SALEM, OREGON, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1912.

NO. 226.

GREAT CROWD WELCOMES GOVERNOR MARSHALL

Governor Marshall in Salem

Arrives at Noon and Speaks at Grand Opera House Being Introduced by Governor West—Made Friends

Declaring that, while he is out in the interests of the whole of Democracy, the primary purpose of his visit to Oregon is to do all in his power to elect Harry Lane to the United States senate, and that he would rather see Woodrow Wilson go down to defeat than be elected, but bound hand and foot by a Republican senate and a Republican house of representatives, Governor Marshall, of Indiana, Democratic candidate for vice-president, addressed a crowded house at the Grand opera house this afternoon.

While the governor was at luncheon with his party, and the Salem men who joined the party here, Mrs. Marshall, who accompanies her husband, was the guest at the noonday repast with Governor and Mrs. West, at their residence on Center street. Governor West introduced Governor Marshall to the audience at the theatre with remarks both appropriate and Democratic.

Arrived at Noon.
Governor Marshall arrived in Salem over the Oregon Electric, reaching here at 12 o'clock, coming directly from Albany, where he made an address this forenoon. At the Commercial street stop James E. Godfrey and August Hucklestein, representing Marion county Democrats boarded the train and joined the governor's party.

West Returned Early.
Governor West met Governor Marshall at Ashland yesterday, and accompanied him to Medford, but, because of urgent business in Salem, returned here early today, joining the Marshall party again this afternoon. The Oregon executive presided at the Marshall meeting in Ashland, but at Medford turned him over to the Jackson county central committee.

Crowd Was Large.
Despite the exceedingly inclement weather, which has continued for several days, rendering the country roads leading into Salem well nigh unfit for traffic, the city was well filled with Democrats, and interested members of the other parties who had come from every corner of the county. There was scarcely a Democrat in Salem who did not participate in some part of the demonstration attending the governor's visit.

Governor Marshall lunched with his party, including several Salem men, immediately after arrival at the hotel, though a few minutes were given up to handshaking before the meal. The governor refused to grant any interviews before he regaled himself in the Marion grill.

Some time intervened after his luncheon before the Marshall party proceeded to the opera house during which Mr. Marshall made acquaintances and talked freely.

Theatre Is Packed.
A big crowd lingered in the lobby of Trial Postponed.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 24.—A continuance until November 6 was granted Mexican Consul Manuel Cuesta and Lieutenants Holderness and Howard, U. S. A., charged with illegally entering the house of an American citizen here and searching for Mexican refugees. The action was taken at the request of United States Attorney Morrison, who was unable to be present at the trial before that date.

Carloads of Apples Are Burned

Wenatchee, Wash., Oct. 24.—The big plant of the Wenatchee Ice Cold Storage and Canning Company, with 100 cars of apples was destroyed by fire today. The loss of the plant is estimated at $75,000. One hundred apple-growers are affected.

Several narrow escapes from death were reported and half a dozen workmen are slightly injured.

The fire started in the storage department on the second floor and with the apples destroyed 60,000 boxes of canned goods.

The factory carried an insurance of $55,000. At 1 p. m. the fire was still burning.

the hotel while the candidate was at lunch, which was increased after he issued from the dining room. The crowd followed the governor to the theatre, which was packed to the doors before his arrival, the crowd having begun to assemble shortly after 1 o'clock.

"After an effort of 16 years by the Republican party to get rid of the trusts and to take the burden off the people by Republican methods," said the governor, "they have frankly admitted that the trusts cannot be gotten rid of, and all that can be done is to regulate this evil. If this is true, then the Socialists cannot be trusted with I am with the Democratic party because I do not believe it is necessary to have either Socialism or paternalism. I am for the old-fashioned individualism of Thomas Jefferson.

Talks on Oregon's Rights.
"I am merely the tail of the Democratic kite. If you can send the kite up without me, I am content. I am an old-style Democrat, and I am proud of it. Further, I am a believer in state's rights, and I am proud of that. Such is my plea. I am not here to appeal for votes. I never have appealed for them, and I never will.

Must Face Conditions.
"To reform the world is not the duty of you people. In the world of affairs you cannot cure its ills today, nor can you cure them tomorrow. My father was a country doctor, and as a youngster I thought that all the diseases in the world could be cured by quinine and pills. But I have found through long experience that while fever and chills must be cured, appendicitis must also be conquered. The same condition prevails in the world of affairs.

"I am not much good at praying, but I have prayed for three and a half years that God would save this country from a one-man government. The bullet of an assassin showed us the

May Drive Turks out of Europe

Fierce Battle Still in Progress But Turks Are Losing at every Point—Claimed Battle May End War

Vienna, Oct. 24.—Locked in a death grapple, on the outcome of which hangs the fate of Islam in Europe, Moslem Turks and Christians Serbs and Bulgars continued today their battle for the Fortress of Kirk Killaseh, the fall of which, it is admitted, will pave the way to Adrianople's fall, the ultimate capture of Constantinople and the probable expulsion of the Mohammedan from Europe.

Sweeping in from the northeast, the Bulgarian army has cleft its way almost to the walls of Kirk Killaseh, and, spread out in a wide crescent formation, is steadily pushing back the Turks to the very walls of the fortress. Valika and Tirnovo have already been occupied by the Christians, and their advance forces almost surrounding Kirk Killaseh, they are battling desperately for its fall before pushing on to Adrianople, only about 20 miles west.

Slaughter Is Terrific
News from the actual front is fragmentary, but enough has come through the lines to show that more than 250,000 men are engaged on both sides, and it is certain that the slaughter is terrific. On the right wing of the attacking Bulgarian force, it said, contact already has been established with the Turkish forces defending Adrianople, and that 100 of the Moslems were killed in a sharp conflict at a redoubt on the banks of the River Arda. It is even rumored that Bulgar sledge guns have opened fire on Adrianople itself, but this report is so far unconfirmed.

Adrianople Will Fall.
Aiding the frontal assault of the Bulgars on Kirk Killaseh and Adrianople, a Serbian force, which has already captured Kumanova, is pushing desperately toward the south in an effort to turn the Turkish left flank. Should this movement be successful, and a heavy force of Serbs gain position to the southwest of Adrianople, there is hardly a doubt that that city will fall, particularly if the Bulgars continue their successes to the north and northeast.

It is pointed out here by military experts that this is probable. The Turks, with their whole force available, are admitted to have so far failed to stop the Bulgar attack, and if they are forced to weaken the front presented to Czar Ferdinand's troops to encounter the Serbs, defeat would seem to be almost a certainty for the soldiers of the sultan. They would be caught between two fires, and a battle to the death in and about Adrianople, a historical struggle, possibly would settle the Balkan war.

To Fire Turk From Europe.
This view is taken from the standpoint that the victorious Balkan allies would be satisfied with acquiring from the Turk the provinces originally in dispute. This view, however, is accounted for by many observers. They believe that the remarkable co-operation of Bulgaria, Serbia, Montenegro and Greece is evidence that their plans were fully laid long before the outbreak of hostilities, and that the real object of the war is not autonomy for Macedonia or the cessation of the Albanian atrocities, but the absolute and final expulsion of the Turk from Europe, and the placing of the cross again on the Mosque of St. Sophia in Constantinople and re-establishment again under Ferdinand of Bulgaria of that empire of the east which flourished under Constantine.

Turks Beaten Everywhere.
What part in this general plan—if such is the plan—is being worked out by the Montenegrins and Greeks is as yet to be seen.

Raided Meat Shops.

Berlin, Oct. 24.—Because 2000 women raided a butcher shop in the Wedding district, demolished the place and looted it of meat, all the other butcher shops in that section here closed today and barricaded their doors. The demonstration was due to the "dear food" riots.

The manager of the shop was seriously injured during the attack.

The Prison Gets Four From Here

Portland, Or., Oct. 24.—Portland and many other cities of the northwest are being combed from end to end today to discover the whereabouts of Mrs. J. M. Goings, of Carbondale, Ill., wealthy delegate at large from Illinois to the national W. C. T. U. convention, who dropped mysteriously from sight Friday, October 18. Mrs. Goings was said to have considerable money and jewelry on her person. In answer to an invitation from householders here to receive the delegates, Mrs. Goings was upon her arrival, Friday, allotted accommodations in the home of Mrs. T. A. Sherman in the select residence section.

According to Mrs. Sherman, Mrs. Goings, who is nearly 60, never arrived at her home, and an exhaustive search by the police has failed to reveal her whereabouts.

Mrs. Goings attended none of the sessions of the W. C. T. U. convention, and there appears to be no member of that organization here now who has the least inkling as to her present location.

The disappearance of Mrs. Goings has stirred the ranks of the W. C. T. U. here deeply and efforts are being made to find out more of her home connections in the hope that the search may be aided from that end.

So far as is known the Carbondale authorities or members of the missing woman's family there know nothing of her whereabouts.

SUPREME COURT TO GO TO PENDLETON
Today is the last day the supreme court will hear cases before repairing to Pendleton for the purpose of holding a pre-election term. Court will be held in the Eastern Oregon town until a few days before election, when the judges will go to their respective homes for the purpose of casting their ballots.

The court will move to Pendleton Monday. After election it will return to Salem and consider the Pendleton cases until about the middle of November, when hearings will begin here.

FIVE MORE COUNTIES FILE THEIR REPORTS
Five more counties this morning reported to the office of the secretary of state their post-primary registration. The five counties were Polk, Clatsop, Clackamas, Josephine and Lane. The largest increase is shown by Lane, the increase since the primary election being 30 per cent of the registration before the primaries.

The figures submitted today follow: Polk, before the primaries 2977, after 429, total 3417. Clatsop, before 2427, after 752, total 3189. Clackamas, before 5707, after 1462, total 7169. Josephine, before 1984, after 497, total 2481. Lane, before 6047, after 2197, total 8244.

The reason given by Mr. Olcott for having the case dismissed is that because of technicalities the case would of necessity be referred back to the circuit court from the supreme court, and because with the completion of the new supreme court building the printing office will be removed to the new buildings as provided in the architect's specifications. The removal will take place in about a year.

Secretary Olcott undertook the task of removing the printer from the capitol building because of his position as custodian of the building. With the arising of new conditions he does not consider it practicable to carry the case farther.

A woman's opinions never become dusty for lack of being aired.

Wealthy Woman Missing

Mrs. J. W. Goings Delegate to W. C. T. U. Convention Not Seen Since Arrival at Portland Last Friday.

Portland, Or., Oct. 24.—Portland and many other cities of the northwest are being combed from end to end today to discover the whereabouts of Mrs. J. M. He Gave the Signal.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 24.—Walking with steady tread into the prison yard, James Riley, convicted of the murder of Geo. Fussell, a grocer, in 1910, allowed himself to be blindfolded and strapped to a chair and legally shot to death at the state penitentiary here today.

At 7:04 a. m. Riley raised his hand as a signal to the riflemen, and the next minute he was dead with three bullets through his heart.

White Girls Being Sold to Negroes

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Spurred to action by evidence of a nation-wide organization which reaps an enormous profit by supplying white girls to wealthy negroes, Chinese and Japanese, government officials in every important city of the country today received orders from Washington to take steps immediately to stop such traffic. Evidence was produced in the federal grand jury investigations here of a white slavery case in which pugilist Jack Johnson and Lucille Cameron, a white girl, figure, makes it almost certain that such an organization exists.

A score of instances where white girls had been shipped from state to state to negroes, Chinese and Japanese were given to the United Press this afternoon by Arthur B. Farwell, president of the Law and Order League.

"The Chinese," Farwell said, "are the most fastidious. They will accept only the most beautiful and attractive white girls. Price is no object as long as the girl is pretty. The negroes and Japanese are easier to please. So long as the girl is white, it does not matter to them."

Farwell flatly charged the police in large cities with responsibility for present conditions. Police action against the white slave organization, he said, had been stifled by money.

Chicago club women today are combining in a plan to ask the mayors of every American city to forbid Johnson appearing in boxing exhibitions, theatrical performances or pugilistic contests.

Y. M. C. A. ROOMS AT WILLAMETTE COMPLETED
The new Y. M. C. A. rooms in the basement of the old chapel building were completed today and will be occupied at once.

The suite contains a hall, office room and club room. The whole is to be nicely fitted up and will be a mecca for the boys henceforth.

FRIDAY EVENING
The long heralded student rally is now slated as a sure thing for next Friday evening. Yell leader MacEacham is making all arrangements to have this first spirit invigorator liberally "a howling success."

The rally will be held as a fore-runner to the game with Pacific University Saturday. Willamette is predicted to win easily but with the inclement weather and in view of the fact that Erskine and Francis have been absent from practice, just what the result will be is not at all certain.

Tells Why Daughter Suicided

Mother of Jack Johnson's Wife Tells Pathetic Story Relates Also How Johnson Forced Presence on Her

New York, Oct. 24.—More light was thrown on the alleged brutality and depravity of Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, here today by Mrs. David Terry, mother of Mrs. Etta Duryea Johnson, the negro's white wife, who committed suicide a few weeks ago. Crushed in spirit and broken in health and with a physician constantly in attendance Mrs. Terry told of the hard life her daughter was forced to endure with the giant negro.

"If my daughter's suicide," sobbed Mrs. Terry, "will serve as a warning to other girls, and if I thought it might save someone else from a similar fate my own crushing burden of sorrow might be eased, I would feel that her death was not in vain.

Bitter at Negro.
"It would be wrong for me to tell what ought to be done to Jack Johnson. It is not for me to judge. God must do that, but every night I pray to God to punish that negro as he deserves.

"Two weeks ago I had a vision in a dream, and I believe it was God's promise of punishment. I saw a boat on a beautiful stream. In it was Etta talking to my dead husband. Suddenly, from out of the water rose the giant and glistening form of Jack Johnson, the negro. He grabbed for the boat with both hands, but missed. My daughter rowed away and disappeared with a happy ripple of laughter. The water turned black and it slowly swallowed the black man.

"I believe that my daughter's suicide came at a period—not of temporary madness—but one of extreme incision. She was never in her right mind. I believe for one brief moment the mental fog lifted from her brain and the hideousness of her position was clearly revealed. It was so revolting that she shot herself.

"No one can ever know how cruel that negro was to Etta. He beat her so badly she was forced to go to a hospital. She was mortally afraid of him and ran away once, hiding in a hotel. I have seen my poor child with her eyes black and her face bruised. Before she went to Europe with him she told me she would rather die than go.

Forced Himself in Auto.
"At the time of Etta's funeral my daughter Arline went to Chicago with me. We stayed at a hotel. I wanted the body but Johnson refused to give it up to me. He wanted me to ride about Chicago in his automobile, but I refused. On the front porch of his house, where the photographers wait, he pushed my daughter aside so he could have his picture taken at my side, making it appear that he was leaning on my arm. He forced his company upon us. After Arline and I entered the automobile to go to the cemetery this negro climbed in. Arline pulled down the shades, but Johnson put them up again so the crowd could see us together and photograph us. In the train he sat on the arm of Arline's chair and said so every one could hear: 'I'll forgive you, Arline, for the way you treated me today.'

"He did it all for show. I have kept silence because I wanted the world to forget the tragedy. I can never forget it, but I do not care for myself now. I am willing to bear further humiliation if it will keep some other girl from going the way my daughter went."

Fog Causes Accident.
Chicago, Oct. 24.—Because of a dense fog, which hung over the south side here this morning, numerous accidents occurred, which resulted in fatal injuries to five persons.
