The City Registration

Registration at the city hall goes merrily on, although not so brisk as last week. About 25 record their names with the recorder each day.

California Has Nearly a Million Legal Voters

Sacramento Cal., Oct. 26.—Figures compiled today by Secretary of State Frank Jordan place the total number of registered voters in California at 988,706. The compilation falls below the estimated registration but exceeds by 200,000 those entitled to vote in 1910, when women were not included.

A Fine Moral Censor

Los Angeles, Oct. 26.—Swearing that Guy Eddie, former moral censor of Los Angeles, made undue advances to her, Miss Ledone Earl, a chorus girl, whose parents live in Petaluma, Cal., is on record today with charges similar to those sworn to by Mrs. Alma Jones, a mulatto.

SALEM HEIGHTS PUMPKIN SHOW WAS A DANDY

The pumpkin show at Salem Heights last night was certainly a bummer. There were pumpkins of all kinds, classes and degrees, except poor or small ones. There were some big ones, too, but they only fitted the crowd, which was one of the biggest ever gathered at the Heights.

Mary Leonard Was First Woman Lawyer in State

Old opinions in the archives of the supreme court show that Mary A. Leonard, the eccentric woman attorney, who died in Portland Thursday, was the cause of an act of the legislature in special session in 1885, making it legal for women to be admitted to the bar in Oregon.

HAD A FINE TIME AT SALEM HEIGHTS

The Ladies Aid of Salem Heights met with great success at their "Pumpkin Show" last Friday evening. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves. The short program was voted "just enough."

Will Mark Beginning of New Era

Representative Business Men from All Sections of State to Meet in Portland Nov. 21--"Home Industries Day"

Portland, Ore., Oct. 26.—Thursday, November 21, will be known in Oregon as "Home Industries Day," by proclamation of Governor West and Mayor Rushlight and other mayors of cities and commercial bodies. On that day the first convention of manufacturers from all over the state will be held in this city, concluding in the evening with a grand banquet given the guests of the city by the Manufacturers' association of this city.

One thousand invitations have been sent out to the manufacturers all over the state, and with a thousand more factories at Portland, great and small, here is material for a rousing big meet of the men who employ 30,000 operatives and produce an annual product of two hundred million dollars.

The program will include an address by Governor West on the importance of home industries, and a response by Mayor Rushlight, who is himself a manufacturer, according to the terms of the United States census, which includes plumbing establishments as factories. There will be addresses by big men on transportation, power, labor and sanitary problems.

The Manufacturers' Association has secured the assistance of Col. E. Hoffer, president of the State Press Association, in the handling of their publicity work. A committee has been appointed to raise a $25,000 publicity fund to advertise the products of the Oregon factories, and with an organization to be known as the Women's Home Industries League, will reach every home for extension of the consumption of Made in Oregon products.

There was never a greater movement started for the uplifting of the state than this one for the extension of the industries. The energies of the state have gone largely into hoarding land values and farm and orchard products, and the time has come for a concentrated movement to place the factory alongside of the farm and fruit tract. The Manufacturers' Association propose to work hand in hand with the state development league, the chamber of commerce and all the live organizations in Oregon. The work is to be carried on broad lines for the development of every industrial center in Oregon, and to plant industries wherever the community wants one, and will offer the proper encouragement.
