the right principle for the construction of sewers. The city had started in that way, and then the city had changed to the district plan of construction. He showed that the whole complicated situation was caused by defective work of assessments, under the district system, and it was not the fault of the people that the system had broken down. It was providential, he said, that it had failed and the supreme court had knocked it out on account of extreme irregularities in defining the boundaries and

His Horse Threw Him

Roy Bates, a young man 25 years of age, while riding a horse on South Commercial street in the vicinity of the cemeteries, was thrown and badly shaken up yesterday forenoon. The horse became frightened by a passing motorcycle and began to buck, throwing him with great force to the ground. He was taken to the home of Wm. McGehehrst and a physician called but an examination showed that no bones were broken. His parents, who reside at Rosedale, took him to his home in the afternoon and he will be able to resume his work in a day or two.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
New Westminster, B. C., Oct. 14.—Two half-breeds and a white man were murdered from ambush on Nicomen Island, above Mission, last night, by William McLeoughlin, another white man. A posse of heavily armed men, of the local provincial police, is closing in on the murderer, who is laying concealed in the bush, not far from the scene of the crime, with a bullet wound in his chest. He will probably be captured by nightfall.

The shooting resulted from estranged family relations. William Jasper, a half-breed, with his wife and Mrs. McLeoughlin, their daughter, together with a white man, "Scotty" McNeil, were driving along the Nicomen Island road last night about 10 o'clock, when McLeoughlin, who has several times threatened to "clean up" the whole family, stepped out from the brush, and from the shadow shot and instantly killed Jasper, who was driving. Turning the rifle on Mrs. Jasper, McLeoughlin sent a bullet through her brain. McNeil drawing a revolver wounded McLeoughlin in the chest. In the exchange of shots a bullet pierced McNeil's heart. McLeoughlin made no attempt to harm his girl wife, and disappeared in the brush.

An unknown man at a fire in Oregon City Sunday afternoon, climbed an electric light pole that was ablaze and at the risk of his life put the fire out. Had he not done so the big wires would soon have burned in two or been on the ground, with chances in favor of killing some one.
